

Your Real Estate, Property Tax Bills Are On The Way

by DAVE CRIPPEN

Northwest suburban residents will be receiving their 1970 real estate and personal property tax bills within the next few weeks.

After a delay of more than two months, the Cook County Treasurer's office yesterday began sending out statements to Chicago taxpayers, thereby clearing the way for billing of residents of the county's 30 suburban townships.

Tax rates for suburban communities have not yet been determined by the county clerk's office but Walter Prybylo, tax extension officer for the county clerk, said he would begin computing suburban rates early next week. He estimated that computation would be completed within a few days. Tax bills will then be prepared and mailed by the treasurer's office.

Computation of rates and individual tax bills is done alphabetically by township. Thus, residents living in Elk Grove Township will be among the first to receive their tax bills, and Wheeling Township residents will be among the last.

All tax bills will be out by June 15 with the first penalty date of July 15, officials reported.

MEANWHILE, tax rate increases for communities in the Northwest suburban area are expected to be greater than Chicago's rate, which was set at 9.5 per cent.

Figures already available showed a combined rate increase of 11 cents per $100 assessed valuation for Cook County and the Forest Preserve District, both of whom levy taxes in suburban areas.

Cook County's rate jumped from 42.2 cents in 1969 to 51.4 cents in 1970. The Forest Preserve District also boosted its rate from 6 cents to 7.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The only taxing body reducing its rate, according to the county clerk was the Metropolitan Sanitary District. The MSD's rate dropped from 31.4 cents to 23.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Also contributing to the expected tax rate hike in the Northwest suburbs is the 5 per cent increase in the "state equalization factor." The equalization factor, a multiplier determined by the state to provide equitable property assessment in all 102 counties of Illinois, jumped from 1.51 to 1.59.

Prybylo explained that the new multiplier alone would raise the valuation of a home originally set at $10,000 to $15,900. Similarly, the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 will pay $51.40 in taxes to the county, $7.80 to the Forest Preserve District and $23.20 to MSD.

THE EXPECTED sharp increase among other local tax rates is attributed largely to higher levies by area school districts.

Anticipated collections by Cook County

of all taxes — real estate, personal property and railroad — was set at $65,122,847, an increase of almost $14 million over last year.

Combined revenue for the Forest Preserve District was set at $9.8 million, an increase of over $2 million over the previous year. Projected tax receipts for MSD dropped from $38.1 million last year to $29.4 million this year.

There are more than 189,000 taxpayers in the Northwest suburbs, according to the most recent figures from the County Treasurer's office.

Company Files Suit

Magnet Wire Seeks $2 Million In Damages

Chicago Magnet Wire Corp. has filed a suit against Elk Grove Village seeking $2 million in damages, said Village Mgr. Charles Willis on Tuesday.

The suit is a counter claim to another suit filed in April by the Illinois Attorney General's office to halt air pollution at the Elk Grove Village plant.

The municipality, which authorized its attorney to work in conjunction with the attorney general's office, is named in the counter claim with the attorney general.

EDWARD HOFERT, village attorney, said the village has 30 days in which to respond to the counter claim, filed May 3 in Cook County Circuit Court. The suit was served on the village Monday, though village officials did not learn of it until late Tuesday.

The firm, located at 901 Chase Ave. in Elk Grove Village has been the object of complaints for years by residents who have smelled the odor emitted from the plant.

The firm, located in the community for seven years, manufactures a baked coating magnet wire for use in electrical products.

Last September, executive vice president Anthony Jordan, said the firm was in the midst of a "total environmental program" that would cost from $3 to $5 million and that it was in "no violation of any law."

William Scott, attorney general, charged that the firm emits a gaseous matter into the air, consisting of part of phenolic compounds including cresylic acid.

He alleged the odors were "strong and offensive, causing respiratory irritation and other damage to personal health and enjoyment as well as damage to property."

SCOTT FILED suit in Cook County Circuit Court under his authority to deal with a public nuisance and two Illinois pollution laws.

The suit asked to permanently enjoin the company from polluting the air, seeking penalties of $10,000 for each violation of the Environmental Protection Act of 1970, and up to $1,000 a day for each day the violation continued.

Also, $5,000 for each violation of the Air Pollution Control Act that was in effect until July 1, 1970, and $200 for each day the violation continued.

Completes Tour

Kathy Wing of 120 Essex Rd., Elk Grove Village, recently completed a spring tour with the Hastings College Concert Band. Eight concerts were presented in the five-day tour through Nebraska and Colorado. Miss Wing is a freshman at the Nebraska college.

Cook Students Slate Circus For Tonight

Students at the Daniel P. Cook School in Elk Grove Village will give a circus at 7:30 p.m. today for the school's Parent Teacher Conference (PTC).

The circus, open to the community, will include acts by all grade levels performing in the "Big Top" (the school gymnasium).

Fifth graders will become clowns for the circus, which will include a grand march, skits with audience participation, a circus band by third graders, choral speaking on circuses by fourth graders, and a first grade picnic with teddy bears.

The second graders will tame the "lions and tigers" while the kindergartners walk on the tight-rope and perform acrobatics. Throughout the evening the third, fourth and fifth grades will sing in concert.

Third grade teacher Susan Bennett organized the show, which will highlight the final meeting of the PTC this school year. Ringmaster is Robert Heffley.

MARY CAMPBELL as Princess Winifred is the leading lady in the Elk Grove High School production "Once Upon a Mattress," to be presented at the school at 7:30 p.m. today, and 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. The play is a takeoff on the fairy tale, "The Princess and the Pea."

Public Forum On Teen Center Operation Set Tonight

A public forum to gather opinion on the future operation of the Elk Grove Park District Teen Center will be held at 8 p.m. today at the center, 180 John F. Kennedy Blvd.

The meeting was prompted by a decrease in attendance since the center opened more than a year ago last February, and by parents' comments that they would not let their teens go to the center.

In efforts to know why, the park board scheduled the forum to cull opinion from interested parents and teens before taking action on changing the use of the center.

The board plans to present facts regarding the teen center and its present use, and also staff recommendations for use this summer and fall.

At least 10 residents have contacted the park district to give their opinions on the teen center after hearing about the meeting. Notice of the forum was included in the park district summer program brochure which residents received by mail earlier this week.

THE RESPONSES have not been conclusive about either retaining the center operation as it now is or changing it, according to Sandra Little, recreation superintendent.

The center presently is reserved for teens every night except Sunday and is only used by other groups when teens are in school. It is open to teens from 3:30 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. weekdays. It is also open on Friday and Saturday but attendance on these days has been enough to warrant continued use on these days, according to the park district staff.

The staff, however, has recommended that use of the center on weeknights by teens be restricted in the future because of a decrease in attendance at these times.

Records show that attendance was about 50 to 100 teens after school and about 30 to 70 teens in the evenings between February and May last year. This year during the same period the attendance has been about from 10 to 30 teens after school and 20 to 40 in the evenings.

Questions posed by residents in the past which are expected to be brought up at the meeting, according to Mrs. Little, range from those on building use to the types of teens who use it.

She said people have asked whether their teens will get beaten up if they go to the center and whether it is a "grease" hangout.

DESPITE RUMORS that there has been trouble with teens getting along with each other at the center, there has been little difficulty in this area, according to Richard Ludovissy, program supervisor and a past teen center director.

He said police have been called to the teen center to settle disputes only four times in the past 15 months. He said one of the calls was made by the person in charge of the center at the time, a "gang from another community" gathered outside the center in the adjacent parking lot. The other calls were a result of minor fights, he said.

Although the building was originally designed to be used only by teens, Mrs. Little said she has gradually been filling in the daytime hours with activities for other age groups as requests for these activities are made. She said there is no other park district facility that is available for this type of programming in the daytime.

The activities include preschool, ballet and arts and crafts classes, and senior citizen meetings.

The staff's recommendation is to continue this type of activity and expand it if park district residents concur at the meeting tonight.

Mexicans Deported

Twelve Mexican Nationals were turned over to immigration authorities Friday after a vehicle in which they were riding was stopped for a traffic violation at Elmhurst and Algonquin roads in Elk Grove Township by Cook County Sheriff's police.

The Mexicans, who police said were in the United States illegally, were taken to sheriff's police headquarters in Niles and were to be sent back to Mexico last weekend.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The House reversed itself yesterday and voted to resurrect the SST program with a $85 million appropriation for more development work on the controversial aircraft. The project must get by an expected tough fight in the Senate before approval, however.

The administration urged the federal minimum wage be raised from $1.60 an hour to $2 by January, 1974. The proposal recommended, however, a lower minimum for persons under the age of 18.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has acquired what was termed "one of the world's greatest paintings," for a record sum of $5,544,000. The painting is Diego Velasquez's 1650 portrait of his mulatto assistant. The painting was sold last November in a London art auction.

The World

The American dollar inched upward on the European money markets again Wednesday. It was the second day of small gains for the value of the dollar which sagged Monday when West Germany abandoned its "support" and allowed supply and demand to set the worth of U.S. currency.

In what was called "one of the most significant documents" of his nearly eight years as pontiff, Pope Paul VI's apostolic letter on modern social conditions addressed itself to the modern problems of urbanization and pollution. The Pope called on city leaders to tackle housing problems; called the generation gap a problem "which strikes at the deep roots of society;" and condemns in women's liberation "that false equality which would deny the distinction laid down by the Creator Himself..." The Pope warned, however, that society leaders should not solve city problems by pushing birth control.

The State

College students would be required to bear some of the state costs of higher education under a proposal now being considered by the Illinois House Higher Education Committee. The proposal would require a post graduation contribution — in some cases up to $1,500 — to the state by those who attend state schools which receive state funds. The amount would, in part, be determined by the graduate's annual income. Each alumnus could take up to 15 years to pay his share, but the amount would not exceed $1,500.

Workers of the UAW agreed to end their 100-day strike at the two Sunstrand Corp. plants in Rockford. Production at the hydraulic pump and aircraft parts plant is expected to resume Monday.

The War

High administration officials said yesterday that evidence is mounting that Hanoi may attempt a major military offensive just prior to the October elections in South Vietnam.

The Weather

Funnel clouds skipped through parts of the Deep South and lower Midwest during the past two days while thunderstorms spread from the Lower Great Lakes to the lower Mississippi Valley. Funnel clouds were reported northeast of Champaign.

The Market

Profit taking loosened its hold on the stock market in the final minutes of trading Wednesday and allowed most key indicators to finish higher in moderate turnover. The Dow Jones Industrial Average edged up .21 to 937.46. DJ utilities also climbed but the DJ transportation index lost ground. Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American stock exchange.

Abortion Bill Airing Set

Proponents of abortion reform are bracing for the impact of a decision on May 18, when their HB1552 abortion bill comes up for a hearing before the Illinois House Judiciary Committee.

The bill is sponsored by Rep. Bruce Douglas, D-Chicago. Among the cosponsors is Rep. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights. HB1552 seeks to legalize abortion if performed by a licensed physician in a licensed medical facility within the first 12 weeks of pregnancy.

The sponsor withdrew an earlier bill which extended the deadline to 20 weeks.

"Members of the Illinois Citizens for the Medical Control of Abortion (ICMCA) are working hard for the passage of HB1552," said Mrs. Edwin Smith of Lincolnwood, legislative aide to Rep. Douglas. "A group is going down to Springfield on the 18th to show their support."

A companion bill HB1865 sponsored by J. Horace Gardner (R-Chicago) and cosponsored by Mrs. Chapman will also be heard on the same day. HB1865 takes the abortion question out of the Criminal Code and puts it into the Medical Practice Act making abortion a medical rather than a criminal problem.

MRS. SMITH discovered that the opposition is working just as hard. "We don't expect many Republican votes," she said. "Rep. Henry Hyde (the House majority leader, and a leader in the fight against abortion liberalization), has enormous power."

Mrs. Smith said that she has been busy lobbying for the passage of the abortion reform bill. "The problem I run up against is this," she said. "Some representatives say, 'There should be a new law, but voting for it is asking me to commit political suicide."

Efforts by abortion reformists have met with defeat in the legislature since the question arose. In March HB0043, sponsored by Rep. B. B. Wolfe, D-Chicago, a measure to legalize abortion, also died in the House Judiciary Committee.

Abortion was legal in Illinois for two days at the end of January. At that time a three-member panel of federal judges upheld a decision from a lower court that present Illinois law is unconstitutional. Justice Thurgood Marshall ordered the law reinstated pending a decision from the U.S. Supreme Court.

THE SUPREME COURT has as yet made no decision on the matter.

A hearing on another abortion bill (SB748) with provisions similar to Douglas' bill is pending for October in the event that the Douglas bill is killed.

Al Volz Honored On 100th Birthday

About 50 friends gathered at Northwest Community Hospital yesterday to pay tribute to Al Volz on his 100th birthday.

Volz, who has been in intensive care at the hospital for about five weeks with a heart condition, was wheeled to the lobby of the hospital for a brief ceremony in observation of the anniversary.

The lobby was decorated with flowers donated by Charles Klehm & Son Nursery and a number of cakes. The largest of the birthday cakes was donated by Walter Aronson, operator of The Cake Box, 15 W. Campbell St.

About 100 greeting cards were stacked on the table by the cakes, along with a poster of greetings put together by third graders at Windsor School, and a stack of personal messages to Arlington Heights' oldest citizen from the school children.

Village Pres. Jack Walsh read Volz a personal letter from President Nixon. When he finished, Volz declared "That's wonderful. Ain't that wonderful?"

AMONG THE GREETINGS received by Volz were a letter from the Arlington Beautification Council informing him that three trees have been planted in his honor at the eastern entrance to Arlington Heights on Northwest Highway, and one from Arlington Heights Junior Women's Club which said $100 was donated to the Arlington Memorial Library in his name.

Among those present at the ceremony were Volz' daughter-in-law, Louella Volz, wife of his son, Rex; and his granddaughter, Ann Volz of Glenview. Also on hand was William Meyer, Arlington Heights postmaster from 1916 to 1928 and village treasurer for 25 years during the height of Volz's political career. Meyer, now retired in Albuquerque, N.M., timed a vacation visit to Arlington Heights to coincide with Volz' birthday observance.

Local LWW Members To Take Part In Survey

Members of local Leagues of Women Voters have been asked to participate in a survey on the need for low and moderate-income housing in Cook County.

The study includes sending questionnaires to local employers asking five questions ranging from the number of employees at the firm to salary range of workers and where they live.

"The reason behind the study is to determine whether or not there's a need for low-cost housing," said Geraldine Cosby, human resource chairman for the Palatine League of Women Voters which will begin sending out the questionnaires this month.

"That determination can be made solely on the basis of facts, if the questionnaires are answered," she added.

The survey will be taken of both private and public employers, according to county housing chairman for the league, Phyllis Griffith.

"The results of this survey will greatly benefit our study of housing on the county level and will provide all of us with a more precise picture of the total housing needs on a regional basis," she said.

It asks how many employees work for the firm and gives four alternatives of salary range: $0 to $5,000 to $10,000, $10,000 to $15,000, and $15,000 and above.

Of each salary range the employer is asked to give the number of employees living within the community and the number living outside of a five-mile radius. It also asks for an estimate on how many employees would move into the area, if adequate housing was available at the right price.

Not all leagues of the suburban area have decided to participate in the survey.

As a local project last fall the Des Plaines League of Women Voters conducted a survey similar to the current county-wide project.

OF 40 businesses and industries only 10 responded, according to Mrs. Alice Rothrock, housing committee chairman for the local league.

The responses indicated there were 175 persons in the $8,000 to $10,000 salary range who lived outside Des Plaines, but would move to the city, if they could afford housing.

Mrs. Rothrock said the league intends to continue its study this spring, directing it at public employes.

The Arlington Heights league, serving Mount Prospect and Elk Grove, issued a brief statement of "indications of local housing needs" several months ago which was unrelated to the present survey.

Seek Bike Check Volunteers

Volunteers are being sought to help conduct a bicycle safety and registration program in Elk Grove Village Schools in conjunction with several coordinating groups.

The program is expected to begin in a few days depending on how soon volunteers can be obtained, and will last about two weeks, according to Lt. Harry Walsh of the Elk Grove Village Police Department.

Those sponsoring the program are the police department, Rev. David Crail of the Elk Grove Wesleyan Church; the Jaycees, School Dist. 59 and Queen of the Rosary School.

Walsh said there are about 6,000 bikes in the village and that the program is an attempt to get parents and children to register them.

The children will be given a letter indicating the day they will be expected to bring their bikes to school, where they will view a film on bicycle safety and have their bikes tested. A license will be issued for each bike and pamphlets on safety will be distributed.

There will be no charge for the licensing which will aid the police in returning lost or stolen bikes to their homes, Walsh said.

Adults who would like their bikes tested and licensed can do so at the police station or at the schools.

Festival Chorus Concert Sunday

The Elk Grove Festival Chorus will present its spring concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Grove Junior High School, 777 Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village.

The program will include "Hymn of Praise" by Mendelssohn and selections from the opera "Carmen" by Bizet.

The 80-member chorus residents of Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Itasca, Schaumburg, Palatine and Elgin, presents two concerts annually. The other is at Christmas.

This spring's concert will also include performances by the Elk Grove High School Orchestral Troupe and the Elk Grove Chamber Orchestra.

"Because there will be only one performance it is suggested that requests for tickets be made in advance to Mrs. Jackie Korff at 437-2273. Unsold tickets, if any, will be on sale at the door," Marv Kinney, chorus president, said.

Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

MARY KAY FISHER, a princess, and Bill Cannon, a wizard, are two of the fairy tale characters in this weekends' production of the musical comedy "Once Upon a Mattress," at Elk Grove High School.

Board Will Not Endorse School Bond Referendum

The Elk Grove Village Board has chosen not to endorse Saturday's $10.5 million bond referendum for a high school in Buffalo Grove.

High School Dist. 214 officials had requested that municipalities in the district (Elk Grove, Wheeling, and a portion of Palatine townships; adopt a resolution supporting the referendum.

Buffalo Grove and Rolling Meadows have endorsed the bond issue.

Jack Pahl, Elk Grove Village president, said it is not unusual for the village board not to endorse a referendum though it has done so on occasion.

He said trustees preferred that residents make their own judgment on how to vote.

"THE STANDARD way" for endorsement by public officials, he said, has been for individual trustees to endorse and not the board as a whole.

Most recent issues to be endorsed by the village board include the new Illinois Constitution last fall and the four-township mental health referendum early this year.

Ronald Chernick, at Tuesday's village board meeting, said if the resolution came to a vote he would abstain. He said he did not feel a trustee should tell residents how to vote. The resolution did not come to a vote.

Last week, Chernick said Elk Grove Village had no representation on the school board, a situation that arose following the defeat of Leah Cummins, of 1009 Ridge Ave. in the suburb, in the April school board election.

Tuesday, the village board heard a presentation on the referendum by Fred Klink of Elk Grove Village, and Donald Fyfe, an assistant principal at Elk Grove High School.

Klink said the cost of the referendum would be "quite low," about $4.50 a year for a resident with a house worth $30,000.

"WE HAVE TO try to keep ahead of the kids," said Fyfe.

If the district's eighth high school is not built he said there will be overcrowding in Wheeling High School and John Hersey High School in Arlington Heights.

The district's policy is to limit schools to 2,500 students, he said, noting later that enrollment at Elk Grove High is 2,714 students but is expected to decrease.

Next fall 350 freshmen attending Elk Grove High will be attending the new Rolling Meadows High School now under construction, he said.

Forty per cent of the students at Elk Grove High are from Des Plaines, he said, adding that the percentage will decrease as Des Plaines students are phased into Forest View High School in Arlington Heights.

Klink, a member of a citizens committee for an eighth high school, said enrollment was increasing from 1,000 to 1,500 students a year in the district.

ENROLLMENT IS presently 16,000 students in 6 schools, with 22,000 expected in 1977. The 1980 projection is 25,000.

Fyfe said there are fewer first and second grade students in the elementary schools in the district and that there may be some "relief in seven years."

Asked why the district did not construct additions to present school buildings, he said building contractors have said this is very expensive and that it creates other problems of overcrowding in laboratories, cafeterias, and other classes.

Council Endorses School Referendum

The Rolling Meadows City Council has voted unanimously to support the Township High School Dist. 214 referendum scheduled for a vote this Saturday.

The resolution passed by the council, urged all citizens to vote yes for construction of a new high school in Buffalo Grove "to insure the continuation of the present excellent educational program of the district."

It said the school district has "practiced efficient, long-term planning of schools to insure quality educational facilities at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayer."

Dist. 214 has recommended an eighth high school to be constructed in Buffalo Grove in time for the opening of the 1973-74 school year, if the referendum passes.

Trumpet Recording Star Sets Concert Appearance

Trumpet recording star Rafael Mendez will join students from Dempster Junior High School in their spring concert May 23.

The concert will be held at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Rd., Arlington Heights. The show starts at 6:30 p.m. Tickets, costing $2 each are available from Don Rogers, 88 W. Roxbury, Des Plaines. He is president of the Dempster Band and Orchestra Parents Association, the group sponsoring the concert.

A limited number of tickets will also be available at the door the day of the concert.

Band leader Richard Falato will direct members of the school's concert and jazz bands in several numbers with Mendez as soloist. The Dist. 59 music coordinator Anthony Mostardo will be the guest conductor for one selection.

Four Dempster players will perform with Mendez in one of the numbers. They are Glenn Wennerstrom, Cindy Scaruffi, Steve Ford, and Jeff Rogers.

Also appearing in the concert will be members of the elementary and junior high school orchestras directed by Pauline Curtis, and beginners' and prep bands from Dempster and its five feeder schools: Einstein, Brentwood, Frost, High Ridge Knolls and Devonshire.

Mendez, trumpet player, composer, arranger and conductor, began his musical career when he was a child, traveling with Pancho Villa, the famous Mexican bandit, as a member of Villa's own orchestra. Villa had demanded money and goods from the village fathers at Jilquipan, Mexico, where Mendez lived. The bandit forced Mendez' family to travel with him and perform on request.

For three months, Rafael and his family traveled with Villa. Then Rafael's father got permission to return to his village with all the children, except Rafael, 10 years old at that time. Later, Rafael himself was returned to his village.

When Mendez grew up, he went to Hollywood where he appeared in a number of movies. He has performed in several trumpet concerts and made many television appearances. Mendez has made 12 albums for Decca Records.

Mendez, who rehearsed with the Dempster students last month, said, "They're unusual for their age. I'm looking forward to the concert."

Schaumburg is the end of a long journey; and home now for 10-month-old Korean orphan Tara.

Couple's Family Grows; Korean Tot Is Adopted

by JERRY THOMAS

Tara came to live with her new American family a week ago. The 10-month-old Korean orphan was adopted by the Don Olsen family of Schaumburg through the Holt Adoption Program.

"When we first told our relatives and friends that we were adopting a Korean orphan they asked why?"

"What they really meant, most of the time, was why not an American orphan?" said Olsen.

"I really didn't know how to answer then, except that she needed a home. But since Tara has been with us this past week, maybe I can," said her new father.

"We wanted a baby for such a long time and when I saw Tara being carried off the plane at O'Hare airport I thought she looked like a queen," said her proud father.

"Today, I'm sure she must be, because when I hold her I'm rich as a king," Olsen said. He was not even sure Tara was their child, at the airport, but knew "she was an exceptional baby, beautiful and bright-eyed."

The Olsens have lived at 1111 Sharon Ln., with their other children Cindy, 7, and Scott, 5, for the past two years.

"TARA IS AS MUCH our own as if she was born to us as they were," said Belinda. Olsen the mother as she cradled the sleepy headed baby in her arms. "I wish everyone could see Belinda and Tara now," said Olsen. "She is our baby and what other reason could we give for loving her?"

After only one week in this country Tara has adjusted well to her new family, said Belinda but still confuses days and nights.

Brought up in a foster home in Korea, Tara does not understand English but responds to attention with a joyous smile and grins mischievously when she trails behind her brother Scott or runs after the family pets.

"God was so good to us. He gave us two healthy beautiful children and by adopting Tara maybe we can say thanks somehow," said Olsen.

"THAT'S ONE reason we went to Korea for a baby," said Belinda. There is a greater need to place these abandoned infants in Korea. Belinda said half of all the abandoned infants die before their first birthday.

The Olsens decided over a year ago that instead of having another baby of their own they would make a home for a Korean child.

"We contacted the Holt Adoption Program by writing to P.O. Box 95 in Creswell, Oregon." Tragedy came before happiness for us," said Belinda as she told how the first child they selected died before it could be brought to this country.

"Months of waiting, more than the nine it usually takes, passed before Tara finally came to us." We drove past the airport for 15 months in a row waiting, and saying soon our baby will arrive," said Don.

Paper work takes time but it was all to assure the Holt program officials and this country's immigration authorities that everything was in order. Tara's health had to be excellent and the Holt program officials wanted to be certain she was being placed in a good Christian home.

"WE DO NOT BELONG to a church, but have a strong belief in God and that's what the agency wants, people who do have faith in Christ and where Christ is an important part of life in the home," said Olsen.

"Tara's delivery took a little longer and she cost a little more than our other children," laughed Olsen. "But, as soon as we can afford it, we would like to get another one," he added.

Olsen explained that great riches are not part of the requirement for adoption, but a home and room for the child to share with the family are important. He noted "My job as a mailman with the post office, doesn't exactly make me a rich man."

However, there are costs for the adoption fees and flight from Korea. In the Olsen's case, it cost $687 for the flight fee, and with the addition of lawyers, adoption fees the total cost was approximately $1,000. Holt added that the agency will make arrangements for payment, and charges according to the family's income.

"THAT'S ABOUT what Scott and Cindy cost when they were delivered but, there is no insurance for adoptions," he said.

Belinda babysat in her home to help pay for the costs and Olsen held a part-time job, but now he believes that it's more important that he spends more time with his family.

"Tara, Scott and Cindy may not be materially rich from my earnings but our whole family is rich in so many other blessings," said Olsen. "Now we can share these with our new daughter."

No one can deny Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's right to defend the Chicago Police Department, as he did Tuesday while addressing members of the Illinois General Assembly in Springfield.

But you can deny the accuracy of the vice president's claim that situations in Chicago in 1968 and in Washington, D.C. last week were similar and that the police in the two cities handled the situations identically.

Washington's May Day demonstrations and the police response to them were vastly different from the demonstrations at Michigan Avenue and Balbo Drive during the Democratic Convention in 1968.

We were in Washington last week and we were in Chicago in 1968 covering the Democrats and the disturbances. Although there were similarities — the helmeted police, the troops — the two incidents could not compare with each other, nor could the police reaction.

We will admit we were not as close to the confrontations in Washington as we were in Chicago in 1968. But from what we saw in person, from what the Washington press reported, from the very extensive television coverage provided by Washington stations and from what the demonstrators themselves were saying, the vice president's comparison was far from accurate.

WE DIDN'T SEE — and there were no claims in the press, on television or by the demonstrators — any police brutality.

In Chicago, that was the reason for the criticism of the police. Demonstrators who had already been arrested were beaten into submission by the police as they were led to waiting vans. Newsmen were clubbed, sprayed with mace and tear gas, and in some cases innocent passersby were given the same treatment.

These are the things we saw in person, the press reported and photographed them, the television cameras showed them clearly and the victims claimed that there was police brutality.

It is unfair to the Washington police for the vice president to claim that the situations were similar and that the Washington police handled it the same way the Chicago police did.

The Washington police treated the demonstrations firmly and, if they were guilty of any wrongdoing, it may have been their mass arrests of the demonstrators without pressing specific charges against them.

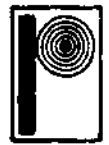

But their objective was to keep the city functioning, just as the Chicago police objective was to keep Chicago functioning during the convention, and the Washington police did it without the violent confrontation that happened in Chicago.

ONE THING MUST be said in defense of Chicago's police. Their confrontation in 1968 was the first of a kind. It was unlike the civil rights demonstrations and small-scale anti-war protests that had occurred before it and the police were not as well prepared to handle the situation as they would be now, or as the Washington police were last week.

A lot has happened since 1968 and it's probably that Chicago's police, as well as police in most other cities, have learned better ways of handling demonstrations, as evidenced by last week in the nation's capitol.

The vice president said Chicago's police deserve an apology from the press. They may deserve a bit of sympathy and understanding for being thrown into a situation they didn't know how to handle but the facts remain that they made many mistakes in 1968 and these mistakes were not repeated in Washington.

Seek To Improve Image Of Salesmen

by LEA TONKIN

A movement is under way to transform the lowly image of the auto salesman to that of a badge-carrying, tax-paying, home-owning family man and professional.

Headed by Leon Cambron of Mount Prospect, the National Automotive Professional Salesmen's Association (NAPSA) launched a drive this week to reach the nation's nearly half million automotive salesmen. Cambron said the group will strive to improve service to the public and to upgrade the image of the automotive salesman.

Cambron, an auto salesman for a Libertyville firm, has worked toward the establishment of such an organization since last fall. He hopes to sign 10,000 members by the end of this year, and estimates that 600,000 automotive salesmen could be initiated within 10 years.

"We have to have membership before we can put our programs into effect," Cambron said. "We want a retirement plan, insurance and other benefits for our members. We want the automotive salesman to have the same standing as other professionals, such as doctors and lawyers. We want training programs that will appeal to young people."

"WE WOULD ALSO like to see the licensing of automotive salesmen. A few states already have this," he said. "This would eliminate the fly-by-night operator and raise the image of the salesman."

According to Cambron, automotive salesmen have been taking the brunt of customer dissatisfaction, a situation he seeks to change. "The salesman's higher status would ease the consumer's mind," he said. "Most people come in now with a chip on their shoulder — they think they are going to be cheated."

"The salesman's biggest need is to know someone is fighting for them and that they have the right to speak for themselves," Cambron said, adding that the new association is not a union. He said there are few women engaged in automotive sales, but they are welcome to join NAPSA.

GEORGE H. WHITE, attorney for NAPSA, said the organization will seek legalization for the licensing of automotive salesmen "to eliminate the fly-by-night and the high pressure operators who have created serious problems for the legitimate salesman who is usually a home-owning, tax-paying, family man."

An educational firm headed by Dr. James L. Miller of Mundelein has been retained to design and conduct training programs for NAPSA members.

The association is chartered as a Delaware, not-for-profit corporation, governed by a board of trustees. The headquarters is in Park Ridge. Inquiries may be sent to Box 615, Park Ridge 60068.

Provision has been made for salesmen in the farm equipment, earth moving, trailer and recreational vehicle industries to join the association.

McDonald's Approves 3 For 2 Stock Split

The board of directors of McDonald's Corporation, the national restaurant chain, recently voted a three-for-two stock split to be distributed on June 11, 1971 to stockholders of record at the close of business May 21, 1971.

The announcement was made at the McDonald's annual shareholders' meeting.

"The increased number of shares will provide a wider distribution of the common stock and broaden the market for it," said Fred L. Turner, president of McDonald's.

Norwesco To Seek Record Donation For Head Start

by SUE JACOBSON

Community support for Head Start — a preschool program for children from low-income families — will be in particular demand all summer when members of Norwesco go to the public to ask for the biggest donation ever sought to run the program.

Norwesco — a local group of residents, public officials, educators and parents — has run the four local Head Start centers since 1965.

Community donations and funds from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare run the four centers, located in Arlington Heights, Palatine, Des Plaines and Wheeling.

"I guess this year will be a test of the community. We're asking the community to support us to the extent of $23,000," said Jane Broten of Elk Grove Village, Norwesco co-chairman.

NORWESCO AND the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows are conducting the joint fund drive. The total goal is $50,000 needed to offset higher operating costs and cut's in federal funding.

The first big indication of community support for the anti-poverty programs will come Sunday, when a "Hike for the Hungry" is held in the Northwest suburbs. Proceeds will go to the center and Norwesco.

The money raised for Head Start from the community campaign will supplement $132,000 that will be appropriated by HEW during fiscal 1971-72.

Outbacks will be made in the Head Start program if the funds cannot be raised, according to Mrs. Broten. Currently the program operates year round, four days a week.

Mrs. Broten doesn't feel that community awareness of Head Start and the need for it has increased greatly since it was started six years ago.

"COMMUNITY AWARENESS? I don't think it's increased much. There are many people out here who don't know we have a Head Start program. And many who don't know there is poverty here," she said.

Dolores Schladt, a teacher at the Arlington Heights Head Start center, feels there is more support for the program than when it first started.

She adds, however, "At the same time, though, there are still an awful lot of people who don't believe that there are some really poor people living out here, because the poverty is hidden among the wealth. You tell people about it and they say, 'You've got to be kidding.'"

Why is Head Start important?

According to Mrs. Broten, it's a means of, "building entire families, of getting the parents involved with their children's education."

DOLORES SCHLADT feels that "our most important function is to prepare children socially for school situations. Many children from low-income families don't have the social adjustment at home. Often they have little exposure to other children. As a result, they are swamped when they enter kindergarten. They need to adjust to a classlike situation. With the Spanish-speaking, there is the need to develop their English."

About 75 per cent of the 100-odd children in the program are Mexican-American, according to estimates by Head Start social worker Bonnie Byrnes.

"Head Start children are happy children from loving families but these families can't give the children the experiences that the higher income families can — trips to the zoo for instance," said Mrs. Byrnes. "We concentrate on developing their self-image by giving them positive things to do that they can't fail at, like working with clay."

Volunteer teacher aids at each of the Head Start centers assist the teacher in the nursery school type activities. Some are parents of children in the program; others are high school students or other interested residents.

Head Start parents also participate in the policy-making end of the program.

A PARENT ADVISORY Committee (PAC) was formed last year at each of the four Head Start centers. Each of the committees includes three regular Head Start teachers and three alternates.

The PAC's meet jointly each month and separately one time also during the month to make decisions relating to their respective centers.

They also work with the Norwesco board of directors to formulate policy and work on the budget.

The PAC's are a new version of the old Head Start education committee which functioned in the early years of the program. Parents served on this committee; however, "Too often this committee was just thought of as a rubber stamp for the director," according to Mrs. Broten.

She feels the new arrangement will be more successful.

"We hope by involving the parents, to guide them to function in a group and learn to make decisions," said Head Start social worker Bonnie Byrnes.

"PARTICIPATION WILL help them build up their self image and give them feeling of importance of being needed."

Mrs. Robert Coddington, Head Start teacher at the Wheeling center and a five-year veteran of the program, said, "I feel it's helpful for parents to participate. Parents can help themselves and their children through Head Start participation. They can supplement at home what we do here."

"The PAC's are showing more interest than before. These people are not as used to solving their problems by meetings and discussions as we are. It is foreign to them. But they are striving. By participation they will get a better picture of themselves. It can help them overcome shyness."

A SWING on outdoor play equipment is one of many school-related activities give these children an extra boost in preparing to enter kindergarten. Teacher aids reduce the teacher-child ratio.

Social Security and You

Q — I RECEIVE checks for my grand-mother as she is unable to manage her own money. She lived with me until last month and then moved to a nursing home. What must I do?

A — You should report the change to the Social Security office. They will discuss the necessary changes in your duties as representative payee. Mainly this involves seeing that all her needs are met as they arise.

Q — MY MOTHER has become so ill she does not know what she does with her money, her bills. Can we do something about this so she doesn't lose her social security check?

A — Yes. You should file to be her payee. If medical evidence shows she needs someone to act for her, you, or some other interested person, could be selected payee on her behalf.

Q — I HAVE a neighbor who I think qualifies for Social Security. She cannot leave her house. What can I do to help her?

A — You can help her in one of two ways. If she has a 'phone help her call the Social Security office to inquire into possible benefits. She won't have to leave her home. If she has no 'phone you could contact the Social Security office for her and someone could go out and see her.

Q — I RECENTLY moved. My check was not delivered on time this month. What should I do to get it delivered?

A — You should contact your Social Security office and give them your new address. Also, contact the Post Office so they can forward your mail. Others may learn from your experience. Be sure to notify the Social Security office and Post Office of any change in address. This is the biggest reason checks are not delivered on time.

Harper College Congratulated For Recent Full Accreditation

The Illinois House of Representatives has honored Harper College in Palatine for its recent full accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

In a House resolution, co-sponsored by third district representatives Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, and Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, the college was recognized for its achievement.

The resolution "extends congratulations to the administration, faculty, students and community of William Rainey Harper College for this outstanding accomplishment."

It also gives credit to Harper for achieving accreditation "without qualification" and "in the shortest possible time, just three and one-half years after admitting its first student and six years after creation of the college district by voters."

Also contained in the resolution was the statement that Harper is the "youngest college in our state system of community/junior colleges to receive full accreditation since the enactment of the Illinois Public Junior College Act of 1965."

In March of this year, Harper officials were notified by the North Central Assn. that full accreditation had been granted. The final step of accreditation concluded a six-year-long process of passing through the necessary steps to accreditation.

'Dandelion Wine' Will Be Presented

A reader's theater adaptation of "Dandelion Wine" by Ray Bradbury will be presented by the Elk Grove High School school little theater.

The production is part of a month of humanities activities ending May 24.

Music will be created by faculty members Diana Anderson, Joe Prendergast and Gerry David. Director of speech, Tom Herrmann is director of the production.

Harper College Board Meeting Tonight

Action Expected On Tenure Question

The Harper College board will act tonight on an administrative recommendation to grant tenure to 31 members of the college's faculty.

The meeting, to begin at 8 p.m., will be held in the board room of the Palatine community college, located at Algonquin and Roselle roads.

In addition, a delay of consideration for tenure for three faculty members will also be acted on by the board.

DURING THE THIRD year at Harper, tenure is granted to teaching faculty members, librarians and counselors. Approval by the board follows an extensive review by various members of the college's administration.

The board will also consider adoption of a calendar for the 1971-72 school, a calendar drawn up with the observance of new state and federal laws on holidays, according to college officials.

If the calendar is approved, classes will begin on Sept. 13 for the first semester, and final exams will run from Jan. 17 - 22.

Classes in the second semester will begin on Jan. 31, and final exams will run from May 30 to June 3.

ALSO THE seven-man Harper board will consider approval of a cooperative agreement to allow high school students in Dist. 211 and 214 to take special classes at Harper.

The school boards of both districts have approved the document, which allows selected students to take, for high school credit, introductory courses in health occupations and engineering technologies.

The board will also consider hiring 17 new faculty members to fill open teaching positions at the college.

The Selective Tossing Of Junk

by BRAD BREKKE

There's a story about a frog named Bonk who jumped into a very deep hole and couldn't get out.

For days he jumped and jumped, but succeeded only in skinning his shins on all the junk clinging to the mud walls.

Finally one day, another frog happened along called Zonk.

"Why don't you hop out of there?" asked Zonk.

"Hole's too deep," croaked Bonk. He was beginning to like the hole and regard it as his new home.

"Wait a minute... I'll get you a ladder," cried Zonk.

And away he went. When he returned with the ladder, he found Bonk leaping around on top as if nothing had happened.

"How'd you get out of there?" asked Zonk.

"Oh," chuckled Bonk, "a snake crawled in with me."

Two days later Bonk was back in his hole, jumping to get out and croaking for Zonk to help him again.

Some guys never learn. And others won't move and mean business until they have to or perish. Cleaning out old drawers is that way with me.

Somewhere in every hole, there is a "hole" or drawer which serves as a catch-all for items which have no special place in the world... but are still special in themselves.

It is a large drawer and is chuck full of old junk, but not really, or else why would you keep it?

Everyone is entitled to a junk drawer, except maybe those who are super efficient, lack space or have moved more often than they like to remember.

Junk drawers contain every imaginable item in the world, provided it is small enough.

It is said that if you keep something long enough, no matter what it is, someday it will be worth something. Even junk. Or as someone else defined it, junk is something you throw out two weeks before you need it, so the items in your junk drawer, which you're saving, can't possibly be junk.

Suburban Scene

Complicated, huh?

Anyway, the snake crawled into my hole when I couldn't stuff any more junk into my drawer and had to throw "some" of it out to please my wife.

Selective junk tossing is permissible, however, as long as you do it carefully and go easy. It's sort of like pruning a tree so certain branches don't get in your way when you're cutting the lawn. But cut the tree down? Never!

It's incredible some of the things you find in a junk drawer — things that haven't seen the light of day in years. Nothing valuable, but each with a sentimental attachment to it and as you sift through the items, you will soon discover each has a separate story of its own to tell about you.

Some people go through their old junk drawer with full intentions of cleaning it, but instead daydream for a few hours and then put it all back, just like a set of Tinker Toys, exhausted at the thought of deciding which must go and which must stay.

In a way, it's like paging through an old family photo album. Seeing the past through a collection of junk.

What kind of junk?

Here is a partial list of some things I found in my drawer:

A signed photo of Dick the Bruiser, assorted swimming medals, old golf balls, a former sweetheart's charm bracelet, an acorn from Michigan, a yo-yo, a good luck coin, old letters and bills, post cards and a handmade Father's Day card from my daughter a few years ago, a ticket stub for the Music Man which played at the Shubert in 1959, an expired driver's license, a compass, a magnifying glass, a pretty rock, PFC stripes and other Army insignia, a check book from a bank in Aspen during my bumming years... and ad infinitum.

Now, how could a guy throw any of that stuff out?

If you were to ask me why I saved it this long, I can't tell you. Some items go back 20 years. And if you were to ask me why I'm still saving most of it, I can't tell you that either.

All I know is there's something about old junk that makes it extremely difficult for me to part with, almost like it's made of gold. Fool's gold, perhaps but still gold.

Luckily, drawer space in our home isn't that critical, yet. But even when I was in the Army living out of a duffel bag, I had a cookie tin full of little trinkets I carried around with me.

Saving junk is a delightful kind of disease.

And those who have it are usually the same ones you'll find at auctions and rummage sales, picking through someone else's attic and cruising through their neighborhood at midnight, after a spring clean-up, to see what the folks up the street are tossing out that they might want.

But you have to move quickly and have a keen eye for good and bad junk. Many times the garbage truck is just minutes behind you. Here's where advance scouting pays off. And the dividends can be handsome.

One man's junk is another man's fortune, so they say.

Anyway, if your wife give you static about saving junk, or tries to force you to empty the junk drawer, as if it were a dirty ash tray, so she can fill it with dish towels...

Justify your actions. Lie, promise, cheat. Anything.

Padlock it, if you have to, and tell her you might be famous someday and then your junk will bring a great price and be put in a museum where it will be properly admired for centuries.

And if you must clean the junk drawer, go easy.

Remember, it takes years to collect good junk.

Try Feeding Your Family On Pride

I am writing in regard to the "Speak-out" that appeared in the Herald May 7, 1971.

To Mrs. Spalis: "Policemen should be proud of what they are doing and not think so much of money or other benefits."

Mrs. Spalis, try feeding your family on Pride. My husband is proud of his job, just as the rest of the policemen on the Rolling Meadows force are. When my husband joined the force, he did because he felt that he could be of service to the public as a police officer.

Each time he helps a person in distress, or rushes someone's injured or sick loved one to the hospital, or, yes, even when he gives out a traffic citation, he feels he has helped the public to the best of his ability.

If it wasn't a matter of pride in his job and helping the community, do you think he would stay on? His pay certainly wasn't the deciding factor for his becoming a police officer. The deciding factor was that he could help in a small way to make this world a better place to live.

If you would check with City Hall, Mr.

Heldman, you would find that the Rolling Meadows Police have written at least FOUR TIMES as many speeding tickets as they did the previous year. I challenge this newspaper to check on these figures.

Opposes Ban On Motorized Vehicles

To Mr. Heldman Jr.: "... the city police department should improve itself in upholding the law before worrying about a union... (police) are right now doing a very bad job with speeding violators."

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

Cook County has been fortunate in having officials who were far sighted enough to buy up hundreds of acres of land for forest preserves in all sections of the county. Many of the newer acquisitions are only old fields without a tree on them, but the potential is there. Four years ago, the county bought a 25 acre pumpkin field at the corner of Routes 12 and 58. People were permitted to ride snowmobiles here in the winter and mini bikes and go-carts in the summer. Since it was the only area where these vehicles were legally sanctioned, it soon became extremely popular.

Suddenly this spring, with elections safely behind, a large sign has been erected: "No motorized vehicles permitted."

Motor bikes, go-carts, and snowmobiles are here to stay. When properly used, they provide pleasant family recreation. Isn't it time that the county officials realized the popularity of these vehicles and the rest of this country stop treating its police officers like they are second-class citizens. Don't you???

Mrs. Bruce G. Murphy
Rolling Meadows

and provided more areas for their use under proper regulations and supervision?

Cook County is to be commended on a acquiring recreation property, but shouldn't it be used for all types of recreation?

Easter Thank You

Please may we take this opportunity to thank our friends for all the lovely things that were done for the residents and staff of the Addolorata Villa during the Easter season.

The lovely table and tray favors, the various baked goodies, the individual gifts for the guests all helped make life a great deal happier for those living here. Our birthday parties, which are sponsored by various clubs in this area, are looked forward to with great anticipation. Also our shopping trips to Randhurst and Golf Mill wouldn't be possible without the wonderful people who volunteer their time.

Since it will take up too much space to thank each person or group individually, I will do it this way.

Tax Amendment Passage Vital

Those frustrated and perplexed over the worsening problems surrounding the current delay in Cook County tax bills can find some small cause for rejoicing in the committee action last week on an amendment to the state Revenue Act.

With uncommon consensus, members of the State Senate's Committee on Local Government unanimously recommended passage of a measure to set up an "installment" plan covering payment of annual taxes collected by the county. Tax payments would be spread out over the year on a bi-monthly basis, beginning Jan. 1, with amounts of the first three installments estimated and those of the last three based on the actual levy.

The plan was first proposed by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne last February following reports that tax bill would be as much as 60 days late. We subsequently gave his proposal our support and urged vigorous steps towards legislative action.

It is apparent Dunne and his staff moved quickly and decisively in preventing the measure to the lawmakers. Likewise, it appears obvious the senate committee shared with county and local officials the sense of urgency stemming from the incredible hardships caused by the tax-bill debacle.

Now we can only hope the General Assembly recognizes the importance for swift approval of the amendment. If any of the lawmakers have any doubts, they would do well to take another look at the tax problems in Cook County to find out what has developed during the past few months. They would find the situation is far worse than had been anticipated.

Facing the worst tax delay by the county in recent history, local units of government, particularly school districts, have been forced to issue more tax anticipation warrants to continue day-to-day operations. And they do so at the cost of badly needed funds to pay interest on the warrants.

Cook County school districts will pay approximately $600,000 in interest because of the current tax-bill delay. Even more alarming is the fact that combined interest paid by all local taxing districts is expected to reach $6 million.

This ridiculous, unnecessary expense should evoke anger from each taxpayer, for in reality, it is his money being used to finance Cook County's failure to meet the deadline.

Likewise, local taxing districts have every right to be outraged. And we suspect they are if the apparent mood of area school districts is any indication.

Saturday, Northwest suburban elementary and high school officials will meet to determine what can be done about the tax-bill problems. It has been reported they will even consider suing the county; though it appears such action would produce nothing more than hefty legal fees. Whatever is decided, a permanent answer to the problem is not expected.

Cook County needs action to eliminate, once and for all, tax-bill delays and the resultant fiscal imposition. And the bill now pending before the legislature offers the means to achieve that end.

The only opposition to the measure we can visualize might come from financial institutions, who stand to lose a nice source of income with the need for tax warrants markedly reduced. But we cannot believe the elected officials would let these interests override the public welfare.

We think it clear that the General Assembly has little choice but to pass the Revenue Act amendment. To do otherwise would be tantamount to dereliction of its responsibility.

It is a predicament both for those looking for employment and for potential employers. If an "overqualified" person finds a lesser job, he can no longer devote all his time to seeking employment in his own field. And the man who hires him is fearful that he will leave just as soon as a better-paying job comes along.

It's as though a plug had been pulled on the economy, and a lot of talent is going down the drain.

State's Abortion Law Discriminatory

Last month Illinois Representative Bruce Douglas introduced the final abortion repeal bill for this session. House Bill No. 1552 will go before a 20-member judiciary committee on Tuesday, May 18.

This bill, if passed, will permit abortion in Illinois within the first 12 weeks of pregnancy by a licensed physician in a licensed hospital or other licensed facility.

My church (Lutheran — Missouri Synod) opposes non-therapeutic abortion, but I feel that I should not and any church should not impose a code on those who do not have the same belief. Let's give the women in Illinois who feel that they need an abortion an opportunity to make that choice, at least until there is a more perfect form of birth control other than sterilization or abstinence.

Please write your Illinois representatives today and ask them to forward your letters to the Judiciary committee. The present law discriminates against those who cannot afford to make a trip to another state or another country to get a legal abortion, forcing them to either give birth to a child they don't want or to seek an illegal abortion. As citizens we must choose which of the three is the best for those involved; legalizing a realistic abortion law, unwanted babies, or dangerous illegal abortions. What other choice is there?

Business Today

by BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration's bid for a new law paving the way to expansion of a federal farm credit program now appears headed for easy approval on Capitol Hill.

The Senate Tuesday passed the administration bill without argument. In the House, a spokesman for Rep. Robert Price, R-Tex., sponsor of the House version, said he was hopeful of action in the lower chamber Agriculture Committee as soon as that panel disposes of pending bills on sugar and pesticides.

The Nixon-backed credit measure would liberalize a farm operating credit program run by the Agriculture Department's Farmers Home Administration.

The program offers short and intermediate-term "farm operating loans" to help farmers finance annual production expenses like seed and fertilizer costs, and some longer-term investments in livestock and machinery.

UNDER EXISTING LAW, the loans — $275 million a year — are made with Treasury funds. Because any increase in lending would mean a bigger federal deficit, White House officials have refused to seek any increase in the budget despite the fact that demand for the loans has been running well above the current ceiling.

Under the new administration bill, however, the FHA would halt the use of taxpayer dollars for farm operating loans and switch to a program of government-insured lendings. Under this system, which is already used in most other FHA lending programs, the agency makes the loans with funds from private investors.

Nixon recently announced that if the bill becomes law, he will recommend an increase in the farm operating loan lending ceiling — a step which could be taken without tapping the Treasury till since all the funds would come from private lenders.

Administration sources say the White House is expected to approve a $350 million farm operating loan program — $75 million above current levels — if the new bill passes as expected.

The measure also includes a second liberalizing feature. The limit on individual farm operating loans, now set at $35,000 per farm, would be boosted to $50,000.

A rider on the bill, meanwhile, would also convert Agriculture Department lending programs for watershed development and resource conservation and development projects from direct Treasury lending to insured loans.

Aluminum Recycling: Valuable Asset

Every time a housewife tosses an old, scratched coffeepot into the garbage, she is adding to the solid waste disposal process.

This coffee pot and thousands of other used aluminum products would end up crowding the landscape with an increasing amount of solid waste pollution, if not for the recycling industry. Aluminum products do not rust or disintegrate after they have been discarded.

Today, the aluminum recycling (or smelting) industry — consisting of about 90 plants across the country including Apex Smelting Company, headquartered at 2400 E. Devon Ave., Des Plaines — is reclaiming from this solid waste material in excess of $500 million in aluminum annually, or better than one million tons that would otherwise remain indestructible aluminum scrap.

THROUGH THE continued efforts of this industry, aluminum is being returned to casting manufacturers and other industries as a vital source of supply. Often, it is alloyed in brand new, problem-solving mixtures, supplying — from what otherwise would remain ugly waste material — more than one-fifth of the country's total aluminum needs.

Pollution experts around the country concur that efforts of the aluminum smelting industry are necessary to help solve any solid waste problems aluminum might otherwise cause.

According to the Aluminum Smelters Research Institute, an industry group, the metal casting industry has also greatly helped in the elimination of litter and solid waste by developing an ever-growing list of products for this reused metal.

Sharply reducing weight and simplifying production, aluminum die cast components have contributed to the sales appeal of a wide variety of products including business machines, street lights, tennis racquets, military hardware, vending machines, tape recorders, projectors — the list is almost endless.

Spurring product designers to take increasing recognition of the versatility of "secondary" aluminum, the Aluminum Smelters Research Institute sponsors an annual "Aluminum Die Casting of the Year" contest. Winning second place in the 1970 contest just concluded was an ingenious product — a seat belt reel and latch.

THE LATCH, mounted in an auto's roof, allows a shoulder belt to be reeled in and let out as the driver goes through all of his normal movements. But in the event of a sudden impact, the reel instantly locks and restrains the driver.

Products like this have the potential for saving lives, and others are contributing to leisure time and business activities. They are "reincarnations" of scrap and discarded aluminum appliances which an entire industry is salvaging from our countryside.

In fact, since 1930 — long before pollution became a concern of the general public — aluminum smelters have reclaimed and recycled nearly 15 million tons of this important metal which rain, wind, sun and time together would never have eliminated from our landscape.

Ask The IRS

Q) AT WHAT rate should I pay Social Security tax on my maid's wages for the first quarter of 1971?

A) — The combined rate for 1971 is 10.4 per cent, 5.2 per cent each for the employer and the employee.

The 5.2 per cent rate should be used when filing your Form 942, Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees, for the months of January, February, and March. The deadline for filing this return and paying the tax is May 3.

Q) — MUST I pay Social Security tax for the woman who occasionally cleans and babysits for me?

A) — If you pay an employee $50 or more in cash wages in a calendar quarter for household services, you must pay social security tax for the employee.

Household services include those performed by cooks, cleaning women, babysitters, and handymen.

The taxes apply to all cash wages paid during the quarter, regardless of when they were earned and whether they were paid by the day, the week, or the month. Food, lodging, and car-fare are not considered wages unless cash is given for these items.

Use Form 942, Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees, to report this tax. The form and instructions are available at your local Internal Revenue Service Office.

Q) — LAST YEAR some of my employees who had large itemized deductions on their Federal income tax requested additional withholding allowances on Schedule A (Form W-4). Is there an expiration date on Schedule A (W-4)?

A) — Yes. On May 1 of each year you should discontinue the additional withholding allowances for each employee who has not filed a new Schedule A (W-4) together with a completed Form W-4 qualifying him to extend the allowance for another year.

Q) — I AM an alien working in the United States. I plan to return to my home this summer. I am told I must get a "sailing permit." How and where do I get this?

A) — The "certificate of compliance" popularly known as a "sailing permit" is an income tax form that must be obtained by most aliens before their departure from the United States. Generally you must file a Form 1040C or Form 2063 to get a "sailing permit."

The permit should be obtained from the District Director of Internal Revenue for the district in which you are located.

Additional information, including a list of papers that you might need when you apply for your permit, is available at your local IRS office. Ask for Publication 519, "United States Tax Guide for Aliens." Employees at your local IRS office will also help you to complete your forms if necessary.

You should obtain your "sailing permit" at least two weeks before departure but not earlier than 30 days. DON'T WAIT UNTIL THE LAST MINUTE

Consumers Are Optimistic

Northwest suburban consumers expect a strong improvement in business conditions during the year ahead.

Continental Bank today released results of 400 telephone interviews conducted among northwest suburban area families in April. The poll asked about personal incomes, business conditions, family spending habits, auto sales prospects, and vacation plans.

The bank's survey indicates a strong upward shift in consumer confidence. Among the families, only 8 per cent see business conditions better today than one year ago. However, when looking ahead one year, 42 per cent of the families see business conditions improving.

When asked about their personal finances, 77 per cent said that they were either the same or better off than one year ago. When this same question was asked in January, only 67 per cent said that they were either the same or better off.

The poll asked about rising consumer prices and which single item caused consumers the most worry. Seventy-one per cent of all respondents cited the same worry: the rising cost of food.

ONLY 44 PER cent of all those surveyed reported following a budget. However, among those who reported keeping budget records, the cost of food was watched more closely than any other item of family expense.

Ten per cent of all those surveyed said that they planned to buy an automobile this year. Suburban residents were more than three times as likely to buy an automobile as city residents, the survey reported.

Standard size autos were the favorite among the survey group; 52 per cent favored buying this size car. Of the cars to be purchased, U.S. made cars are favored by 96 per cent of buyers.

To pay for their autos, 34 per cent of the surveyed consumers said they would use a bank loan. Cash came next in popularity, with 21 per cent of the replies.

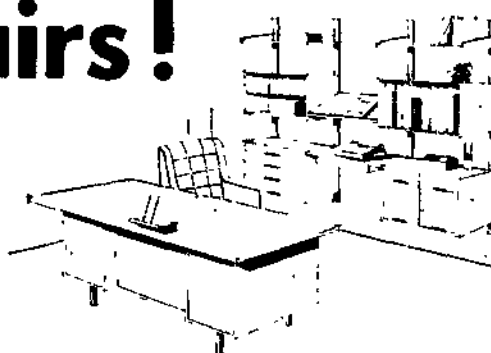

About half of those surveyed said that they planned to take a vacation this year. More than nine out of every 10 of the vacation-planners said that they would travel outside Chicago. Of all respondents who plan to travel on their 1971 vacations, 36 per cent said that they would go by air for at least part of their trip.

Five ballots, meanwhile, were marked for NBC-TV's production of Arthur Miller's "The Price," starring George C. Scott who was also the headliner. Five which Scott was also the headliner. Five votes were cast, as well, for Peter Ustinov's improvised performance in CBS-TV's "A Conversation with Lord North," in which he answered Eric Sevareid's questions as the 18th Century British prime minister who simply did not understand America's rebellion against England's colonialism.

The Hollywood Scene

by Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There is a credibility gap between the television academy and the everyday viewer who pays television's freight.

What the blue-ribbon committees select as television's finest programs are at definite odds with what the public at large enjoys watching.

During the past year the Nielsen ratings — which need be somewhat accurate — listed among the top 20 shows "Marcus Welby, M.D.," "Gunsmoke," "Here's Lucy," "Ironside," "Adam-12," "The FBI," "Mannix," "My Three Sons," "Mod Squad" and "Bonanza" just to mention a few. None won an Emmy.

WITH FEW exceptions popular series were ignored. "All in the Family," "The Flip Wilson Show" and "Mary Tyler Moore" — all new this season — scored a handful of awards.

Members of the blue ribbon committees are largely kept secret. But clearly their tastes do not jibe with the American viewer.

It is to the high-flown, intellectual, provocative programs they give their votes and Emmy awards.

Perhaps because television is the mass entertainment medium and regularly abused as low-brow, the blue ribbon committees feel compelled to raise the video image through their awards.

But their attitudes may very well be unfair to the weekly toilers in the field: The writers, directors, actors and producers.

THE NATIONAL Academy of Television Arts and Sciences presents Emmys for "outstanding achievement." This is not to say the awards made this year were not outstanding, or that the shows were undeserving. It does appear, nonetheless, that shows which have survived a decade or more are not given much consideration, if any.

The motion picture Oscar, on the other hand, more often than not reflects popular taste of the public, i.e., "Patton," "Midnight Cowboy," "Oliver," "The Sound of Music," "My Fair Lady" and all the rest.

For whatever reason, the best movies coincide with public taste. Conversely, the Emmys seldom do.

Bake Sale Slated

The bake sale, sponsored by the Elk Grove Village Jaycees, will continue throughout the day until all items are sold, according to Mrs. Stephen Lewandowski, publicity chairman.

Rupley Principal Awarded Degree

Ronald J. Glovetski, principal of Rupley Elementary School in Elk Grove Village, has been awarded a doctor of education degree in educational administration from Illinois State University at Normal. He has been a principal and teacher for nine years in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59.

Glovetski, of 629 S. Highland, Arlington Heights, received his bachelor of arts degree in 1957 from the University of Mexico and a master of arts degree from Illinois State University in 1961.

Veterans' News

Q — I AM a Vietnam serviceman hospitalized pending discharge. I recently applied for vocational rehabilitation, and understand I will be rated for service-connected disabilities by the VA before I am discharged. Will this rating set the one year period that I will have to apply for service disabled veterans' insurance?

A — No. The one year allowed for applying for service-disabled veterans insurance begins with the date of the first notice of disability rating sent to you by VA after discharge.

Q — ARE THERE any income and credit requirements a veteran must meet in obtaining a VA loan for a mobile home?

A — No, there is no set income requirement. The terms of repayment of the loan, however, must bear a proper relationship to the veteran's or serviceman's present and anticipated income and expenses, and he must be a satisfactory credit risk.

Q — MAY A veteran who is receiving compensation from the VA arrange to pay a policy loan on his National Service Life Insurance out of this monthly benefit?

A — Yes. It is a most convenient and relatively painless way to accomplish this repayment. VA Form 29-888, Insurance Deduction Authorization, available from any VA office, should be completed and sent to the office which has your insurance records.

Landon's Nobody's Loser

BY TOM TIEDE

TOPEKA, Kansas — (NEA) — It was 1936. The presidential elections. Franklin Delano Roosevelt against somebody with a sunflower button named Alf Landon. Roosevelt had an uphill climb. The polls, the pundits and most of the newspapers supported the challenger from Kansas. Then the people had their way. And when the nation was through listening, Alf Landon had been surprisingly defeated.

The vote — 323 electoral votes to eight. "Well, harrumph," Alfred Mossman Landon, now 84, going on 50, will tell friends. "I'm a strange duck. I'm a lawyer who never had a case, an oilman who never had a million and a presidential candidate who carried only Maine and Vermont."

Some say the man is one of history's great losers. They are wrong. Landon himself is the proof. "If I'd been elected," he says, "I'd be a dead man today."

So instead, thanks to all those votes that didn't want him, Landon is alive and well and living in charming elegance here in Topeka. His manor comprises 40 acres on the edge of town. His home is an imposing structure supported by eight gigantic frontal columns and shaded by trees such as they don't grow any more.

INSIDE, Alf sips bourbon and water and talks, what else, politics.

"Now, this here Vietnam thing," he says. "I think the President's got it under more control than many people think." He gets up from his green velvet chair and paces back and forth to get the juices flowing. "Let me tell you what I think. I think Vietnam isn't going to be a political issue in 1972."

He lets that sink in. And continues:

"Now McGovern is going around using the war as his big stick. I see where Muskie is starting to do the same thing. McGovern has been doing it all along." He pauses sips. "Well, I think they're in for a surprise. I think the President is going to have Vietnam cooled off by 1972. He's withdrawing the troops. The public knows this. So by the time the next election rolls around McGovern, Muskie and the rest may find they are beating a dead political horse."

Landon smiles. Nods. And, satisfied, he sits back down.

HERE IS A WONDER, this man. A loser? Humbug. Twice governor of his state, adviser and confidant to numberless national leaders, one of the original Bull Moose (progressive) Republicans, he is one of life's great winners. Politics, he says, was merely an avocation. It wasn't as necessary as bringing in a wildcat oil well (he freelances in the business) or informing the public (he owns three radio stations) or even getting on a horse every morning (he does) and riding over to the spot where the sun first warms the moisture from the grass.

He has life figured out. And he figures it's a plus. Granted, times are tough, "but every generation feels they go through the worst period in history." Certainly, the Union is shaky, but "it's always been shaky and it's always managed to survive." And sure, society is bizarre, yet "our people are more committed today than I've ever seen them and that's the greatest hope for the future."

Optimistic? Why not. The old man has seen it all and knows most wounds inevitably heal. He has been, at one time or another, the most important figure in his state and the biggest laughing stock in his nation. He has been poor and rich. He has outlived three wars and hopes to add a fourth soon. He is worn and slowed but he refuses to concede. "New thoughts," he says, "that's what's kept me alive. I've always got something cooking. I think life is to live."

SO HE DOES live it. In a home so magnificently comfortable it supports a harp, unashamedly, without embarrassment, right in the middle of the drawing room. With a good wife, a yappy dog and a maid that makes the best cherry pie in the West.

He's out of his chair again and pacing. A new thought. His twill riding breeches rub with a rustle. His high black boots squeak on the faded print rug.

"Now, what about Connally?" he asks himself.

He means John Connally, former Democratic governor of Texas, friend of Lyndon Johnson and now serving President Nixon as secretary only because he'd be good at the job.

"No one can tell me Connally was named Treasury secretary only because he'd be good at the job. There's something else behind it." The old man's hands ram into his back pockets. "I'll tell you what I think. I think Nixon knows he needs Texas in the next election. I think he knows Connally can get Texas for him." Another pause. More pacing. "And you know Lyndon Johnson had to agree to the whole thing." Landon sits down. Takes a breath. "I think it's possible that Nixon has picked Connally to be his next vice-president. And if he has, it'll be a master stroke. What will the Democrats come back with then?"

HE TALKS, the old man, late into the evening. Analyzing, adding up, subtracting. He tells his stories slow, using names of the famous. "Say," he interrupts himself from time to time, "you want another drink?" A loser? Not Alf Landon. As he crosses his legs in front of him and lazily closes his eyes, he says: "I've been blessed with everything I ever wanted — well, almost anyway."

BBB Warns Homeowners On Phony Improvements

Chicago area homeowners, particularly senior citizens, were recently warned by the Better Business Bureau to take caution in contracting for home improvements.

"This is the time of year," said Earl R. Lind, president of BBB Chicago, when itinerant repairmen, glib door-to-door salesmen and hard-sell mail order firms descend on unsuspecting homeowners.

Lind said recent complaints verify that their specialties include roofing, gutters, driveways, chimneys, siding, "miracle" paint, car ports, patios, window frames, "fast growing" shade trees, termite control, furnace inspection, and lightning protection devices.

These are highly proficient confidence men who came completely armed with temptations, bargains, tricky financing, poor performance, inferior materials, and phony promises," Lind asserted.

The BBB president said consumers should not be confused with representatives of reputable firms, and urged homeowners to please check with BBB before contracting for any kind of work to be done by firms or individuals unknown to them.

"IN DEALING with these itinerants," Lind said, "the only thing the homeowner can be certain of is the bill. It will be higher than quoted and, once paid, the traveling fix-it man disappears."

Lind, whose bureau provides more than 1,000 instances of service daily to consumers and businessmen in the metropolitan Chicago area, advised homeowners to:

1. Be skeptical when a man rings the bell and says he just happened to be passing by with his home repair equipment or gardening supplies.
2. Double check so-called bargain offers before committing themselves.
3. Obtain price quotations from established firms on all landscaping or home improvements.

4. Make certain you understand all written agreements and contracts before signing.

5. Be sure the firm or person you are doing business with has an address and telephone.

6. Pay only by check or money order rather than cash.

7. Check the company or individual with BBB if it is unknown to you. This information is offered without charge. BBB/Chicago is located at 430 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

Tickets On Sale For Charity Dance

Tickets are now on sale for a charity dinner dance helping the Summit School, an educational institution for children with learning defects.

Sponsored by Delta Airlines Pilots' Wives, the dance will be held June 18 at Villa Olivia in Bartlett. It will begin at 8 p.m. with cocktails being served at 6:30 p.m.

Proceeds for the dance will be used to furnish a classroom in the new Summit School building in West Dundee. Tickets will cost $20 per couple and may be purchased by calling Mrs. Al Durham in Dundee at 428-6061.

The public is invited to attend.

Delta Airlines Pilots' Wives are a group of women in the Northwest suburbs who joined by their husband's occupation, meet socially once a month. In addition to engaging in fun activities, they also help the Summit School as a community project.

Pilots' Wives has been assisting the school financially for the past year.

Local Girl Performs In Gymnastics Meet

Jan Richards of Mount Prospect recently competed in the Fourth Annual Women's Intercollegiate Compulsory Gymnastic Meet at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb.

Jan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richards, of 503 Na-Wa-Ta Ave. Jan, an elementary education major, also attended a three-day seminar at the Lorado Taft Field Campus, NIU's outdoor teacher education center.

In Crack Outfit

Technical Sgt. Donald L. Carlson of Rolling Meadows was a member of the 55th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron when it received the Military Airlift Command Blue Pride Award recently.

Carlson is an aircraft propeller repairman with the squadron, which is stationed at McClellan Air Force Base, Calif.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Carlson, 2415 W. South St.

some employers, who have listed summer job openings with the ISES. These employers will have first choice in interviewing and selecting young applicants from the thousands who will be seeking jobs when school vacations begin.

Employers hire high school and college men and women for many job spots, chiefly as vacation replacements. They prove their worth for completing tasks undone or postponed because of manpower shortages. They meet anticipated fall and winter demands, and requirements for special or temporary projects, as well as in seasonal occupations.

PAST EXPERIENCE has shown employers that many of these young people have specific training and skills. They have talents and aptitudes which make it profitable to hire them. They have initiative, adaptability, and a sincere desire to gain work experience. Many employers select their permanent help and even future executives from alert and ambitious teenagers who "got their feet wet" for the first time working on summer jobs projects.

The question of what work 16 and 17-year-olds may perform under federal and state laws probably is asked more frequently than any other in connection with summer employment.

Young people, 16 and 17 years old, may work fulltime in most jobs that are not considered hazardous or detrimental to their health and well-being. They can work in most manufacturing jobs, stores, offices, and in-service occupations such as dry cleaning shops, hospitals, laboratories, laundries, recreational facilities, repair shops and restaurants where no liquor is served.

They may work as helpers on motor vehicles if they are inside the cab, or as drivers of such vehicles provided they carry a valid driver's license. They also may operate automatic signal passenger and freight elevators which have interlocking doors.

Since the State Employment Service does not refer anyone under 16 years of age for employment (the young job-seeker is required to submit proof of age when being interviewed), employers are assured that applicants meet the necessary minimum age level.

Youthful veterans who are in school or planning to enter in the fall will be given top priority in summer job placement. Veterans' preference is a long-established policy with the ISES.

It is anticipated that, as in previous years, employers in the metropolitan Chicago area will be able to place their job orders simply by calling one central telephone number. In other localities, employers can list summer job openings or obtain information about the program by calling the State Employment Service office serving their area.

Viking Theme At New Restaurant

A Scandinavian interior decor carries out the dining theme of the new Viking Table Smorgasbord Restaurant in Rolling Meadows.

The restaurant, 4015 Algonquin Road is in the Meadow Square Shopping Center. Owner Brian Johnson designed the interior decor, which includes the use of old Scandinavian patterns, and a nautical theme. Oars are used in a wall screen and pictures depicting several hundred years of the history of Viking ships are clustered on the walls.

The foods served at Viking Table include Scandinavian dishes as well as a variety of American and foreign dishes. "We also serve beer in a pitcher or wine in a carafe," said Johnson. "We serve California wine which lends itself to this type of eating."

The new restaurant is open seven days a week. A total of 289 persons can be seated in the dining areas.

Mrs. Margaret Chinberg is manager of the Viking Table Restaurant.

GEORGIAN STYLING characterizes the Homestead model at the Charlemagne development in Northbrook. The four bedroom house is the most popular model in the Kennedy Brothers development. A double garage and basement are featured.

Combination Of Features Cited

A Georgian brick home, called the Homestead, is one of the last four homes available at Charlemagne, the community of homes being completed by Kennedy Brothers in Northbrook.

The Homestead model accounted for over 50 per cent of sales during the past year at Charlemagne. Prices of the various Charlemagne homes range from $52,600 to over $100,000.

Bill Jenkins, sales manager at Charlemagne for Kennedy Brothers, attributes the popularity of the Homestead to a combination of features rather than to any single factor. These include the Georgian interior zoning and the expandability of the floor plan. The house has four bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths.

The entry foyer of the Homestead gives direct access to each room. The dining room and the living room are located on opposite sides of the foyer.

The traffic pattern of the home is continued by having the living room adjacent to the family room. Both rooms measure 19 feet x 13 feet 3 inches and are separated by bi-fold doors. The family room features sliding glass doors leading to the rear garden, a brick fireplace and an oak floor.

A garden-kitchen, 17 feet 10 inches x 11 feet 9 inches, features fluorescent dropped lighting inset into rough-sawn cedar beams; sliding glass doors; island cabinet; appliances and wood cabinets.

A laundry/mud room, 17 feet x 5 feet 6 inches, is located next to the kitchen and has direct access to the garage.

Upstairs, the bedrooms and family bathroom are located off a central hallway. The master suite features a bedroom, walk-in closet, separate dressing room and private bathroom.

Walk-in closets are in all family bedrooms in addition to closets in both the upstairs and downstairs hallways and the laundry room. A basement provides more storage areas.

Charlemagne is located on Dundee Road (Route 68) in Northbrook, models are open daily.

Realtor Week Is Announced

This year's observance of Realtor Week starts May 23, announced Kenneth M. Gunstons, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

For a new show in real estate, see your Realtor. It is the theme of the event. Gunstons and the board is joining with more than 94,000 Realtors across the country in calling public attention to the services offered by Realtors. Copies of the book "America We Love by Laraine Davis" are being presented to local libraries for public use.

Only a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and one of its more than 1,000 constituent boards can identify himself as a Realtor. Gunstons said. As such, he or she subscribes to a code of ethics and has access to educational facilities at local, state and national level. Gunstons said that under the articles of the code, a Realtor pledges fair treatment to both buyers and seller of real estate.

Realtor Week will continue through May 29, Gunstons said. The slogan this year emphasizes the fact that Realtors are the professionals in real estate.

Home ownership is enjoyed by more than two-thirds of the families across the nation, Gunstons said. Increasing home ownership by low income families is a goal of NAREB's Make America Better Program, he said.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards was founded in 1908. Maintaining offices in Chicago and Washington, it furnishes Realtors with information on real estate developments, mortgage conditions and economic trends. The Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors was founded in early 1944 and joined NAREB in August, 1941.

United Opening Apartment Homes

United Development Co. recently held a grand opening celebration at its Village on the Lake residential development in Elk Grove Village.

The new $22 million project will include more than 700 condominium units and a lake. It is located on Bieslerfield Road between Arlington Heights Road and Rt. 53.

Four furnished models, priced starting at $18,950, are open in Village on the Lake. A fifth residential site is under development by United.

Other United developments now in construction are The Park of River Oaks, a condominium apartment complex, and Village Green, a cooperative townhouse complex in south Cook County. St. Charles on Cherry Creek in Hazel Crest and Chateaux of Champaign adjacent to Oak Brook.

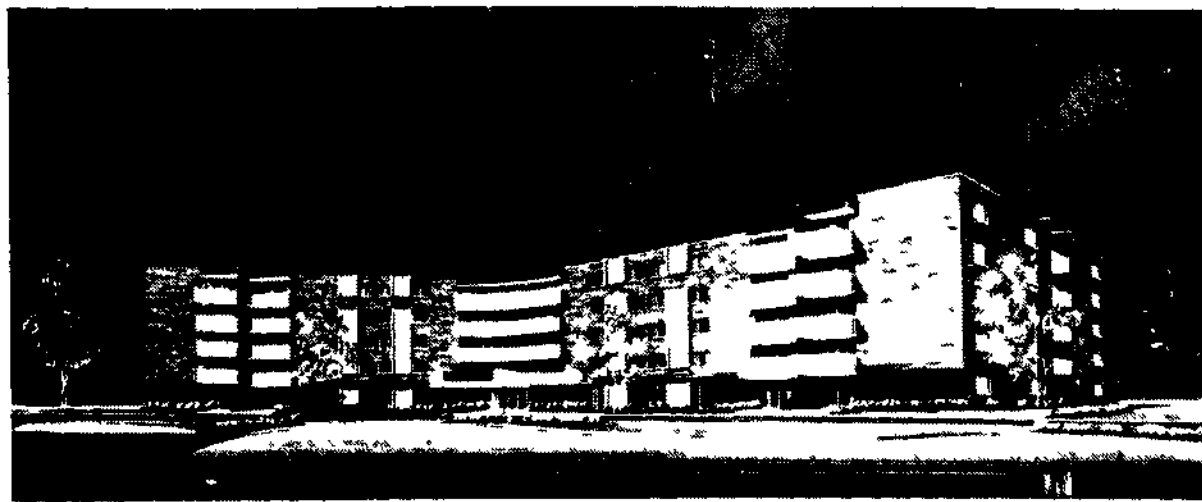

The Elk Grove Village complex brings to nearly $100 million the cost of the United program now under construction.

In Village on the Lake, United offers not only recreational opportunities with a swimming pool and 35-acre lake but also convenience to shopping centers, community facilities, schools, expressway system, commuter railroad and O'Hare Airport, country clubs and golf courses.

Fred Peterman, vice president of United, said each owner of a condominium apartment home also will own a share of the lake, and the early buyers, at least through Memorial Day, each will get a sailboat with his purchase for use on the lake.

Peterman said the recreational atmosphere of the development would be further enhanced with tennis courts, an extensive landscaping program being carried out by Theodore Brickman and Co., and the adjacent 2,000-acre Ned Brown Forest Preserve, with its many activity areas.

As part of the first phase of development, Inland Robbins Construction, RECREATIONAL FACILITIES are available to buyers of condominium units at the new Village on the Lake project in Elk Grove Village. The complex includes a swimming pool, a 35-acre lake and tennis courts. Balconies dominate the facade of the five-story building, now completed. It is a project by United Development Co.

Inc., is building three-story and five-story apartment buildings, the pool and tennis courts.

Peterman said the first one and two-bedroom units would be available for occupancy in July in the three-story building. Other units in the five-story building will be ready for occupancy later in the summer.

"In this development," Peterman said, "United has worked out a plan to move people in quickly and conveniently and save them money on such things as kitchen appliances.

"United is providing not only extensive landscaping, which saves the home buyer money, but also self-cleaning ovens, dishwashers, disposals and refrigerators.

"The living room, dining room and bedrooms will be carpeted, each apartment home will be air conditioned and there will be convenient storage space and laundry rooms."

In addition the development will have an exterior maintenance program that will free home buyers for more recreational and leisure time activities. Village on the Lake is being developed in an area surrounded by townhomes in the $30,000 to $40,000 category. Some near by areas for single family detached homes have lots priced in the $20,000 bracket.

Twenty property sales in Mount Prospect topped activity in the mid-spring Elk Grove township real estate transfer report from Cook County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen.

There were 12 sales in Des Plaines, 11 in Arlington Heights, and 27 in Elk Grove Village and the rest of the township.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

Builders Set Condo Review

A seminar designed to fit the needs of those interested in all aspects of condominiums will be held on Friday, May 28 at the Regency Hyatt House, Rosemont. Sponsored by the Condominium Committee of the Home Builders Association of Chicago, the day long sessions will begin at 9 a.m.

Questions and answers about condominiums is the seminar theme, according to committee chairman Harry Wogman. Experts in the field will discuss financing, management and other topics.

Over 15,000 units have been sold since the Condominium Property Act of Illinois became effective in July of 1963, and the constantly growing acceptance of the Apartment Home concept has become a phenomenon that deserves a great deal of thought and review by all builders, said Wogman.

Reservations for the seminar can be made by calling Ronnie Murtaugh at the home builders office 782-8657.

Record-Breaking Sales Announced

Paul & Warner, Inc. Chicago area real estate firm, posted the best first quarter, one month and March sales results in the company's 11th year history.

John I. Hall, senior vice president and general sales manager, reported that for the three months ended March 31, the firm participated in 848 sales with a gross sales volume of $40,805,718. Sales production was 34 per cent greater than the same units sold in the first three months of 1970 and dollar volume was 68 per cent higher than the $24,333,576 for the same time period.

Even more significant than the comparison with the depressed first quarter of 1970 is the sharp improvement over the same period in 1969, when we had the best year in our history with a total dollar production exceeding $131 million. Hall said. Our sales production so far in 1971 is 20 per cent ahead of 1969, when we sold 706 units and dollar volume is 24 per cent higher than the $32,895,192 for the first quarter of 1969, he said.

Following a pattern established in January and February, the best months respectively in the firm's records, Baird & Warner chalked up more than 700 sales in the month of March for the first time in its history.

Hall reported 138 sales participations in March, 34 per cent ahead of 22 sales in 1970, while dollar volume of $9,957,828 surpassed last year's $10,470,797 by 52 per cent. According to Hall, the sales participation figure represents the best one month production in the company's history, while dollar production for one month was second only to $16,022,204 recorded in May 1969. May is traditionally the best month of the year in real estate sales, he said.

The continued strong recovery of the real estate market is especially reflected in sales of single family homes, Hall said. Sales in this category were 56 per cent ahead of 1970 figures and almost 26 per cent ahead of 1969. The company, which operates 27 sales offices in the Chicago area, tallied 711 single family homes this year compared to 468 in 1970 and 581 in 1969.

"We came into 1971 with goals of 3,000 units and $150 million and that caused some gasps in our sales organization," Hall said. "But if we merely project our average results for the first three months generally the slowest quarter of the year, we would reach 3,144 sales and more than $163 million. We'd have 2,916 sales of single family homes alone, almost enough to reach our goal."

Kindwall Elected Company Secretary

At a meeting held on April 22, 1971, the Board of Directors of Daniel Woodhead, Inc. Northbrook, elected Ronald D. Kindwall to the office of secretary of the corporation.

Kindwall, who resides in Arlington Heights, retains his position as comptroller. He will be based at the Northbrook headquarters of the corporation, but his duties will also take him to the offices of the subsidiaries in Belvidere, Ill., LaGrange and Stoney Creek, Ontario, Canada.

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS

FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING
REAL ESTATE SERVICE

The LOCATION of your home! Certainly, there are many important factors to be considered when selecting a home. One of the most important is the actual LOCATION of the home in relation to conveniences, shops, schools, parks, transportation and future development and growth of the community.

Two practically identical homes can be priced quite differently and although there can be no obvious difference in the style, space and condition of the homes, usually the home that has the better family location will obviously be worth more.

Location is just as important to the worth of the home as the actual interior and exterior features of the home. Your local MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate offices know the value of location and they make it a point to always show home buyers the advantages (and disadvantages) of various home locations. MAP Real Estate Salespeople know the Northwest Suburbs well... they can point out the many advantages of the area and the many lovely locations that make living more comfortable and convenient.

Writer Has Been Everywhere; Prefers Chicago Area

by BRAD BREKKE

There are simple men and then there is Richard Dunlop.

A travel writer and author, Dunlop is a bottomless chaser of information about sophisticated places in the world such as Moscow and Paris and Athens and remote areas such as North Burma.

But he also says the Chicago area is the most exciting place to live and relates his life style to the simplicity of nature, by becoming aware and involved with it.

Dunlop, 49, of Arlington Heights, has just finished his most recent book, "Great Trails of the West," and it will soon be available at local book stores.

On May 29, he said he will be autographing copies at the Hilltop Book Store in Arlington Heights.

"THINK OF THE great trails . . . of the trader caravans to Santa Fe, of the Spanish friars trudging the road to the California missions, of men, women and children and covered wagons toiling along the migrant trails, and of dashing stagecoaches and the Pony Express," reads an excerpt from the book.

Dunlop is a seasoned traveler along the great trails of the West. Over a period of five years, he and his family hiked, drove or rode over the routes of the trails which played a prominent part in the opening of the American territory west of the Mississippi. He parked their camper at night where wagon trains bivouacked on the Oregon trail; set up tents where roadbuilders had camped along the Mullan Military Road; and sometimes ate and slept in inns which have survived from the frontier past.

In this account you will travel with Dunlop from the beginning of the Santa Fe trail in Kansas throughout the West. He has interwoven into each chapter, along with his observations, historical background and anecdotes of adventure, humor, hardship, tragedy and courage.

In one chapter about the Chilkoot Trail, Dunlop and five Boy Scouts from Troop 333 in Arlington Heights, backpack up an old pass used during the Alaskan gold rush in 1898 to get to the Klondike.

"WHEN A SCOUTMASTER teaches his boys such Scouting skills as first aid, how to use a map and compass, or mountain hiking, he scarcely thinks they may have to use them to rescue him, but before I was to get safely out of the wilderness, the Scouts sleeping peacefully at my side were going to call on all their training and ingenuity. Each one of them was to take a long stride toward manhood. I was to learn what it must have been like during the days of the gold stampede to be sick and weary on the Chilkoot Trail," Dunlop wrote.

"I always wanted to be a writer. As far back as I can remember, I've done many other things, but writing is what I like," said Dunlop.

He says it is a 24-hour a day job and even when he is not busy on a story or book, he is still working. "You have to be totally involved with life and people and the things around you," he said.

Dunlop's career began just before World War II when he went through Northwestern University. In 1942 he left school for the Army and was given his journalism degree while he was in China. Later he went to Burma where he served in General Donovan's OSS (Office of Strategic Services), the predecessor of the CIA.

Dunlop said while he was in Burma he worked closely with the Kachins, a primitive mountain people in the north, as guerrillas behind Japanese lines and later wrote a book about it.

After the war, he went back for a master's degree in journalism at Northwestern and began writing for magazines as a free-lancer.

"I'VE WRITTEN something for almost every major magazine there is and many that aren't around any more. Magazines are on the decline now, so I've been getting more and more into books," he said.

Dunlop is the author of several books, including Doctors of the American Frontier and the Rand McNally Vacation

Guide, and is co-editor of the Texaco Touring Atlas. His articles have appeared in such magazines as Reader's Digest, Saturday Evening Post, Today's Health, Better Homes and Gardens, Southern Living and Popular Mechanics.

He also has written for travel sections of large newspapers and has won several awards for his writing. A member of the Author's League and Society of Midland Authors, Dunlop is also president of the Society of American Travel Writers.

As a travel writer, he has visited 50 countries in the last seven years. He says there are only about 1,000 people in the country today who make their living solely as free-lance writers and some say it's really more like 400.

Dunlop says during any one period he might have 12 magazine assignments he's working on, plus a book. His latest book was supposed to be done in three years, but it took five.

"Editors want you to be on time, but they also want an outstanding book. I used to get little notes from my editor on this one saying 'My, my, what can the matter be?'" he said.

In the course of writing a book, Dunlop does a frightening amount of research at the Newberry Library on the near North Side and the Chicago Public Library in the Loop.

"THERE'S QUITE A difference in reading for research and reading for pleasure. You have to read fast for research and it's hard work," he said.

All but one of his books has been non-fiction and he says he has plans for several more, including some novels. He says one he plans to do is about the OSS and he will have to travel all over the world to look people up he has on a list from the war and interview them.

Dunlop moved to Arlington Heights in 1965 with his wife, Joan. They have four children, three sons and a daughter, and live at 1115 Mayfair.

Memorial To Company B; Vets Chapel Soars For Cause

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

"If those who died can, in any measure, become a symbol that will arouse all mankind and bring about a rejection of the principles which defile, debase and destroy the youth of the world, perhaps they will not have died in vain." — Victor Westphal, Ph.D., father of a boy who died in Vietnam.

EAGLE NEST, N.M. — (NEA) — Toward evening, on May 22, 1968, the men of Company B, 1st Battalion, Fourth Marines, Third Marine Division were vibrant and alive. They were on a search and destroy mission north and west of Con Thien. Which in Vietnamese means "Place of the Angels." The terrain was rolling hills, heavy underbrush and laced with hedge rows.

At 5:19 p.m., Lt. Vic Westphal, leading the first platoon, had no premonition of danger. A minute later he was dead, killed by a bullet through the head. At precisely the same moment, Lance Corporal Charles Kirkland, a radio operator standing at the lieutenant's side, was also killed.

They had been caught in a murderous ambush of pistol fire, small arms, light and heavy machine guns, light mortars and grenades by an enemy they never saw.

In the initial burst of fire, 11 men of Co. B were killed instantly and 27 were wounded, of whom two more were to die before night shrouded South Vietnam.

THE WAR in Vietnam has been like no other. It has stressed body counts and troop numbers and statistics. It has depersonalized the soldier. There has been little glorification of those who gave their lives, which may sound like an archaic phrase in these cynical times but which is the only way to describe the young kids of Company B, volunteer Marines.

"Their parents may be bitter about it now," says Co. B 1st Sgt. Thomas F. McKinney (retired), "but the kids were not bitter when they went into action."

Victor Westphal is a parent, a small man, bald, who participated in three Pacific landings for the Navy in World War II. He has built a chapel on a stark, lonely hillside in New Mexico so that people will know his son and those alongside him died for cause. He doesn't judge the politics of the cause, or even its justice. He knows he has a dead son, buried in a military cemetery in Santa Fe, N.M. He wants his memory preserved. To the senior Victor Westphal, the cause was peace and brotherhood.

"There is some commotion today when you say peace and brotherhood," notes Westphal, who is not traditionally religious, "of protest. This is not a protest. If I found out the person who killed my son, and he in turn had been killed, I would put his photo in the chapel."

The chapel soars serenely against the blue New Mexico sky. Ted Luna of Santa Fe was the architect, commissioned by Westphal. Two wings arc downward from a 64-foot high spire. Tucked behind it in the distance is the still white peak of Mt. Wheeler, at 13,161 feet the highest point in New Mexico. U.S. Highway 64, running through fabled Cimarron to the east and Taos canyon on the west, curves around the base of the knoll which bastions the gull-like memorial. The structure is relatively small but startling.

On this day, Westphal, a respected historian in New Mexico, is coating the concrete floor with the help of his son, Douglas. Doug is an air force lieutenant on leave. For three months last year he flew support missions from a base in Thailand. He could have avoided the duty, as a sole surviving son. You wonder how he feels about Vietnam.

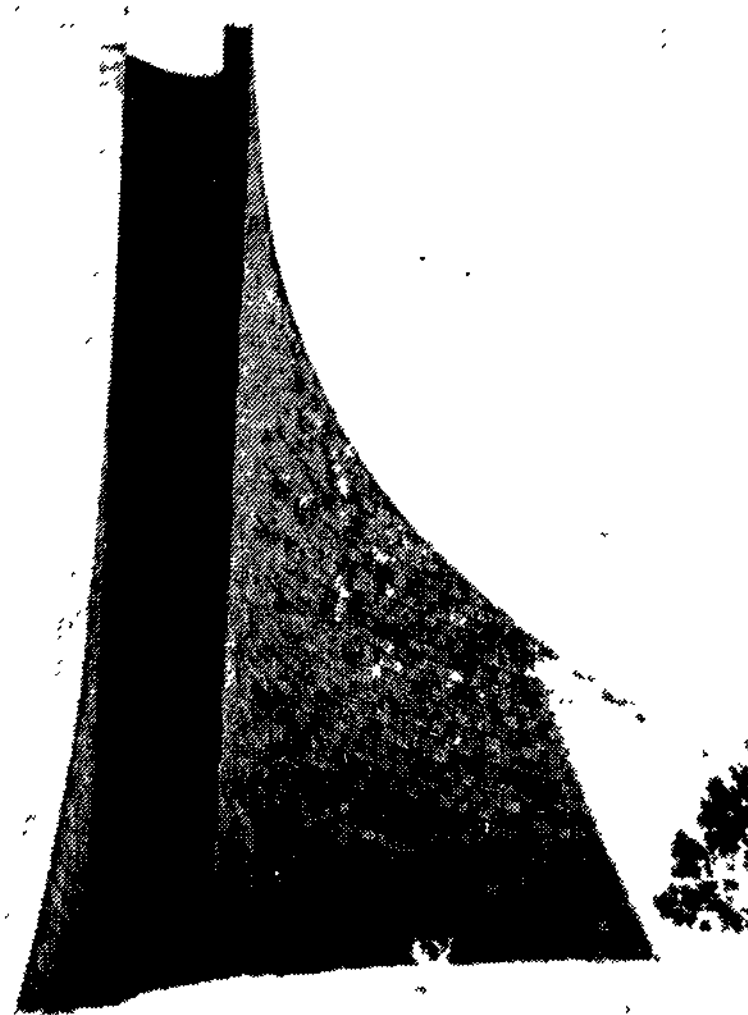

"I'M NOT SURE what I feel," he says seriously. "I'm not sure what the truth is."

His father is puzzled by the apathy and suspicion encountered in the three years since he conceived and started building the chapel, a great deal of it with his own labor, most of the funds derived from insurance money left by his dead son. Even survivors of others in Vic's unit have been wary of his intent.

On May 22, 1971, it will be officially dedicated. The work isn't complete, such as full coating on the exterior walls. Westphal isn't sure where the money will come from to maintain it. He's worried.

"It has been nerve-racking in the time consumed and the frustration of scrounging," says Westphal, who is not a rich man. He sold the 800-acre Val Verde ranch in the middle of this valley but kept five acres for the chapel site. He handled letters, in green and white, a wood sign overlooking the highway: "Vietnam Veterans Chapel." No other identification. He has spurned help from Vietnam war protest groups. Last summer more than 5,000 visitors from 30 different states stopped to look at the work in progress.

"A professional dancer from New York came by," says Westphal. "He grabbed me by the shoulders and started to cry and said, 'It's all so beautiful.' Then he grabbed a pick and shovel and worked with me. He came back two times later. "It could be morbid, but it isn't. There's almost a joy about it."

VIETNAM VETERANS Chapel — Out brotherhood of a war like no other . . . peace and

'These Weren't Just Numbers...'

EAGLE NEST, N.M. — (NEA) — Tom McKinney was a 42-year-old Marine first sergeant in this third war that day in 1968 when his company was ambushed in a Vietnam area called The Barrel. "When you went in there," he says, "you knew you were going to get hit."

He was 500 feet away when 13 men of Co. B, 1st Bn., Third Marines were killed. Most were not born when Tom first served on Guadalcanal in 1944. He identified their bodies. He knew them all as living people.

Now retired after 25 years service and living in Oceanside, Calif., he is in accord with Victor Westphal's project to have them remembered as they were — young, eager Americans — through a chapel on a solitary New Mexico highway — consecrated to the sacred purpose of peace and brotherhood among all mankind.

In building the chapel, Westphal designated a wall to display the pictures of 13 American soldiers killed in Vietnam. At Christmas 1970, from McKinney, he learned for the first time that in the action which took the life of his son, Victor David Westphal III, 13 men were killed. They were from 13 different states.

At the May 22 inaugural dedication of the Vietnam Peace and Brotherhood Chapel here on Highway 64, three years to the day they died, these are the men to be remembered.

Capt. Robert Harris, Russell, Ky. — Ex-school teacher, company commander, he was two days overdue to go home. Men of Co. B had already given him a going away watch. He stayed for the operation because no other grade officers were with the unit. His watch was never found.

Lt. Victor David Westphal, Springer, N.M. — University of Montana graduate, he was 28 and in his second four-year hitch. He received his permanent commission just the week before. He wrote poetry and his memory inspired the building of the chapel.

Sgt. Roger Boyd, Sparta, Ill. — He had been in Vietnam once before, as an Army machine gunner. Home in Illinois, he joined the Marine reserves and requested active duty because he was "tired of the stuff going on in the United States."

L/Cpl. Charles Kirkland, Kennett, Mo. — Son of a minister, freckle-faced kid-next-door type, he joined up "to get the war over." He was 20.

L/Cpl. Alejandro Diaz, Brooklyn, N.Y. — He spoke Spanish better than English. Only two weeks before he was killed, he asked for a six-month enlistment extension so he could get a 30-day leave home.

L/Cpl. Jerry A. Longtime, International Falls, Minn. — The other kids kidded him about his John Wayne slouch. He was 6-4 and gangly. He was a draftee who chose Marine duty. Only six weeks short of his 20th birthday, he had been in Vietnam eight months.

L/Cpl. Rolando Hernandez, Corpus Christi, Tex. — He joined the Marines because his brother was in. Whenever an extra beer on extra food was to be found, Rolando found it. He was resourceful.

Cpl. Denver S. Berkheimer, Streetsboro, Ohio — The previous October he was shot through the neck and received a Purple Heart. At 21, he had 76 days of service remaining but wanted to re-enlist. The day he was killed, this stanza was in a poem he wrote home:

"Through the rain, muck and mud, Never knowing when our body will thud Upon the soft ground where we run, From a hidden sniper's gun."

Pfc. William Hamacher, Gloucester, N.J. — He was the platoon funny man who kept everybody laughing. But he joined the Marines because his cousin, also a Marine, had been killed in Vietnam. In service less than a year, he was 18.

Pfc. Clyde Hamby, Hayward, Calif. — "You would have sworn he came out of military school," said his first sergeant.

PFC. RAY WILLIAMS, Atlanta, Ga. — He was one of two blacks among those fatally wounded. He was a quiet, unobtrusive boy.

Pfc. James R. Joshua, Gadsden, Ala. — He was 20, in Vietnam six months. His mother has only one photo of him, taken at Paris Island. He had completed the 10th grade in school. He was slow-spoken, slow-moving, and a typical Marine.

Pfc. Davis R. Brown, Winter Park, Fla. — Just turned 18, he was the youngest man in the company. They put him in headquarters "to keep him out of trouble," but he kept pushing for front-line duty as a machine-gunner. And got it.

Those are mere footnotes to the lives of 13 young men. McKinney, who doesn't want to see Americans in Vietnam any longer ("I've seen too many good young men die there"), supplies the epitaph to their existence:

"They weren't just a bunch of numbers. They were people." To be remembered.

Summer Sports Broadened

AT LAST ATHLETES have been given the opportunity to improve themselves in sports outside of the high school arena without having to worry about eligibility problems.

This has come about by a recent interpretation by the Illinois High School Association's Board of Directors recently concerning By-law A-121 which it passed in January.

The Board, according to the IHSA official organ, The Illinois Interscholastic, passed this amendment to give students who wished to engage in summer sports activities a greater latitude in doing so.

This amendment went into effect immediately so that athletes could take advantage of it this summer through the participation in coaching schools, sports camps, recreational programs and other sports activities.

The Illinois Interscholastic magazine recently published a question and answer type interpretation of the amendment. These interpretations should help clear up any problems athletes might have.

1) Question . . . Is the Aug. 1 termination date applicable for coaching schools in all sports?

Answer . . . No. The Board has ruled that an Aug. 1 termination will be required only for coaching schools in football for 1971. Coaching schools in all other interscholastic sports will be permitted to extend until Aug. 15.

2) Question . . . May a high school student attend a specialized basketball or football camp under the provisions of this By-law?

Answer . . . Yes, provided it is held between the conclusion of school in the spring and Aug. 1 (for football only — Aug. 15 for all other sports), and provided no faculty member from his high school is on the instructional staff of the camp during the time he is in attendance. The same policy holds true for all other interscholastic sports.

3) Question . . . May a student attend a coaching school at which a faculty member from his high school is employed in a non-instructional capacity?

Answer . . . Yes. The By-law restriction applies only to the involvement of faculty members as instructors at coaching schools. Therefore, a student may attend a coaching school where one of his school's faculty is a director, a counselor or employed in some capacity other than as an instructor.

4) Question . . . May a student participate in a summer school class offered by a member school in which instruction in one or more sports is provided by a member of the high school faculty?

Answer . . . Yes. The Board has ruled that high school sponsored summer school classes are not to be considered as coaching schools, provided they are not restricted to high school students who have been certified for athletics. Therefore, the provisions of this By-law do not restrict the structure or operation of summer school classes, and students may participate even if the class is taught by a faculty member from their own school.

5) Question . . . May a student participate in a community recreation program which employs a faculty member from his high school as an instructor?

Answer . . . Yes. The Board has ruled that a recreational program sponsored by a park district or other community agency is not to be considered as a coaching school provided it is not restricted to high school students. Therefore, when they are not members of a school squad in any sport, students may participate in such a program without violation.

6) Question . . . May a student participate in a sports camp program which requires an equal amount of instruction in at least four different sports?

Answer . . . Yes. The Board has ruled that such a program is to be considered as a diversified sports camp, rather than as a coaching school. Therefore, students may participate in these activities even in cases where faculty members from their own schools may be involved as instructors. Diversified sports camps may be held at any time during the summer months.

7) Question . . . Under what conditions may a student receive individual private instruction in an interscholastic sport?

Answer . . . In the Board's interpretation of Note 4 (regarding private instruction), it has held that a student may receive individual private instruction during the school year provided he is not a member of a school squad in any sport at the time of receiving the instruction and provided the instructor is not a faculty member at any IHSA member school. During the summer months, he may receive such instruction provided it is not given by a faculty member from his own high school. It should also be remembered that "individual private instruction" must be both individual (instructor and pupil working in a one-to-one relationship) and private (isolated from others who may receive even incidental benefit through observation or listening).

8) Question . . . May a student participate in a non-school competitive program such as one sponsored by an AAU, YMCA or community club, in which a faculty member from his high school is serving as a coach or supervisor?

Answer . . . Yes, provided such a program does not involve only high school students who have been certified for athletics. Such programs may be conducted either in the summer or during the school year when students are not members of any school squad. Specifically, this means that students may participate in track clubs, swimming clubs, etc., during the school year or summer, when they are not members of any school squad.

Note, however, that By-law A-121 prohibits such activity in football and basketball for students who were members of their school's squad in these sports at the conclusion of the season. Such programs will not be considered in violation of the post-season participation provisions included in the recent amendment to By-laws A-11-15, 17 and 18, nor in violation of the provisions of By-law A-121.

The IHSA office asks that if there is still some specific question that was unanswered, athletes should consult officials at their particular school. They, in turn, can then contact the IHSA office in writing for additional information.

Cardinals Rally To Oust Lions; Conant, Wheeling Capture Titles

Conant and Wheeling marched into regional tournament play and Arlington gained a district championship showdown with Forest View yesterday in tournament baseball play.

Conant claimed the Barrington District title with a 2-0 victory over Fremd, and Wheeling took top honors at Lake Forest with a 10-0 thumping of Deerfield.

Arlington rallied to oust St. Viator and the Cardinals will now play host Forest View today at 4:15 for the district championship.

Conant won the Barrington district championship on a six-hit shutout by lefty John Macdonald, 2-0 over Fremd.

Macdonald relied on a deceiving curve and pinpoint control as he walked only two, struck out six and put down Fremd threats in the fourth and sixth innings.

The only runs came in the first and third innings, but neither scored on a hit. The second was unearned against Fremd righty Doug Pettit, who was making his first start of the season. (The Vikings' two regular hurlers, Mark Wicklund and Rick Peekel, had been used the previous two days.)

Pettit also pitched well, giving up just five hits, one earned run and one walk.

Bill Arkus, Conant's leadoff batter in the first, walked and moved up on Dave Valerio's bunt single. Arkus stole third and scored after a throw to second that caught Valerio trying to steal.

Daryl Drew scored the other run in the third after he and Valerio singled. Drew scored on an overthrow past third following Valerio's hit.

In the Fremd fourth, Dave Wicket sham and Pettit singled and moved to second and third on Gene Bell's sacrifice bunt but were stranded. The Vikings loaded the bases after two outs in the sixth on another hit by the hot Wicketsham and walks to Pettit and Bell, but all three were left on.

Tony Fricano's double to right field capped a six-run Wheeling rally at Lake Forest Wednesday and allowed the Wildcats to go home a little earlier than expected with a 10-0 victory over Deerfield for their second district baseball title in a row.

The game was halted in the fifth inning by a ten run tournament rule after Fricano's bases loaded two-bagger sent a pair of 'Cats scampering across the plate. They were Wheeling's ninth and tenth tallies and coupled with Dwaine Nelson's shutout pitching produced the second Warrior setback at the hands of Ron DeBolt's crew this year.

Nelson didn't look quite as effective Wednesday as in some of his previous outings but that might have been prompted by his distance-going stint on Monday which qualified Wheeling for the finals. Deerfield hit the ball well but their four safeties were well scattered by the lanky senior as he fanned four and yielded no walks.

The Wildcats on the other hand got to the Warrior hurler immediately. He passed Bert Newman and Jim Kass to lead off the game and an out later Tony Schuld ripped a single to left bringing them both in. Dan Tonnancour dumped a double into left moments later and Schuld also scored.

In the fourth another run came in when Nelson beat out an infield hit, stole second, went to third on an error and scored on a one-base rap by Kass.

Wheeling batted around in the fifth with Fricano opening and closing the stanza. He walked to lead off and came in when Schuld unloaded a triple out by the park district field house in dead away center field.

Tonnancour then singled home Schuld and Keith McGowan, Mike Sorge and Newman all walked, the latter forcing home Tonnancour. Kass singled next to bring McGowan and up stepped Fricano to put the Warriors out of the contest.

Arlington rallied with four singles, two being RBI hits by Gene Elsborg and John Brodnan, in the bottom of the seventh to edge St. Viator, 3-2, in the Forest View District.

The Cardinals, now 9-5, received a break after one out in the seventh when an easy pop foul was dropped. Tom Carroll blooped a single to left off loser Ken Martin. The previously undefeated Lion pitcher fanned the next Card.

Bob McDonald, after fouling off a half dozen pitches, singled sharply to left which moved Rich Schoell, a pinch runner, to second. Elsborg followed with a ground ball single to right that scored Schoell. Both runners moved up on the throw to the plate.

Brodnan, although slowed by a sore ankle, lashed a line drive to center to end the game.

St. Viator, now 18-5, took the lead in the second when Joe Bombicino followed singles by Mark Rossi and Frank Kotre with one of his own.

Following a single by Mike Moffo — the winning hurler — and a walk to Mike Wilbins, Chuck Donchess made it 1-1 with a bloop single to right.

The Lions regained the lead in the sixth when Kotre, who was hit by a pitch, moved to third on a single by Bob Quinnett and scored when Arlington tried to get Quinnett in a rundown.

St. Viator's Streak At 41

The St. Viator varsity golf team closed out its dual meet season with victory number 41 in a row!

The finale, in a two-year-plus streak, came at the hands of upset-minded St. Ignatius who shot a fine 158 at the Rob Roy Country Club.

As has been the case in the last 41 meets, however, St. Viator was better as the Lion quartet toured their home grounds in only 150 strokes.

Lion Frank Fenton earned the spotlight in this match by firing a one-under par 34 over the Rob Roy back nine. Ample support came from Larry Witek's 37, Dick Evans' 38, Terry McDonald's 41 and Mike Locascio's 44.

Head coach Joe Gliwa's fantastic squad will now concentrate on the district meet tomorrow (Friday). The Suburban Catholic Conference league meet will follow on Monday, May 24.

Soccer Celtics

Rout Northbrook

Palatine's intermediate soccer Celtics (aged 14-15) enjoyed a feast at their home Maple Park field last weekend overwhelming the Northbrook Sham-rucks 15-1.

Two three-goal hat tricks figured in the rout. They were by Brad Byker and Steve Sobey. Tony Zera added two goals and seven other Celtics scored one each. They were John Hagel, Danny Tischler, Tony Scarpino, Mike Juzi, Charley Marsland, Lance Gackowski and Mike Sobey.

Brian Scarpino was the goalie for the winners.

Palatine's junior team (age 14-16) was idle last week but both teams will go against Morton Grove this Saturday.

Cardinals Tip 'Cats In Crucial Golf Test

Two linksmen do not a golf team make.

That revamped version of an old quotation just about summed up Wheeling's display against Arlington in a crucial conference outing hosted by the Wildcats at Chevy Chase Tuesday.

The 'Cats turned in the two lowest efforts of the day. They also turned in the two highest. The result was a 160-162 edge for the Cardinals that kept their Mid-Suburban slate clean while pinning a second loss on Jack Berry's home crew.

Bob Winter came in right on par for Wheeling at 36 and teammate Terry Nied was just one over. The next four efforts all belonged to Tom Walthouse's outfit starting with a 39 by Jack Van Veen and continuing through 40s by Mike Rossi and Chris Marszalek to a 41 by Gordy Kaser.

Dave Mehlberg added a 43 to the 'Cat cause and Chris Krolack contributed a 46. That wasn't enough though to keep the Cards from chalking up their eighth straight loop conquest.

Rounding out scoring at the varsity level were a 45 from Arlington's John Gibbel and a 47 from Wheeling's Jack Kennedy.

The guests also had their way in the frosh-soph encounter, winning 179-181.

turned in a 38 and 40 respectively.

Forest View's team score would have been good enough to beat most other clubs. Phil Hausman stroked a 38, Mark Peters and Dave Moody both turned in 39s and Al Willert and Jay Agger each had 42s.

Hersey made it a sweep for the day by taking tight decisions in the sophomore and frosh contests. The Huskie sophs extended their dual winning streak to 13 matches by taking a 170-171 nod with Tom Schnell (41) and John Hack (42) leading the way.

Hersey's freshmen established a new school record at their level with a 179-182 decision.

Hersey Shoots Sharp 149!

Dean Taggart fired a stellar two-under-par 34 as Hersey became the first area team cracking the 150 barrier while waltzing past Forest View in conference golf action Tuesday, 149-158.

Taggart and two teammates along with three Falcon linksmen all posted sub-40 rounds. The hosting Huskies however had no counting score above 40 in establishing a new school record on their Buffalo Grove layout.

Hersey's high man in fact, was Mark Boyett, only senior in the starting alignment, and he turned in a respectable 41. In the meantime soph Ray Peterson backed up Taggart with a 37 while other juniors Kurt Miller and Mike Henry

Grove Nips St. Viator
In Forest View Meet

Elk Grove, paced by Tom Ziffra and the discus team, edged out St. Viator at Forest View's triangular track meet Tuesday.

The Grenadiers scored 60 points, eight ahead of the Lions and 42 ahead of the Falcons.

Ziffra posted a pair of wins. He took the two-mile run in 10:04.3 and the mile in 4:43.7.

The Grove swept the discus. Jim Leopardo led the way with a first-place toss of 141-3. Then came Rich Radz with 118-11, Tom Baumstark with 109-9 and Jeff Stoipa with 105-4.

St. Viator made it close with the help of Tom McNamara and Tim Gillespie. McNamara won the 180-yard low hurdles with 21.7 and the long jump with a leap of 19-11 1/2. Gillespie took the 100-yard dash in 10.3 and the 440 in 51.5. But it wasn't enough to overtake the Grove.

Forest View won the frosh-soph meet with 77 1/2 points. Elk Grove had 50 and St. Viator 30 1/2.

Elk Grove 60, St. Viator 30 1/2, Forest View 77 1/2.

Three Double Winners
In Conant's Triumph

Conant wrapped up its Mid-Suburban League dual meet season in fine fashion Tuesday, boasting three double winners in a 72-54 victory at Glenbard North.

The Cougars of coach Jack Ary finished with a 9-5-1 overall record outdoors, counting each opponent in double duals. Conference dual records do not count toward the MSL title, which puts everything on the conference meet.

Two-time winners against Glenbard were distance man Steve Feutz, sprinter George Swegles and hurdler Dan Wendell. Wendell, still undefeated, added still another to a long string of double wins by taking the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.7 and the 180-yard lows in 20.6.

Feutz' wins were earned on a 10:02.9 in the two-mile run and 4:11.3 in the mile. Swegles took the 100-yard dash in 10.2 and the 220 in 23.1.

The winners collected nine first places in all. The other three were by Buzz Kross with 32.2 in the 440-yard dash, John Hughtett with 19 feet, five and one-half inches in the long jump and the 880-yard relay team of Terry Stenger, Hughtett, Warren Olson and Swegles with 1:35.8.

3:58.8 For LaBadie

Illinois' Lee LaBadie, a junior from Des Plaines, ran the mile in 3:58.8 in a dual track meet against Southern Illinois to become the first Big Ten undergraduate in history to break the four-minute barrier.

LaBadie's run came during a twilight meet won by Southern Illinois, and it broke his own previous best by a conference runner of 4:00.4 set April 17 at the Kansas Relays.

LaBadie, a Maine West High School product, was pushed by Southern's Dave Hill, who ran a 4:01.9, and Illinois' Rick Gross, who ran a 4:02.6 for third.

Lee was second in the state for two straight years at Maine West with his outdoor best at 4:13.1. He ran 4:11.7 indoors.

He was a two-time member of the Herald All-State Track and Field team.

Hole-In-One For Mullin

Jim Mullin, of 703 W. Burning Tree Lane, Arlington Heights, recently experienced what all but a fraction of the world's golfers only dream of — a hole-in-one.

Mullin scored his ace on the 165-yard fourth hole at Indian Lakes Country Club with a six-iron. He was playing in a foursome with Steve White, Ray Stephenson and Jim Spiggos.

Exhibition Game

The Braves of the Mount Prospect Pony League will play a team from the Roselle Pony League on Friday night,

May 14. It will take place under the lights at Lions Park, Mount Prospect. Game time will be at 7:30 p.m. The Pony League regular season will begin at Lions on Monday night, the 17th.

Girls Softball Needs Help

A girl's 12-inch softball league has just been formed in Elk Grove Village. The girls are in urgent need of women who would be interested in helping by coaching and managing the teams. Experience is by no means necessary. There are approximately 40 girls in the league, and it is growing fast. If any women are willing to help these girls out in their spare time, please contact Nina Miller (437-1617) or Mary Rucinski (437-4362). Any help from you will be greatly appreciated.

Traveling Colt Team

Prospect Heights will again sponsor a traveling Colt team for boys 15-16 years old. All boys living in the District 214 area, born after Aug. 1, 1954 are eligible. There is a 20 game schedule, three games a week. There are 12 teams divided in 2 divisions.

Local travel between Palatine, Mt. Prospect, Rolling Meadows and as far as Mundelein, Libertyville, Lake Zurich are a few of the teams. First game is June 10 so all boys now in high school sports will be eligible at that time.

Cost is $15.00, tryouts are this Sunday, May 16th at 1 p.m. on Hersey's East diamond. For further information call Mr. Krause, 392-3934.

Intermediate Celtics Win, 2-0

Once again, the news was half good and half bad when the Palatine Celtics soccer squads journeyed to Chicago to take on Menominee Boys Club.

The junior Celtics were shut out 3-0 by the powerful, undefeated Menominee team despite a very fine performance by goalie Steve Sakats, a new player who had learned of the Palatine team through the Herald. The score could have been much worse had it not been for some fine saves by Sakats.

The intermediate team scored a 2-0 shutout win of its own on goals by Danny Tischler and Tony Scolpino.

The following day, the Celtics' combined intermediate and junior teams edged a surprisingly strong new team, St. Joseph of Oakbrook, 3-2 in a practice game at Palatine's home Maple Park field.

Jerry Blain provided all the scoring punch singlehandedly for the winners with a three-goal hat trick.

Knights Blank Conant Netmen

Jeff Muradian won a thrilling three set match at third singles Tuesday as Prospect blanked Conant in varsity tennis, 5-0.

Muradian dropped his opening set against Buddy Edmondson, 3-6, but rallied in a tense middle set, 9-7. The Knight senior finally applied the overtime clincher, 6-4.

It was the only three-set duel of the afternoon as Prospect emerged victorious. Rob Zimmanck handled Cougar Marty Oliff in back-to-back tussles of 6-0, 6-1 at first singles.

Steve Collins recorded the Knights' second point by eliminating John Endrikat, 6-0, 6-3 before Muradian and Edmondson settled down to the marathon.

Prospect's first doubles tandem of Al Snyder and Jeff Risteen handled Conant's entry of Ray Wolfel and Jim Cebulski in straight sets of 6-0, 6-1.

Knights Mike Gross and Steve McMurphy applied the clincher in identical sets of 6-3, 6-3 over Cougars Roger Tavenner and Jim Michaels.

Wheeling's Darnall Takes Basketball Job At Momence

Dave Darnall, who only this past fall assumed the head cross country and track coaching positions at Wheeling, has resigned to become head basketball mentor at Momence High School.

The Normal, Ill. native will leave Wheeling at the conclusion of this school year, necessitating a search for the fourth Wildcat harrier and cinder coach in as many years.

Wheeling's track fortunes have dipped strongly upward this spring with Darnall at the helm. The 'Cats' topped seven of ten teams in their first dual and triangular meets and the underclass program has been just as successful.

In going to Momence, a small school just east of Kankakee, Darnall will be able to return to coaching assignments similar to his duties prior to Wheeling. He headed up cage and track teams at Stanford high school for two years, then at Gridley for two years and was head basketball and track coach at Roseville this past season.

His cage teams at Gridley were 30-17 over two campaigns and won a conference title his second year there. At Roseville Darnall compiled a 25-4 slate on the hardwood court including a holiday tourney crown, a conference crown and a district crown. His team was eliminated by Galesburg in the regional finals.

Darnall's track team at Roseville went undefeated, annexed conference honors and two of the thinclads went down state.

An Argenta high school standout in track, baseball and basketball, Darnall holds a masters degree in physical education at Illinois State University. He and his wife Bonnie have a daughter, Tiera, 3 years, and a son, Derek, 3 weeks old.

FV Notches 5-0 Net Win

Fremd tried hard to avoid a shutout. The Vikings' first and third singles players pushed Forest View's starters three set but each time the hosting Falcons came out ahead to eventually win, 5-0, Tuesday.

Dick Martin won his opener against Larry Funk, 6-2. Then the Fremd first man came back to win the second 8-6 only to lose the finale, 10-8.

Kirk Buckholz, going at No. 2 singles, had an easier time of it against Rich Hume in winning 6-1, 6-0.

However, the No. 3 match was up for grabs as Forest View's Rich Thompson dropped the opener to Rusty Kelly, 6-2. Then Thompson surged winning 7-5 and 6-2.

The Falcons' doubles teams didn't have much trouble polishing off victories. Rich Karcher and Don Germano stopped Kim Abbott and John Lawrence 6-1, 6-3. The duo of Art Jones and Jeff Rud posted a pair of 6-1 decisions over Dan Chin and George Jayne.

The Falcons' frosh-soph team remained unbeaten in duals this season and perfect in the Mid-Suburban League with a 5-0 victory.

At Rose Bowl

The Swingers took four points to clinch first place in the Cambridge Quartette Bowling League. Four teams will be competing for second and third places on position day, the final bowling of the season. Last week's action saw Ellen Gayle rack up high series with 577 and Jo Leonard get high game with 223. Darlene Carter had 573 and Jane Vogt 563, while other high games were Pat Stier's 211 and Nancy Cuda's 213.

Prospect Trackmen Record
Win Over Grove, Wheeling

Scott Szala and Ron Hankel each won two events as host Prospect, with 63 points, emerged triumphant over Elk Grove (52) and Wheeling (44) in a track triangular.

Szala scored the track for a 51.0 in the 440 to record the third best performance in the Mid-Suburban League this season. Scott returned in the 220 for his second blue ribbon in 23.0.

Hankel was equally superb during his two trophy runs in the two-mile run (9:51.4) and 880-yard run (1:59.6). The victors also got meet-winning efforts from Paul Hacker in the 100-yard dash, Terry Rohan in the high jump, Tom Cashman in the pole vault and both ends of the relays.

Elk Grove parlayed firsts from Frank Taucher in the high hurdles, Tom Baumstark in the shot with the area's second best toss of 53-1 1/2, Jim Leopardo in the discus and Tom Ziffra in the mile run for their second place showing.

Wheeling soared to their 44-point performance on the crest of Kevin Davidson's winning long jump leap of 20-3 1/2 and Joe Olsen's nifty 20.9 in the low hurdles.

Elk Grove entered the winner's circle on the frosh-soph level with a total of 63 points to 57 for second-place Prospect and 49 for Wheeling.

Prospect Linksmen Win, 158-162

Prospect remained in the running for second place in Mid-Suburban League golf, handing Fremd its sixth straight loss, 158-162 Tuesday at Fremd's Palatine Hills Golf Club course.

Jeff Oakley of Fremd was medalist, his 35 being three strokes better than any other golfer. But the rest of the Viking scores were a sharp dropoff, while Prospect had more balanced shooting.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am about to be married and my mother has told me that if I douche after intercourse it will prevent pregnancy. She says douching is much safer than using birth control pills that are on the market. As I wish to look after marriage, I wish you would tell me if this is true or not.

Dear Reader — You could get some protection from a douche, but not nearly enough. I cannot recommend this as a very satisfactory method of birth control.

If you are looking for an absolutely safe birth control method, from a health point of view, there is no better substitute than abstinence at the critical period. This phase can be identified fairly accurately with oral temperatures recorded daily. There are only a few days each month that abstinence is necessary to affect birth control.

Then, of course, there are the pill and the intra-uterine device or loop. Both of these methods have been successful and actually have created a minimal number of problems.

For something that is so important to your life and your future, it seems to me that you really ought to have a good discussion with your family doctor at the beginning of your married life.

It should be added that for married couples that already have all the family they plan to have, the most effective, cheapest and least dangerous procedure is the vasectomy procedure for the male.

Dear Dr. Lamb — This may sound strange, but I really don't know. Is it possible for a girl (20) to attempt the act and afterwards find blood, but not be aware of any discomfort and still be a virgin?

Dear Reader — This probably depends upon one's definition of a virgin. I am not sure, however, what difference it really makes. The important considerations are the effects on your emotional outlook, like self-esteem and guilt reactions, the question of venereal disease and pregnancy.

I should think, under the circumstances you have described, that it would be possible to be sufficiently emotionally involved to not be aware of all the events that may have transpired.

The Lighter Side

'Hot-Blooded' Author At It Again

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sensuous Sol Weinstein, whose sex education began and ended in Levittown, Pa., probably on the same day, has done it again.

With the same exquisite timing that enabled him to write six original paperback imitations of James Bond novels long after the public had lost interest in the spy thrillers, the hot-blooded author has now written an original paperback imitation of sex manuals long after the public lost interest in conjugation.

There is still some public interest in parsing, of course, but that is another story.

Were there an ounce of decency left in the world, Weinstein's publisher, Paperback Library, would have packaged his latest work in a plain brown wrapper. But no.

"EVERYTHING YOU Never Wanted to Know About Sex but I'll tell you anyway" is sandwiched between starchy white covers archly suggestive of bed-sheets.

Part of the lettering is in pomegranate, which obviously was intended to arouse your prurient instincts, or at least stop them from further deterioration, and which also attracts Mediterranean fruit flies.

Most provocative of all is a photograph of the author, his hooded, erotic eyes either glazed with lust or rendered intractable by too many brandied jubes.

Despite this blatant commercialization, however, one must concede that Weinstein's theories are at least as sound as anything you are likely to read in a corner ad.

Particularly perceptive, I think, is his explanation of why the average American occasionally gets sex confused with penny gum machines.

THESE HANGUPS, he writes, are vestiges of the puritanical attitudes we inherited from the Pilgrims and the Puritans.

tans. And why were they so puritanical? Well, Weinstein attributes it to all those turkeys the Pilgrims were collecting for Thanksgiving dinner.

"How could they have felt romantic with sixty thousand turkeys gobble, gobble, gobbling all night?" he asks. "You try being intimate in the midst of a flock of turkeys and see how far you get."

The Pilgrims, finding the noise too distracting for any kind of hanky-panky, finally gave up and turned to other pursuits, such as ping-pong.

The Pilgrims called this progress, but Weinstein calls it love.

Opening bid—♥3

Italy brought a new team to play for them in the 1970 World's championship. They were nervous at the start. When they played us in the third round they were ready. They proceeded to take an early lead when Riccardo Tersch and Enrico Cesati bid to six no-trump.

Tersch's two clubs was rather like JACOBY MODERN in that it was artificial and forcing. North's response was negative and showed a spade suit while Tersch's two no-trump rebid showed specifically 20 or 21 points and a no-trump type hand. Cesati added 13 to 20 and bid six no-trump.

All Tersch had to do was knock out the ace of clubs and cash his 12 good tricks to score 1,440 points for Italy.

At the other table Bobby Goldman owned one diamond. His hand wasn't quite strong enough to warrant a two-club call in their methods. From then on the bidding went forward nicely, but unfortunately the club suit was mentioned and they found their 4-4 fit to land at six clubs.

We can't fault them for this. Normally there is a decided advantage in finding a sound 4-4 fit. This time it didn't work out. There was no way for Billy Eisenberg to avoid losing two trump tricks when West showed up with all five trumps. Italy took a 17 IMP lead.

Rush hour at Farmington

There is something about Farmington that puts life into its proper perspective. Here is simple, unhurried, peaceful country living complete with quiet ponds, winding lanes, woods and hills. Pheasants abound in our meadows. Wild ducks light on our little lakes. Game fish swim in our waters. The homes are so conceived that they seem to grow out of the land. It will stay that way, too, protected by prudent deed restrictions. There will never be a home less than one acre, never two homes that look alike. Farmington on Long Grove Road represents one of the last opportunities to get away from it all within easy commuting distance of the Loop. 138 minutes by train, 45 minutes by car. Of the original 190 one-acre or larger homesites fewer than 15 remain. They vary from $12,000 to $30,000 and may be purchased with a small down payment and liberal terms. Farmington is not for everyone. But to those few who know the difference between a house and a home, we invite you to come home. To Farmington.

Yogurt Vegetable Mold

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- 1 cup cold water
- 1½ cups plain yogurt
- 1½ cups creamed cottage cheese

- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- ½ cup pared, seeded, diced cucumber
- ½ cup chopped celery
- ½ cup chopped radishes
- ½ cup shredded carrot
- ½ cup chopped green pepper

Sprinkle gelatine over cold water in saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatine dissolves, 4 or 5 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in yogurt, cottage cheese, salt, scallions, dill and lemon juice. Chill, stirring occasionally, until slightly thickened. Fold in vegetables. Turn into a 5-cup mold; chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

- 2 egg whites
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Soften gelatine in remaining ½ cup water. Add to hot rhubarb mixture; stir until gelatine dissolves. Mash strawberries or puree in electric blender; add to gelatine mixture. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Gradually add remaining ¼ cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into gelatine mixture; fold in whipped cream. Add a few drops red food coloring to tint mixture a delicate pink. Turn into a 2-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. If desired, garnish with additional strawberries and whipped cream.

Yield: 10 to 12 servings.

Fruited Spanish Cream

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- ¾ cup sugar, divided
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 4 eggs, separated
- 4 cups milk
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- Strawberries, washed, hulled and halved
- Fresh orange sections
- Banana slices

Mix together gelatine, ¼ cup sugar and salt in saucepan. Beat together egg yolks and milk; stir into gelatine mixture. Place over low heat and cook, stirring constantly until gelatine dissolves and mixture thickens slightly, 8 to 10 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in vanilla. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture thickens enough to mound slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; gradually add remaining ½ cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into gelatine mixture. Turn into 2-quart bowl and chill until set. Garnish with fruit and serve with additional fruit.

Ideas For A Spring Buffet

Fruit Bars Of Mexico

When you drop off at a bar in Mexico, it might better be a fruit bar. These dazzling cubbyholes offer the freshest, ripest fruit — by the piece or by the pound, by the salad or by the fizzy blended drink.

The idea is eminently worthy of adopting. Especially for the buffet table where an assortment of fresh fruits and vegetables steals the thunder from the meatballs. You can handle a quantity of fruit with the help of Fruit-Fresh, an ascorbic acid mixture which really does keep fruit looking fresh. It is mixed with sugar for convenience, and although the whole idea was to keep fresh fruit from darkening, it serves the added purpose of intensifying the natural flavors and colors.

You can sprinkle the mixture directly on the fruit or mix it into the dressing. The Mexican Dressing is light and subtle for a mixture of fresh fruits. The Whipped Pimiento Dressing is sharply flavored for blander fruits and the Avocado Sauce is a delicious dip as well as a sauce.

MEXICAN DRESSING FOR FRESH FRUIT

Mix 2 teaspoons Fruit-Fresh ascorbic acid mixture with 1/4 cup water, 1/4 cup salad oil, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1/2 cup chopped pine nuts, almonds or sunflower seeds. Slice avocados, pineapple, pears, melon, papaya and strawberries. Sprinkle with Fruit-Fresh while preparing. Toss with dressing before serving.

WHIPPED PIMIENTO DRESSING FOR PAPAYA

In blender, mix 1 can (4 ounce) pimientos with 1 tablespoon blue cheese, 2 teaspoons Fruit-Fresh ascorbic acid mixture, 1/4 cups vinegar and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cut papayas in half and scoop out seeds. Fill hollows with dressing.

AVOCADO SAUCE FOR SHRIMP

Mash 1 large ripe avocado with 1 teaspoon Fruit-Fresh ascorbic acid mixture. Fold in 1/4 cup sour cream, 2 chopped green onions, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon salt and a few drops of hot pepper seasoning. Taste and add lemon juice. Use as a dip for cold shrimp.

MEXICAN SALAD BOARD

Artichokes with Chili-Cheese Dressing
Mix 1 tablespoon Fruit-Fresh ascorbic acid mixture with 1 quart water. Trim artichokes and plunge immediately into this water to prevent darkening. In a large, deep kettle bring 4 quarts of water to a boil with another tablespoon of Fruit-Fresh ascorbic acid mixture, 3 tablespoons salad oil, 2 bay leaves, 2 teaspoons of salt and 6 peppercorns. Cook artichokes, covered, until stem ends are easily pierced. Make a well in center of artichoke to hold sauce by plucking out the inner leaves and scooping out the fuzzy choke.

Serve hot or cold with dressing.

Chili-Cheese Dressing

2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar

2 tablespoons chopped green onion

1/2 teaspoon tarragon

3 canned green chile peppers, chopped

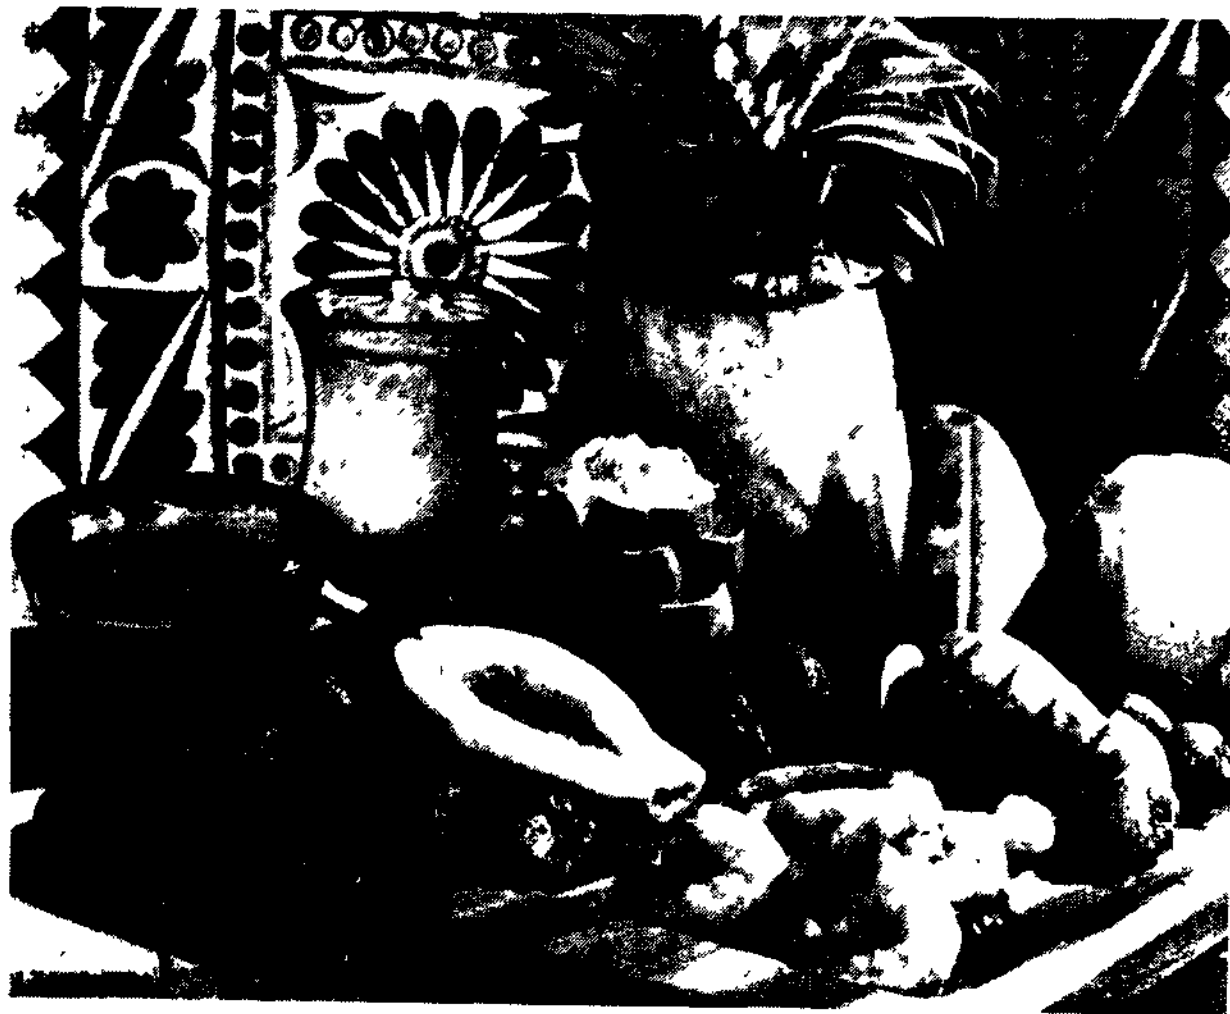

8 ounce package cream cheese

2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice

Salt and pepper

In a small saucepan heat vinegar, green onion and tarragon until most of the liquid evaporates. Add rest of ingredients, beating smooth and adding water to thin to a consistency that can be dipped.

Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

Inverness Women's Club Votes Prize Winning Luncheon Recipes

Three women mixed their way to local fame recently as winners of Inverness Women's Club cooking contest.

The contest doubles as a buffet luncheon and year end club activities. Members prepared their favorite recipes for the luncheon then voted the winning main dish, salad and dessert.

Mrs. William Alexander's Crabmeat Cheese Fondue won first prize in the main dish category. "It's light enough for a ladies luncheon yet high in protein," she said. Barbara likes to serve asparagus spears and a grapefruit and orange section salad to complete the menu.

Shrimp Salad Mold won Mrs. R. F. Grissom top salad honors. The salad consists of a flavorful combination of cream cheese, mayonnaise, celery and shrimp in a jelled tomato base.

Fran Grissom doesn't consider herself a "prize winning" cook. "If a recipe takes more than one bowl, I usually don't try it," she laughed.

A recipe from Mrs. W. M. Beeler's "old time" cookbook won the dessert award. Apricot Ice Box Dessert consists of a cookie crust filled with a frosting-like mixture of butter, powdered sugar and eggs. Apricots and whipped cream top the dessert.

Each of the women were awarded a hostess tray for their winning recipes.

CRABMEAT CHEESE FONDUE

4 slices bread
3/4 pound mild cheddar cheese
1 7/8 ounce can crabmeat
3 eggs
1 1/2 cups half and half (or milk)
1/2 teaspoon brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon dried minced onion or a small green onion, chopped
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika

Remove crusts from the bread; then butter and cube. Place half in bottom of a greased 8 by 12 by 2-inch casserole dish. Sprinkle half of grated cheese and crabmeat over the bread cubes. Add remaining bread. Sprinkle the remaining grated cheese over top. Beat eggs, add milk, and seasonings. Pour egg mixture over the casserole. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

Bake uncovered in a 300-degree oven for 1 1/2 hours. Cut into squares and serve. Serves 6-8.

SHRIMP SALAD MOLD

2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup water
1 can tomato soup
Mix together:
3 small packages cream cheese, softened
1 cup mayonnaise
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 cups shrimp, cut up
1 cup celery, finely chopped
1/4 cup green pepper, finely chopped
1/4 cup onion juice

Dissolve gelatin in water. Add heated soup, then remaining ingredients. Pour into 1-quart ring mold and chill until firm. Serves 12.

APRICOT ICE BOX DESSERT

Cookie Crust
1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs (or 18 crackers crushed)
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
Melt shortening. Meanwhile, measure and pour crumbs into 8 by 8 by 2-inch pan or 9-inch pie plate. Add sugar and mix well. Pour melted shortening over this mixture. Stir with a fork until all the shortening is equally incorporated in the crumb mixture. Spread mixture around pan or pie plate, pressing evenly to form crust. Bake at 350 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes or until edges are slightly brown.

Filling

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup powdered sugar
2 eggs, separated
Cream butter and powdered sugar. Add egg yolks and beat until light and fluffy. Stir in stiffly beaten egg whites. Spread this mixture on top of crust.

Topping

2 cups apricot puree or nectar or use sieved canned apricots
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin if using puree or sieved fruit. Use 1 1/2 to 2 teaspoons gelatin when using nectar.
Soak gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water, until dissolved. Heat apricot puree with 1/4 cup sugar and add softened gelatin. When cool spread on top of the butter mixture. Top with whipped cream. Sprinkle crumbs or slivered almonds over the top. Place in the refrigerator for a few hours before serving.

Pasta With Springtime Style

There is no doubt that spring is the most refreshing of all seasons. Whether it's everyone's favorite is debatable, but if the four seasons were ever put up for a nationwide popularity pole, spring would win with a landslide, hands down and heads up!

In this season when all life starts afresh, even everyday cooking gets spruced up with innovations. There is something in the very air of springtime which creates feelings of deering-do and let's-try-something-new. New menus for family meals, new recipes, fresh twists to old standbys.

Here is just such a recipe which originated in the test kitchens of the Canned Salmon Institute. Thin oblongs of egg pasta, known as cannelloni, are cooked and cooled, then filled and rolled with a colorful filling made of canned salmon bound with delicate sauce. Once rolled and filled, the cannelloni are arranged side by side in a baking dish, covered with sauce and sprinkled with grated cheese. The luxurious dish may be prepared early in the day and baked when needed.

If you are one of those who think of pasta dishes as being heavy winter fare, just try this salmon version of a favorite Italian dish on a lovely warm spring day.

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/4 cup sherry wine
8 cannelloni
1/3 cup cream
4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

In saucepan melt butter. Stir in flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, pepper and cayenne. Add hot milk and cook, stirring briskly, until sauce is smooth and thickened. Cook over low heat for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.

In skillet heat oil and in it saute onions, celery, carrots and parsley for 5 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Add salmon, including liquid in can, the second 1/2 teaspoon salt and oregano. Stir in sherry. Simmer for 3 minutes, then stir in 1/2 cup sauce. Set aside.

Cook cannelloni in plenty of boiling salted water for 8 minutes. Drain and rinse in cold water. Put 1/4 cup of the filling on each cannelloni and roll up. Arrange side by side in a buttered baking dish.

To remaining sauce, add cream and stir to blend. Stir in remaining salmon filling. Pour the salmon sauce over cannelloni and sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a preheated 450-degree oven for 10 minutes. Serves 4.

SALMON CANNELLONI

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon white pepper
Dash cayenne
2 cups hot milk
2 tablespoons cooking oil
3 tablespoons minced green onions
3 tablespoons minced celery
2 tablespoons shredded carrots
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 pound can salmon

Nutrition Wise Cooking For Two

Cooking exciting and nutritious meals for one or two diners is a challenge that begins at the market and continues in the kitchen. Frequently time, money, preferences and lack of enough variety make preparing large roasts and full recipes impractical.

Fortunately, many meat choices adapt well to serve one or two, according to Reba Staggs, home economist for the National Live Stock and Meat Board. For example, beef sirloin steak is an appropriate cut to buy for two meals. When cut in half one piece can be cubed for kabobs and the other section broiled for a hearty steak dinner.

Pork chops are another item that can be purchased in small quantity for braising or broiling. The cook's seasoning touches can make them gourmet fare.

Ground beef is another practical choice to serve one or two. It mixes with numerous ingredients for a variety of entrees.

Careful creativity is essential in planning tantalizing menus and imagination is an important ingredient when converting leftovers into new dishes.

Some recipes, such as the following two are easily divisible to serve one or two.

SIRLOIN-PEPPER KABOBS

- 1 beef sirloin steak cut 1 1/2 inches thick
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1/2 tablespoon onion powder
- 12 squares sweet red or green pepper (1 1/4 x 1 1/4 inches) pepper (1 1/4 x 1 1/4 inches)

Remove bone and cut steak into sixteen, 1 1/2-inch cubes. Combine oil, lemon juice, salt, paprika, dry mustard, sugar and onion powder. Add marinade to beef cubes. Cover and refrigerate 4 hours or overnight. Alternate beef cubes with pepper squares. Place on grill making certain coals have burned down. Grill 15 to 20 minutes, turning occasionally, until browned 4 servings.

BEEFY GREEN PEPPERS

- 1 pound ground beef
- 2 large or 4 small green peppers, cut in half and seeded
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup instant rice, uncooked
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion

- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup catsup

Cook green pepper halves in boiling salted water 5 minutes. Invert and drain thoroughly. Combine ground beef, rice, onion, salt, pepper and catsup. Spoon into the peppers. Place peppers in a shallow baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes. Top with catsup or cheese the last 5 minutes of baking, if desired. Serves 4.

New Appeal For A Basic Beef Loaf

Sure, meat loaf is a familiar standby but each loaf can taste different. The secret — vary the ingredients or shape or add a topping.

For example, Reba Staggs, home economist for the National Live Stock and Meat Board suggests adding celery for crunch and catsup topping to glaze.

BON'S MEAT LOAF

- 2 pounds ground beef
- 1/3 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/2 cup finely chopped celery
- 1/2 cup fine cracker crumbs
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1/3 cup catsup
- 1 tablespoon corn syrup
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 to 4 stuffed green olives, sliced

Combine ground beef, onion and celery. Mix cracker crumbs, egg, milk, salt and pepper. Add to ground beef mixture. Mix well. Shape meat mixture into a loaf 10x4x2 inches on a rack in an open roasting pan. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F) 1 hour. Combine catsup, corn syrup and Worcestershire sauce and mix well. After meat loaf bakes 1 hour, brush with 2 tablespoons catsup mixture and continue baking 15 minutes. Brush again with remaining mixture and bake 15 minutes longer. Let stand 10 minutes before slicing. Garnish with olives 6 to 8 servings.

Mrs. Thomas D. Ehram

She Makes A Special 'Birthday Dinner'

By LOIS SEILER

Birthday dinners are a special event in the Thomas D. Ehram household at 621 E. Grove in Arlington Heights. When a member of the family has a birthday, Carol Ehram prepares her favorite dinner — from main dish to dessert.

Her husband Tom's choice for this Sunday includes Extra Special Baked Chicken, wild rice, a green vegetable and salad, with an elegant three-layer spice cake for dessert.

The chicken dish consists of slices of ham topped by deboned chicken breasts and bacon slices. The bacon keeps the chicken moist and tender during the baking period. Then a rich sauce made of mushroom soup and sour cream is added to the casserole the last half-hour of cooking time.

Tom's favorite cake is made from a recipe handed down in Carol's family from her grandmother.

"It's called Poor Man's Cake, though I'm not sure why," Carol remarked.

Spiced with cinnamon, nutmeg and cocoa, the cake contains raisins for added interest while buttermilk contributes to its moist texture.

Carol frosts the cake with a caramel icing, then adds the candles for a festive finale to this appealing meal.

Because his birthday falls on a Sunday this year, Tom will probably get his "druthers" for lunch, too.

"He would probably choose a Mexican Hero Sandwich every day of the week if he could," Carol laughingly remarked.

This open-face sandwich consists of lightly-toasted slices of sour dough or French bread topped with slices of Canadian bacon and Monterey Jack cheese. A layer of mashed avocado and shredded lettuce tops off the sandwich.

"This is a hearty sandwich and tastes great with a glass of beer," Carol commented.

Besides being the mother of two little boys, Hank, 3, and Brad, 1, Carol also finds time for membership in the Theta Alumnae Club and the WSCS of Trinity Methodist Church in Mount Prospect.

Both Carol and Tom are outdoor enthusiasts because "we grew up on farms," Carol said. They enjoy sailing, golfing, skiing, bicycle riding and gardening.

EXTRA SPECIAL BAKED CHICKEN

6 slices ham
3 large chicken breasts, boned, skinned and halved
6 slices bacon
1 can cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
1 cup dairy sour cream
Place ham slices in 9 by 13 by 2-inch baking dish. Top with chicken breast half on each ham slice. Place one strip bacon doubled over on each breast. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for a half-hour.

Remove from oven. Pour sauce made of soup and sour cream over the meat. Return to oven and bake one half hour longer at 350 degrees. Spoon sauce over chicken when serving. Serves 4 to 6.

POOR MAN'S CAKE

3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking soda
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cocoa
3/4 cup vegetable shortening
2 cups dark brown sugar
1 egg
1 1/2 cups buttermilk
1 cup raisins
Sift dry ingredients together.

Cream shortening and sugar together thoroughly. Beat in egg. Alternately add sifted dry ingredients and buttermilk. Stir in raisins which have been simmered in a little water for 5 minutes and drained well.

Turn into three greased and floured 8-inch layer cake tins or two 9-inch layers and six cup cakes. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Frost with the following.

CARAMEL FROSTING

1/2 cup margarine
1 cup light brown sugar
1/4 cup milk
1 1/4 cup powdered sugar, sifted
Melt margarine; add brown sugar and boil for two minutes, stirring. Add milk and bring to a boil again. Cool to lukewarm add powdered sugar, beating until smooth. Use as filling and frosting for cake.

MEXICAN HERO SANDWICH

Sour dough or French bread
Canadian bacon
Monterey Jack cheese
Lettuce Avocado
Enchilada sauce
Slice bread diagonally about one-inch thick.

While slowly warming Canadian bacon, heat enchilada sauce, butter the bread, chop lettuce, slice cheese and mash avocado, adding a little lemon juice and garlic salt.

Place buttered bread on a baking sheet and toast lightly. Then add a layer of bacon and a layer of cheese. Return to oven until cheese starts to melt. Remove from oven and place on serving plates. Top with a layer of avocado and sprinkle generously with lettuce. Serve with warm enchilada sauce.

BIRTHDAYS ARE family affairs. Mrs. Thomas Ehram will make her husband's favorite dinner to celebrate his birthday Sunday. Tom's choice includes a three-layer spice cake with cinnamon, nutmeg and cocoa. Hank, 3, and Brad, 1, would probably agree that Dad made a great selection for his birthday dessert.

Quick, Nutritious Lunch

When thinking of vegetables, springtime and asparagus are almost synonymous. Known virtually around the world, this vegetable with crisp stalks and tender, tightly closed tips can be served hot or cold and in combination with a large variety of other foods.

Asparagus with Poached Egg and Cheese Sauce is a quick, nutritious luncheon entrée to be welcomed by your family and unexpected company. It's a meal in itself and preparation time is less than 30 minutes.

The bread-asparagus-egg combination is accented with a seasoned, sharp cheese sauce for added eating enjoyment and nutrition.

ASPARAGUS WITH POACHED EGG AND CHEESE SAUCE

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/8 teaspoon onion salt
Few drops Worcestershire sauce
1 cup grated sharp

cheese (1/4 lb.)

4 eggs
4 slices buttered toast
12 to 16 small spears fresh asparagus, cooked or 1 package (10 oz.) frozen asparagus spears, cooked Paprika or minced parsley, if desired.

Melt butter in saucepan over low heat; blend in flour. Add milk, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until sauce is smooth and thickened. Stir in seasonings. Add cheese, stir until melted; keep warm. Poach eggs. Top each slice of buttered toast with 1/4 of the asparagus spears. Arrange poached eggs on asparagus spears. Covered with cheese sauce; sprinkle with paprika or minced parsley, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

A young reader laments, "Give us some good ground beef recipes. We live in the stuff and some of the conglomerations my wife fixes are just barely edible." You can see why he asked to be nameless.

Certainly we've had many fine ground beef recipes but "conglomerations" has to be interpreted as casseroles or one-dish meals. Here is one of my alltime favorites, Ground Beef in Sour Cream Sauce.

Cook 1 cup chopped onion in 2 tablespoons hot fat in a deep skillet or dutch oven until tender but not brown. Add 1 pound good lean ground beef. Brown lightly. Place 3 cups medium noodles in a layer over the meat. Combine 3 cups tomato juice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 teaspoons celery salt, dash of pepper and pour over the noodles. Add 1/4 cup chopped green pepper.

Cover and continue cooking until noodles are tender (about 10 minutes). Stir in 1 cup dairy sour cream and 2 3 cup broiled sliced mushrooms, drained. The last ingredient can be purchased in 3-ounce cans, just the right amount.

Heat to boiling point, adjust seasonings, serve topped with crisp green pepper rings. Serves 6. If you like it, thank Mrs. Rachael (James) Sullivan of Champaign, Ill., with whom I compare notes on cooking quite frequently.

SPEAKING OF casseroles, here is one which utilizes celery as the principal ingredient and produces a filling course to serve with beef.

Prepared as follows, the celery is delightfully crisp and the flavor combinations excellent. In a large lightly buttered casserole put 5 cups chopped celery. Add 1/2 cup chopped almonds and pour over 2 cans of undiluted cream of celery soup. Sprinkle with 1/4 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese and top with 1 cup fine bread crumbs.

Cover and place in a 375 oven for 25 minutes, then remove cover and allow to brown for another 20 minutes. Serves 10.

Do you have a favorite casserole dish, or a question about food?

What's Thawing For Dinner?

Creative Dishes That 'Fit The Budget'

by CHARLOTTE ERICKSON

Here is a collection of economical dishes to stretch the food budget. Nutritional and economical foods do not have to be dull or monotonous. The following recipes are almost certain to put spark into your menu... and the budget.

GROUND BEEF CURRY

This is a simple meal-in-one-dish that has a different and unique flavor all its own. Serve with a tossed salad.

1 cup dark seedless raisins
1 cup boiling water
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 cup frozen chopped onions
1 cup frozen chopped green peppers
1 tablespoon olive or vegetable oil
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon curry
1 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup chopped pecans
2 bouillon cubes
1/2 cup rice, uncooked

Pour boiling water over raisins. Set aside. In a large heavy skillet brown beef, onions and green pepper in oil. Pour off any excess drippings, then add curry, mixing well. Add salt and chopped pecans. Drain raisins, reserving liquid. Add raisins to meat mixture. Add sufficient water to raisin liquid to make 1-1/3 cups total. Add to meat along with bouillon cubes and rice. Bring to a boil, lower heat and simmer for 15 minutes. Remove from heat and let steam for another 15 minutes before serving. Add additional water if needed. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Recipe calls for mild curry. Substitute 1 teaspoon (or more) of hot Madras curry if you prefer.

BEEF, NOODLE CASSEROLE ALMONDINE

This is one of those versatile dishes that is the perfect thing to serve for a luncheon or a potluck dinner. Divided into smaller casseroles it makes a great entrée for a family meal.

1 8-ounce package egg noodles
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 cup sliced almonds, toasted
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup sour cream or sour half and half
1/4 cup finely snipped parsley
3 green onions, sliced finely, tops and all

1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon oregano, crushed
1 teaspoon salt
pepper to taste
2 pounds ground beef
1 tablespoon vegetable oil additional butter if needed
1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 cup fine bread crumbs
3 tablespoons butter, melted
Cook noodles according to package directions. Drain when tender. In a large mixing bowl combine the cream of mushroom soup, sliced almonds, cottage cheese, sour cream, parsley, onions and seasonings. Meanwhile, in a large skillet, brown the meat in oil. Remove meat, add more butter if necessary, and saute mushrooms. Combine meat and mushrooms with cheese sauce and drained noodles. Toss well but gently and arrange in a 9x13-inch buttered casserole dish. Combine butter with bread crumbs, sprinkle over the top, and bake in a 350 degree oven for 25 minutes. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

LAZY MOM'S

SCALLOPED POTATO DISH
This recipe can be made with leftover ham, as well as garlic, Polish or Italian sausage.

1 cup chopped frozen onions
1 cup chopped frozen green peppers
3 tablespoons butter
1 pound frozen sliced cottage potatoes
2 cups cut up left over ham or 1 pound garlic, Polish or Italian sausage, sliced
2 eggs
1 cup sour half and half
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
pepper to taste
1 cup grated Swiss cheese

Saute onions and green pepper in butter until onions are soft and clear. Arrange a layer of potato slices in the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Alternate with onion and green pepper mixture and cut up ham or sausage. When all the ingredients have been arranged combine eggs, sour half and half, milk, seasonings and cheese in your blender. Pour over potatoes and bake in a preheated 375-degree oven for 30-35 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 6 servings.

Salmon For The Family

Fish on Fridays is no longer a dictum; fish on any day and as often as possible is the fashion. Modern homemakers have learned that fish is not only one of the greatest ways of adding variety to weekly menus and of balancing the food budget, but of supplying her family with the best kind of nutrition, the kind of nutrition that experts recommend as a source of complete protein, desirable unsaturated fatty acids and low sodium content.

Fish has become a nutritional "must" for every American table, and there is little excuse for the homemaker who says, "my husband doesn't like fish," or for the mother who says, "my children won't eat fish." Chances are that a delicious and attractive recipe, such as salmon stuffed sole whirles, which requires no warning to "watch out for the bones," can convert non fish eaters to fish fanciers.

SALMON STUFFED SOLE WHIRLS

4 medium fillets of sole
1 pound can salmon
1 lemon
4 teaspoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
1 tablespoon minced onion
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup light cream
1/2 teaspoon dry dill weed
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Parsley clusters for garnish
Cut fillets of sole in half lengthwise and remove the fine line of bones which runs down the center of each.
Pour liquid from can of salmon into shallow baking dish. Flake salmon and spread about 2 tablespoons on each sole fillet. Roll up like fat jelly rolls and fasten each with a wooden pick. Reserve remaining flaked salmon.

ten each with a wooden pick. Reserve remaining flaked salmon.

Arrange fish rolls in baking dish and sprinkle with 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Dot each with 1/2 teaspoon butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover with foil and bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 20 minutes.

Meanwhile in saucepan saute mushrooms and onion in the 3 tablespoons butter for 5 minutes. Stir in flour. Gradually stir in cream and cook, stirring, until sauce is smooth and thick. Add dill and chopped parsley and set aside.

Remove salmon rolls from oven and transfer rolls to a warm serving platter. Drain juices from baking pan into sauce and add reserved flaked salmon. Stir over moderate heat until sauce begins to simmer. Pour sauce over fish rolls and garnish with lemon wedges and parsley, or serve sauce separately. Serves 4.

Here's a quick and nutritious salmon dish, again with "boneless" appeal!

QUICK SALMON SUPPER DISH

4 baking potatoes
7 1/2 ounce can salmon, drained
1/3 cup melted butter
1/2 cup sour cream
1/4 cup chopped parsley or chives
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 tablespoon grated cheese
Bake potatoes until tender. Halve lengthwise and scoop out pulp. Mash together potato pulp and salmon and beat in the 1/3 cup melted butter, sour cream, parsley or chives and salt and pepper. Fill potato shells with the salmon filling. Brush tops with the 1 tablespoon melted butter and sprinkle with cheese. Broil 4 to 5 inches from heat for 5 minutes, or until browned on top, or bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. Serves 4.

Ground Beef For Hearty Main Dishes

Ground beef makes more than beefburgers! Meat loaf, spaghetti sauce and chili are but a few examples of its flexibility. For additional ground beef variety, look to other foreign cuisines for inspiration.

Reba Stages, home economist of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, suggests Jiffy Chow Mein. Quick to prepare, it provides a change of flavor.

In only 20 minutes browned ground beef, simmered with onions and celery, soy sauce and bean sprouts, is table-ready and tasty. It's served on Chinese noodles for a complimentary contrast in both taste and texture.

JIFFY CHOW MEIN

1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 medium-sized onion, sliced
1/2 cups chopped celery
1 cup water
1 can (16 ounces) bean sprouts
1/2 cup soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Chinese noodles

Brown ground beef and pour off drippings. Add onion, celery and 1 cup water. Cover tightly and cook over low heat 15 minutes. Add bean sprouts. Combine soy sauce, sugar, 2 tablespoons water and cornstarch. Add to meat mixture and continue cooking for 5 minutes or until sauce is slightly thickened. Serve with Chinese noodles, if desired. 6 servings.

Cool 'N Crunchy Salad

Tuna is a new food and now is the time to enjoy it in a crunchy, cool carefree Tuna Toss salad. Tuna is tossed with shredded raw carrots and sliced celery for crispness, pineapple chunks and raisins for sweetness, and just enough mayonnaise or salad dressing to blend the flavors. Serve on crisp salad greens and let your guests feast their eyes — then satisfy their appetites. For an added flavor fillup offer side dishes of peanuts and canned ripe olives. (The United States Department of Agriculture says that raisins, peanuts, and canned ripe olives are among the "plentiful" right now.) Tuna Toss is a perfect party entree and an adventure in good eating. It is dainty enough to please the dieter and hearty enough to satisfy the hungry.

For good nourishment when time is short ring the bell with other flavorful recipes from Time For Seafood (1 49 49/2 12), Fishery Market Development Series No. 12. This full-color booklet is filled with bright, time-saving ideas and tasty recipes. For your copy readers may send 45 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Apple Frost Strawberry Pie

Lemony apple-flavored fluffs, whirled over a layer of strawberries and nestled in a flaky, tender pastry shell, makes this tempting spring or summer delight.

This is the kind of recipe that's easy to "take from the top." Either use a boxed pastry mix or pastry sticks to make the pie shells, or you may purchase the frozen, ready-to-bake kind.

Unflavored gelatin is softened right in the lemonade concentrate (the frozen kind that has been allowed to thaw) and then heated. This is combined with tangy canned apple sauce, flavoring and egg whites, then whipped in an electric mixer till light and fluffy.

First goes a layer of sliced strawberries in the pastry shell, then the mixture, mounded high, concealing the sweet secret of the strawberry slices. Garnish with a few of the prettiest whole berries — a hint of the hidden berry surprise — and set to chill in the refrigerator. Be ready for repeat orders.

APPLE FROST STRAWBERRY PIE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 1/4 cup frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed
 2 cups canned apple sauce
 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

2 egg whites

1 pint fresh strawberries, sliced

1 baked 9-inch pastry shell

Whole strawberries for garnish

Sprinkle gelatin over lemonade concentrate in small saucepan. Let stand to soak. Heat and stir to dissolve gelatin. Remove from heat. Place in large bowl of electric mixer. Add apple sauce, lemon rind, salt, vanilla extract and egg whites. Whip at high speed until light and fluffy. Layer sliced strawberries in pie shell. Spoon in apple sauce mixture. Chill in refrigerator (about 2 hours). Garnish with whole strawberries. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Turkey: For Any Season

An oven-ready boneless frozen turkey roast with gravy can make meal preparation a breeze. Available in all white meat, or mixed white and dark meat, it cooks in its own gravy, to give extra moistness and rich turkey taste.

The roast cooks in its own convenient throw-away pan and holds together whether sliced thick or thin.

To serve hot roast whole, slice and serve with dressing and gravy (Ideal for hot turkey sandwiches). To serve cold, roast and let cool. Glaze the surface or slice and serve in sandwiches or cold plate combinations. Cube or cut julienne style for salads or casseroles.

These interesting recipe ideas for frozen turkey roasts will please your family.

Say Most Foods Easy To Store

Bananas are the most troublesome food item to store, according to a survey by Republic Molding Corporation, Chicago, maker of plastic food containers.

Next on the list come whole poultry, hams, potatoes, melons, onions, and fresh fish.

The foods were rated by a cross-section of home economists, including a sizable group of county home demonstration agents.

ODDLY ENOUGH, of the 34 items rated as hard to store, at least 30 could be easily handled by food storage containers already on the market, Republic noted.

"For example, an air-tight Freezette container could be used to hold brown sugar, one of the problem foods on the survey," according to Mrs. Pauline Church, the company's home service advisor.

Other problem foods for which good containers exist are cheese, spinach and chard, fresh cuts of meat, ground meat, smoked fish, pasta, herbs, whole and ground spices, marshmallows, ground coconut, salad, rolls and biscuits, hors d'oeuvres, mushrooms, bacon, frankfurters, yeast and popcorn.

"Each of these can be stored quite easily in existing containers such as those in the Freezette and Apollaware lines," Mrs. Church said.

IF HOMEMAKERS would become more familiar with the wide range of convenient food containers available in stores today, they'd quickly discover how easily most storage problems can be solved, she said.

As for bananas — well, if anyone comes up with a container to solve that problem, Republic would be delighted to hear from that person.

Family Shorts

UPI — Home economists at Purdue University figure a family of four can eat well spending $146.70 a month on food.

Thus figures out to $13.10 a week for a teen-age boy, $5.70 for a child from one to three years of age, $8.40 for children six to nine, and nearly $10 for children nine to 12. The 12 to 15 year olds consume between $11 and $12 worth of groceries a week. Dad? His food costs amount to $11.30 a week. And Mom? Her bill is $9.80.

Learn differences in grades of inspected meats. Prices vary according to grade. The six grades are prime, choice, good, standard, commercial and utility. The grade is based on the general contour of the carcass, the quality, amount and distribution of fat and firmness and strength of meat tissue and fibers.

THAT CHICKEN you plan on eating Sunday has done some rather fancy eating himself.

A chick, according to Encyclopedia Britanica eats about 8 3/4 pounds of food in the eight weeks it takes him to grow into a 4-pound broiler.

There's a good chance his diet was better balanced than yours, since broilers are fed high-energy mash and good quality protein to shoot their weight up as fast as possible. This fancy feed accounts for at least 60 percent of the poultry farmer's overhead.

ly and Asparagus Timbale makes an excellent accompaniment for either recipe.

Mrs. Alice McFeggan

Serious About Recycling

by MARY B. GOOD

Mrs. James McFeggan of Rolling Meadows has been an ecology worker for 22 years. You might call her the first of the red hot recyclers.

Wife of the city public works director, Alice McFeggan has now turned her garage at 2404 Dove into a recycling center.

Since last December more than 12,000 pounds of glass and 24,000 pounds of newspapers have whistled through Alice's garage on their way to the recycling plants.

You can take anything you want to Alice's big garage. Newspapers, glass, cans — one lady, a church sacristan, regularly favors Alice with a load of no-deposit, no-return vigil lights. A cocktail waitress who brings home liquor bottles is one of Alice's regular recyclers. Alice also gets donations from a local afternoon carl party group. The rules of the house dictate nobody plays unless they bring along recyclables as the price of admission to the card game.

ALICE, THE recycling chairman of the Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) ecology group, has already organized six Rolling Meadows youth groups who are continually on the lookout for collectibles.

(The youth of the Community Church and Trinity Lutheran Church and Cub Pack 180 collect glass and paper. Girl Scout Troop 181 and the Rolling Meadows Campfire Girls collect glass, and Cub Scouts of Pack 68 are the tin can men. Pack 68 recently collected 4,200 pounds of cans in the first tin can drive in Illinois, a pilot program to determine the need of a permanent drop-off planned for this metropolitan area.)

After June 1, Alice is setting up a phone-a-pickup service for people who are unable to drive or otherwise get their recyclables to her garage. The pickup service was the brainchild of Alice's son, James Jr., 16, who does all of the accounting, preparing of the glass as it arrives, and moving it out once or twice a week.

JAMES AND SEVERAL others, Steve Havlik, 12, from Kimball Hill School; Randy Selig, 15, who attends Elk Grove High and Steve Eberhard, 15, of Forest View High School, all Rolling Meadows young people, are the manpower behind the operation. Right now the boys are building shelves to facilitate storage.

Alice said that most people — often strangers — who come to drop off their recyclables are most considerate. She has never experienced people driving by and tossing a bag of glass or cans on her lawn, as other recyclers sometimes have.

THE ONLY THING Alice runs into are people who occasionally fail to prepare their items. This they can do by removing labels from glass and cans, and removing metal rings from twist-off cap bottles.

On any day, Alice can be found immersed in a sink full of dishwater. If she's not elbow deep washing and removing labels from bottles, she's probably in the garage pulling off aluminum rings with a pliers or adjusting her safety glasses as she breaks glass for easy storage.

Some might say that Alice's job is unglamorous. But without people like Alice, the recycling movement would stop dead. Many groups in the area that are working hard to recycle solid waste and fight pollution owe their initial thrust to Alice. She's helped launch more recycling drives than she'd care to mention.

EVENTUALLY ALICE hopes to put herself out of business. She wants recycling to be taken over by the municipalities. "People would simply sort their garbage into glass, paper, cans, old coffee pots and other aluminum appliances for smelting, cardboard, and kitchen wastes for composting. The city would then pick up each group of wastes and take them to the appropriate recycling areas," she suggested.

"Things are moving in that direction," Alice said, "with many public works departments and village disposal service trucks cooperating in sporadic drive efforts." (In Des Plaines, the city itself is responsible for taking glass to the recycling plant from the three fire stations that serve as collection points.)

In the meantime Alice of Rolling Meadows is taking "donations" from anyone in the northwest suburbs who cares to bring her cans, paper or glass. The money she gets is earmarked for the various groups she assists — scouts, church groups, PEP and others (Glass-recycling paid for publication of a PEP handbook, "Cash for Trash: Tips on Organizing Your Recycling Drive.")

ALICE'S NEXT major workout is the PEP recycling-in, called "The Crud Crisis," set for 2 p.m. next Sunday (May 16) at the Rolling Meadows Fire Station. Since the price of admission to the teaching is a donation of crud (newspapers, glass or cans for recycling), Alice will probably need a truck to haul away her windfall.

If nobody offers the use of a truck, Alice may just wind up with a "crud crisis" of her own.

GLASS OVERBOARD. Mrs. James McFeggan, Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) recycling chairman, dumps vigil lights into a receptacle at her home, area drop-off center for cans, newspapers and glass.

Thursday Nighters Club

Life To Good Mental Health

by MARY B. GOOD

If the Thursday Nighters Club only had the support of the community . . . If only they had more volunteers. . . More money . . .

Every group has similar growth struggles when they first get started, but Thursday Nighters are especially poignant. Theirs is a social club for persons recently discharged from Elgin State Hospital.

The purpose is to help prevent their going back.

The club makes the adjustment to the outside world easier for people who may have been at Elgin a long time. It is supposed to help the wives or husbands of former patients adjust too.

SEVERAL OF THE MEMBERS live at Abbington House in Roselle or Catherine

Memorial in Palatine. Volunteers pick them up and bring them to the meeting, where they play shuffleboard, cards or visit with friends from Elgin.

Thursday Nighters may not seem like the Playboy Club, but it is a recreation vehicle, often the highlight in a colorless existence. (Released from a typical state institution with its lackluster monotony and peeling paint, people often go back to the same environment that produced psychological problems in the first place.) Thursday Nighters provides a lifeline to continued good mental health, social experience in average living.

At a recent meeting the group was planning activities for the summer. "How about a day at the race track?" someone suggested. "A trip to Cantigny? The flowers are gorgeous there!" "Who's seen 'Love Story'? We'll pop our own popcorn!" "Anyone interested in a campfire roast?"

A SOCIAL WORKER from Elgin attends the meetings informally, a professional but still a "regular guy."

When the state reorganized living quarters at Elgin, they placed all the northwest suburban residents in one housing unit. This made the formation of the club a natural extension of the Elgin facility. Local volunteers, especially churchwomen, formed this club to help local residents.

The group meets on the first and third Thursday of the month in the Rolling Meadows Fire Station. Volunteers, who now include people from Schaumburg, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove, make an effort not to be distinguishable from the patients. They provide refreshments, transportation and a genuine feeling of warmth and camaraderie.

President of the volunteers is Ruth Keller of Elk Grove Village, vivacious and red-haired. Al Jordan of the Rolling Meadows Bowl is another volunteer. He and his wife — she taught the patients crocheting — used to go to Elgin to help before Thursday Nighters was "born" last November.

"ONCE WE GET this thing going," said Jordan, "we're hoping that it will be a patient-run organization. This will help the people most of all."

Why would a businessman care about helping former mental patients stay healthy?

"It reminds me of the old-time community spirit, where neighbors helped neighbors. It's a humanizing, personal relationship," he said.

More "Al Jordans" are needed to make Thursday Nighters a treat, not a treatment.

Study Relationship Between Environment And Crib Death

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Research is being conducted by two Chicago doctors on the relationship of environmental factors to sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS) — or crib death.

Drs. Kenrad E. Nelson and Bertram Carnow of the Department of Preventative Medicine, University of Illinois, spoke recently to the Chicago Chapter of the National Foundation for Sudden Infant Death, Inc., about their research project.

"We are interested in looking at the relationship of environmental factors — geographic area, temperature, humidity, pollutants and so forth," said Dr. Nelson in an interview with the Herald. They have not yet come up with anything new and are just beginning to compare data.

THE RESEARCH project began several years ago for Dr. Nelson when he began gathering data for a virological study of SIDS in the Chicago area. He reviewed the official coroner's records of all sudden deaths occurring in infants seven days to one year of age from 1966 to July, 1970.

"We ran into problems with the study," Nelson explained. "Only one-quarter of the deaths had been autopsied, which is necessary to be sure the death fits in the syndrome. These are not complete statistics and we are not positive that all the deaths are crib deaths."

Their figures on the number of deaths which occur, however, are similar to those reported in other areas, but a little higher (three to four SIDS for every 1,000 live births).

Because of the insufficient autopsy reports the doctors turned to the environment relationship. "We plan to take the cases we have compiled and compare them with the environmental conditions at the time death occurred, and with the environment a week before death," Nelson said.

THEY HAVE environmental statistics — compiled every 15 minutes at nine Chicago stations — to use in their research. Dr. Nelson did state that SIDS occurs more frequently in the winter.

No cause has been found for crib death, which strikes infants suddenly and without warning. In some cases, the victims have had slight colds in the two weeks preceding death.

The current theory on the cause of the syndrome is that a combination of conditions contributes to death. Several studies have shown a relationship between virus and crib death. Despite the frequency of viral infection found in victims, no single virus has been isolated.

"THE PROBLEM is to explain the singular cause of the syndrome," Nelson said. "Pathological studies on the larynx have been done. The current theory is that a number of things led to acute changes in the larynx (causing inflammation and internal suffocation)."

The job ahead for the two doctors is to see what effect environment has on the larynx, etc.

Pollution has been blamed for causing SIDS by many grieving parents. Dr. Nelson, however, does not believe there is any direct relationship between the two. "Air pollution does not 'cause' crib death and I can't even say that it is related," he said.

The length of time they will be able to spend on their research will depend on the amount of money they have.

Their results could help wipe out the mystery surrounding sudden infant death syndrome — the largest cause of mortality in infants.

WHAT TIME IS IT? Time to get tick-ets to "Fashions Round the Clock," a showing of home-sewn ensembles by the Women's Guild of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit, Elk Grove Village. The show is Saturday, May 22, at 2 p.m. in the church. Mrs. Richard Dorn and Mrs. Ervin Moninger are the "clock watchers." Tickets are $1 for adults, 50 cents for children.

Poetess Gwendolyn Brooks Says:

Blacks Must Develop Own Culture

by FRANK BULLARD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Pulitzer Prize-winning black poetess has turned away from integration as the solution to racial problems in America. She indicated that blacks must develop a sense of identity by developing their own culture.

In an interview in Essence, a magazine for black women, Gwendolyn Brooks said she once "thought integration was the solution. All we had to do was keep on appealing to whites to help us, and they would."

The 53-year-old poetess said she now has concluded that "I was naive, I was sweet. I was sweet and ignorant."

MRS. BROOKS, who has written since the age of seven, was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for poetry in 1950. She said it was not until 1967, however, when she was attending a black writers' conference, that she became aware of the realities of black life in America.

"What I saw and heard . . . was of a new nature to me," she said. "Kids in my writing class would talk about what was going on. I'd listen and I'd say, 'What? You don't mean it! Is that really true?'"

"There I found what has stimulated my life these last three years; young people full of a new spirit. They seemed stronger and taller — really ready to take on the challenges."

Prior to that Mrs. Brooks said, most of her friends and her readers were white and they considered her a "bitter" poetess. But she said that even she did not understand the dilemma of the black.

"IF I HAD BEEN reading even the newspapers intelligently, I would have seen that it (integration) simply was not working, that blacks kept exposing themselves to it only to get their faces smacked," she said.

Mrs. Brooks, who lives by herself in Chicago, has no ill will toward the whites she once knew but neither does she associate with them. Instead, she is trying to put into practice her belief that blacks must develop their own culture.

She said she even hopes that her autobiography will be published by a black firm, although "I've been with Harpers since 1945, when it published my first book."

While she spoke of the need for strength and firmness by blacks, she did not advocate force or agitation. She also said that while she does not intend to remarry, she doesn't think black women should be involved in women's liberation.

"I think women's lib is not for black women, for the time being, because black men need their women beside them, supporting them in these tempestuous days," she said.

Janie Crocker Is A Spring Bride

White daisies and gladioli decorated the Baptist Church in Carpentersville April 17 for the springtime wedding of Janie C. Crocker and Thom H. Prokop. Janie, who makes her home in an apartment at 4891 Wilke Road, Rolling Meadows, is the daughter of former Wheeling area residents, the L. B. Children of the inner city will go to camp this summer through proceeds of the Campership Tea hosted by Mrs. Thal. Members of the Lutheran Church of the Cross in Arlington Heights will be contributing items to be sold at the day-long event.

Mount Prospect Homemaker Unit of Cook County Extension Association is inviting area women to a membership tea next Wednesday afternoon at the local community center, 600 SeeGwun.

It will give anyone interested in the group a chance to see a display of handicraft items made by members and to hear the lesson of the month.

The tea table will be ready at one o'clock, along with the craft exhibit. At 1:30, Shirley McCann, assistant extension adviser, will speak on "The People Explosion," dealing with the nervous tensions of people today.

Your Real Estate, Property Tax Bills Are On The Way

by DAVE CRIPPEN

Northwest suburban residents will be receiving their 1970 real estate and personal property tax bills within the next few weeks.

After a delay of more than two months, the Cook County Treasurer's office yesterday began sending out statements to Chicago taxpayers, thereby clearing the way for billing of residents of the county's 30 suburban townships.

Tax rates for suburban communities have not yet been determined by the county clerk's office but Walter Prybylo, tax extension officer for the county clerk, said he would begin computing suburban rates early next week. He estimated that computation would be completed within a few days. Tax bills will then be prepared and mailed by the treasurer's office.

Computation of rates and individual tax bills is done alphabetically by township. Thus, residents living in Elk Grove Township will be among the first to receive their tax bills, and Wheeling Township residents will be among the last.

All tax bills will be out by June 15 with the first penalty date of July 15, officials reported.

MEANWHILE, tax rate increases for communities in the Northwest suburban area are expected to be greater than Chicago's rate, which was set at 9.5 per cent.

Figures already available showed a combined rate increase of 11 cents per $100 assessed valuation for Cook County and the Forest Preserve District, both of whom levy taxes in suburban areas.

Cook County's rate jumped from 42.2 cents in 1969 to 51.4 cents in 1970. The Forest Preserve District also boosted its rate from 6 cents to 7.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The only taxing body reducing its rate, according to the county clerk was the Metropolitan Sanitary District. The MSD's rate dropped from 31.4 cents to 23.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Also contributing to the expected tax rate hike in the Northwest suburbs is the 5 per cent increase in the "state equalization factor." The equalization factor, a multiplier determined by the state to provide equitable property assessment in all 102 counties of Illinois, jumped from 1.51 to 1.59.

Prybylo explained that the new multiplier alone would raise the valuation of a home originally set at $10,000 to $15,900. Similarly, the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 will pay $51.40 in taxes to the county, $7.80 to the Forest Preserve District and $23.20 to MSD.

THE EXPECTED sharp increase among other local tax rates is attributed largely to higher levies by area school districts.

Anticipated collections by Cook County

of all taxes — real estate, personal property and railroad — was set at $65,122,847, an increase of almost $14 million over last year.

Combined revenue for the Forest Preserve District was set at $9.8 million, an increase of over $2 million over the previous year. Projected tax receipts for MSD dropped from $38.1 million last year to $29.4 million this year.

There are more than 189,000 taxpayers in the Northwest suburbs, according to the most recent figures from the County Treasurer's office.

Apartment Growth Is Tops Here

Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates are two of the top ranking communities for apartment growth during the past decade, according to the Bell Saving & Loan report.

The Northwest suburbs were listed as the number one area for apartment growth in greater Chicagoland. Schaumburg ranked number four and Hoffman Estates was listed number six among 34 Northwest suburban communities with high apartment growth between 1961 and 1970.

According to the Bell figures, 2,499 apartments were built in Schaumburg during the period and Hoffman Estates has 2,201. The figures represent construction starts.

Other top ranking communities are Arlington Heights, 5,136; Elgin, 2,954; Rolling Meadows, 2,731; and Addison, 2,426.

REASONS FOR THE growth in the number of apartments are the availability of land, new shopping centers, the expansion of industry and the desire for a "country atmosphere" suburban living can provide.

Other reasons are the migration to the suburbs from the inner city and the expressway and tollway network. The pace is expected to continue over the next decade.

Before 1968, only 152 apartment units stood in the two villages, then the boom began. During 1968 construction began on over 700 units in the two villages. Hoffman Estates' big year for construction starts was 1969 when 1,557 multiple units began to sprout. Schaumburg had 832 starts in 1969.

LAST YEAR Schaumburg sprang ahead when 1,241 units were started. Hoffman Estates lagged during 1970 with only 192 new multiple units under way for the year.

The holdback in Hoffman Estates was attributable to the wait for settlement of an agreement to expand water supply facilities in which major apartment builders in the village were required to participate.

The construction of the Woodfield Mall shopping center is one reason apartment growth is likely to continue.

Better than average returns an investor may realize and an appreciation in value at well located complexes are other reasons listed in the Bell Savings report.

Schaumburg is the end of a long journey; and home now for 10-month-old Korean orphan Tara.

Korean Orphan Adopted By Don Olsen Family

This 'Tara' Settles Down In Schaumburg

by JERRY THOMAS

Tara came to live with her new American family a week ago. The 10-month-old Korean orphan was adopted by the Don Olsen family of Schaumburg through the Holt Adoption Program.

"When we first told our relatives and friends that we were adopting a Korean orphan they asked why?"

"What they really meant, most of the time, was why not an American orphan?" said Olsen.

"I really didn't know how to answer then, except that she needed a home. But since Tara has been with us this past week, maybe I can," said her new father.

"We wanted a baby for such a long time and when I saw Tara being carried off the plane at O'Hare airport I thought she looked like a queen," said her proud father.

"Today, I'm sure she must be, because when I hold her I'm rich as a king," Olsen said he was not even sure Tara was their child, at the airport, but knew "she was an exceptional baby, beautiful and bright-eyed."

The Olsens have lived at 1111 Sharon Ln., with their other children Cindy, 7, and Scott 5 for the past two years.

"TARA IS AS MUCH our own as if she was born to us as they were," said Belinda Olsen the mother as she cradled the sleepy-headed baby in her arms. "I wish everyone could see Belinda and Tara now," said Olsen. "She is our baby and what other reason could we give for loving her."

After only one week in this country Tara has adjusted well to her new family, said Belinda but still confuses days and nights.

Brought up in a foster home in Korea, Tara does not understand English but responds to attention with a joyous smile and grins mischievously when she trails behind her brother Scott or runs after the family pets.

"God was so good to us. He gave us two healthy beautiful, children and by adopting Tara maybe we can say thanks somehow," said Olsen.

"THAT'S ONE reason we went to Korea for a baby," said Belinda. There is a greater need to place these abandoned infants in Korea. Belinda said half of all the abandoned infants die before their first birthday.

The Olsens decided over a year ago that instead of having another baby of their own they would make a home for a Korean child.

"We contacted the Holt Adoption Program by writing to P.O. Box 95 in Creswell, Oregon." Tragedy came before happiness for us," said Belinda as she told how the first child they selected died before it could be brought to this country.

"Months of waiting, more than the nine it usually takes, passed before Tara finally came to us." We drove past the airport for 15 months in a row waiting, and saying soon our baby will arrive," said Don.

However, there are costs for the adoption fees and flight from Korea. In the Olsen's case, it cost $857 for the flight fee, and with the addition of lawyers, and adoption fees the total cost was approximately $1,000.

"WE DO NOT BELONG to a church, but have a strong belief in God and that's what the agency wants, people who do have faith in Christ and where Christ is an important part of life in the home," said Olsen.

"Tara's delivery took a little longer and she cost a little more than our other children," laughed Olsen. "But, as soon as we can afford it, we would like to get another one," he added.

Park Chiefs Get Master Plan June 1

Planning consultants will make every effort to deliver a preliminary master plan to Hoffman Estates park directors on June 1.

According to statements made by Allen Caskey, of McFadzean & Everly, Ltd., the Winnetka planning firm retained by the park district, preparation of the initial plan of action will include a number of alternative proposals.

A recent community survey conducted by the planning firm revealed a definite interest in an additional swimming pool, more ice skating rinks and tennis courts and further development of neighborhood parks.

During a committee-of-the-whole meeting held Tuesday night at park offices, Caskey indicated that survey findings will play a large part in development of the plan.

HE EXPLAINED that of a total of 1000 questionnaires mailed to a scientifically selected random sample of the village, 227 were returned.

Caskey described this return as typical of suburban communities and said that of this total, 212 questionnaires made it through McFadzean & Everly's

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The House reversed itself yesterday and voted to resurrect the SST program with a $85 million appropriation for more development work on the controversial aircraft. The project must get by an expected tough fight in the Senate before approval, however.

The administration urged the federal minimum wage be raised from $1.60 an hour to $2 by January, 1974. The proposal recommended, however, a lower minimum for persons under the age of 18.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has acquired what was termed "one of the world's greatest paintings," for a record sum of $5,544,000. The painting is Diego Velasquez's 1650 portrait of his mulatto assistant. The painting was sold last November in a London art auction.

The World

The American dollar inched upward on the European money markets again Wednesday. It was the second day of small gains for the value of the dollar which sagged Monday when West Germany abandoned its "support" and allowed supply and demand to set the worth of U.S. currency.

In what was called "one of the most significant documents" of his nearly eight years as pontiff, Pope Paul VI's apostolic letter on modern social conditions addressed itself to the modern problems of urbanization and pollution. The Pope called on city leaders to tackle housing problems; called the generation gap a problem "which strikes at the deep roots of society;" and condemns in women's liberation "that false equality which would deny the distinction laid down by the Creator Himself..." The Pope warned, however, that society leaders should not solve city problems by pushing birth control.

The State

College students would be required to bear some of the state costs of higher education under a proposal now being considered by the Illinois House Higher Education Committee. The proposal would require a post graduation contribution — in some cases up to $1,500 — to the state by those who attend state schools which receive state funds. The amount would, in part, be determined by the graduate's annual income. Each alumnus could take up to 15 years to pay his share, but the amount would not exceed $1,500.

Water And Sewer Line Bids Opened

Bids for the cost of extending water and sewer lines from Golf and Roselle roads to the Churchill and Knightsbridge subdivisions were opened at the Schaumburg Village Board meeting Tuesday.

The public utility lines have been extended in the past year from Plum Grove Road to the Zembra Valley in the Lake apartment complex.

The lines from Valley Lake Drive to the two subdivisions must be completed by August 1. That is the date Hoffman Estates will stop supplying water to Churchill and the Schaumburg businesses along Golf Road.

The apparent low bid was submitted by Amici Construction of Melrose Park, with a total of $143,992.64. The second low bid came from Centracchio Sewer Co., Lyons, $157,327.

A total of eight bids were received, running to a high of $216,839.80.

THE WORK IS being paid for by the property owners who will benefit from the improvements.

The village board awarded the bid to Amici, pending review and approval of the bid by Village Eng. Joe Zgonina.

Zgonina said the project is running a little late. The engineer's estimate for the project was $169,000.

In other action, trustees referred a proposed change in fire safety requirements for apartments built under planned unit development (PUD) variances to Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamsen.

PUDs are in the B-2, commercial, classification and as such require much masonry construction. Harry Mammach, acting chairman of the plan commission, said the multiple units could also be adequately covered under the Cook County apartment fire code.

He said the code is stringent, requiring fire walls and other precautions. The masonry now required or PUDs makes construction costs very high, he said.

TRUSTEES APPROVED spending $462 or radio equipment the Civil Defense unit needs to use the public works department frequency radio system and $200 for 10 pair of boots for CD personnel.

They also approved spending $410 for new brooms for the street sweeper and $180 to air condition an office in the new public works building. They accepted a low bid of $560 to remove four diseased elm trees from village property.

At the request of Norwell Lane residents, trustees approved putting up no parking, stopping or standing signs on the south side of the street in front of Jane Addams Junior High School.

An ordinance adopted on the second reading creates a Class H liquor license category. It will be for the sale or consumption of beer and wine only. It was requested by Hickory Farms, which plans to locate in Woodfield Mall.

Also approved following a second reading was a change in the corner lot definition. Since such lots face two streets, the builders of new homes or homeowners of existing houses may designate which side is the front. Once a designation is made, it will stay with the house permanently.

FORMER TRUSTEE Sig Thorsen asked if the ordinance will permit a developer to put small ranch homes on all vacant corner lots. If this happened, it would be a detriment to the larger homes in the Lancer Park subdivision, he said.

Village Atty Jack Siegel said the village can't legislate on esthetics.

On a first reading, trustees approved annexing the property of the Schaumburg Township Public Library into the village. The annexation was requested to permit the library to proceed with construction of an addition and permit it to tie into village sewer and water lines.

Trustee Mathew Helsper announced that public work committee meetings will now be held the third Monday of the month in the Great Hall, 8 p.m. Trustee James Guthrie also called a meeting of the judiciary committee for Monday at 7:30 p.m., Great Hall.

Auto Tag Law Enforced

A Hilldale Village apartments resident who asked Hoffman Estates officials to have police issue warnings before writing tickets for village sticker violations was told the sticker regulations will continue to be enforced vigorously.

Edward Schneider, 1885 Huntington Blvd., said many transfers who have no knowledge of municipal regulations move into the development.

He asked officials at this week's village board meeting to have police issue a warning citation with a welcome to Hoffman Estates instead of the $10 fine some neighbors are receiving.

"One neighbor received three citations in a 48 hour period," Schneider said. "Rather than place the burden on building management why not issue a warning."

Mayor Frederick Downey said the sticker ordinance is enforced vigorously at his direction. A large number of cars from older apartment developments have been observed in years past that do not have stickers, he added.

Downey said many people only participate in local government when it costs them money and the sticker fee is an excellent way to participate.

Management at Hilldale Village should contact tenants and let them know about the sticker regulations, Downey said. Stickers are not foreign outside Illinois and transfers should be aware they are liable to be required when moving to a new community, he added.

Dan Larson, administrative assistant told Schneider warnings about sticker regulations were included in a village newsletter.

Hilldale Village residents did not receive the newsletter because management there will not give out the name and address of new tenants on grounds of protecting their privacy, Larson added.

THE AGREEMENT also gives the developer multiple-zoning for 2,500 units with a density restriction of 22 per acre. If the multiple is ever built, it will be located in more than one location.

M-1, INDUSTRIAL zoning, will apply to 213 acres lying west of Meacham to Plum Grove Road.

The acreage along Meacham is zoned B-4, commercial. Plans for this include a 19-acre Turnstyle, an office complex to contain three 7 or 8 story office buildings and a bank, plus a free standing 47,000 square foot retail store.

The rezoning for the M-1 and B-4 was approved with four ayes and Trustee Aigner voting no.

Variances regarding basements and the height of the office buildings were approved by the five board members present.

HANOVER PARK VILLAGE Pres. Richard Baker, left, shows Billy Horner "the ropes," as Myles Esrig, sales manager for 3-H Building Corporation looks on. The Horner, 8055 Brockton Court, were the 2000th family to move into the Hanover Highlands subdivision of Hanover Park, built by 3-H. They were presented this large root balled maple tree for Spring planting.

2,000th Family Welcomed To Village

"We picked the house first and then looked over the village," commented the 2000th family to move into Hanover Park's 3H Highlands subdivision. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horner, 8055 Brockton Court South, recently were presented a large maple tree by Myles Esrig, 3H Building Corp. sales manager.

Hanover Park Village President Richard Baker was on hand to welcome the family.

"We're thrilled with the house and love the area," said Horner, enthusiastically backed by his wife Judy and small son Billy. They added that the tree would hold a place of honor in their front yard.

Horner, an assistant operation manager in security for Weeden and Co., Chicago, said that they had been looking for a home in the northwest area for a long time, but chose the L-shaped ranch for the dollar value. The house has three bedrooms and two baths.

Mrs. Horner said "the price was just right and there's so much room."

She said she couldn't get over the fact that she has kitchen cabinets that are still empty. "The frosting on the cake for her husband," she said, "is the extra large beamed family room."

3H Building Corp. has the Hanover Highlands subdivision in Hanover Park; Old Mill Grove, Lake Zurich; and Berkeley Square, Arlington Heights.

Rail's Needs: $14 Million

Milwaukee Railroad representatives gave trustees of the newly formed Northwest Suburban Mass-Transit District Tuesday a statement of capital needs up to the year 1975.

According to Hanover Park district Trustee Frank Wallace the tentative budget spells out a need for $14 million to expand present services of the railroad and purchase new, needed rolling stock.

Wallace and trustees from the communities of Streamwood, Elgin, Bartlett, Roselle, Bensenville, Itasca, Wood Dale, River Grove, East Dundee and Franklin Park agreed to place the budget on a priority list of things that must be done this year.

The budget figure is purely tentative, points out Wallace as he explained that several sessions are needed to iron out the full proposal.

WALLACE SAID the Milwaukee Road's first plan did not mention the Ontarioville railroad station that serves Hanover Park and surrounding areas. "I want that in the subsequent proposal before I approve any budget," he noted.

Wallace said the funding would come from a capital Federal grant and that there are several ways of applying.

The Mass-Transit district when it formed did so, because federal funds could be applied for by a district but not by the company.

Wallace added that one plan asks for a third of the financing of the $14 million budget to come from the mass-transit district.

A second way and the course the trustees wish to take is to wait and see what happens to a bill presently proposed in Springfield. Wallace said, simply explained, it would allow the Mass-Transit district to put up rolling stock for collateral and only ask for one sixth of the cost of financing.

THE MASS TRANSIT district meeting was set up in Elgin as a public hearing and to afford the railroad to make its statement of needs.

A sparse crowd asked few questions and most area residents came to hear what the railroad needed and made little comment.

Hampshire residents heard the railroad explain that they are making plans to build a five track yard in Hampshire and possibly extend the line past Elgin to Hampshire.

Wallace said the next session of the Mass-Transit District will be hosted by Hanover Park when the trustees meet at 8 p.m. June 9.

Zoning OKd For Apartments

An ordinance zoning 64.7 acres in western Schaumburg for 723 townhouses, condominiums and apartments was approved on the second reading by Schaumburg trustees Tuesday.

To be known as Colony Lake Club, the project will be built by the Hoffman-Rosner Corp. on the south side of Golf Road west of Bode Road near Helen Keller Junior High School.

Construction must begin within two years. Colony Lake will include an eight acre commercial area and a seven acre storm water retention lake.

The developer has agreed to pay for the costs of extending Salem Drive-Jones Road on the edge of the property. It is anticipated that the adjacent property owners will pay for half of this work.

The townhouses and condominium units will sell for $25,000 to $30,000. The population at completion is expected to be between 1,600 and 2,000 residents.

The builder agreed to donate an eight acre site to Dist. 54 and pay $100 per three bedroom unit and $25 per two bedroom unit to the school district.

In addition, a $100 per unit donation will be made to Schaumburg's proposed cultural center.

President ProTempore Gordon Mullins, along with Trustees Herb Aigner, Mathew Helsper and James Guthrie voted yes on the ordinance, while Trustee Jack Larsen voted no.

Completion of a first draft master plan and plan of action will then enable park commissioners to make a decision concerning a possible referendum and help determine the time preferable for offering the issue to voters, he said.

Respondents appear to be interested in the neighborhood park concept and expressed a high degree of preference for swimming facilities, ice skating areas, tennis courts, baseball fields and playgrounds as well.

Caskey told board members that park districts recently having succeeded with funding expansion have offered a "package deal" with one or possibly two major facilities offered in addition to upgrading and or creation of neighborhood recreational facilities.

HE SAID THAT in his mind the survey indicated a sensibly high degree of interest in expansion coupled with a willingness to increase taxes to pay for this growth should the proposal be favorable to them.

He cautioned park board members against the idea of going toward one large facility or sports complex in favor of offering something to everyone in all areas of the park district.

Caskey observed that Hoffman Estates Park District possibly offers only one-fourth of the programs needed in the community but explained that these cannot be offered due to lack of facilities.

"It should also be noted that thus far you have made all capital improvements from operating capital which is a situation that cannot continue if progress is to be made," Caskey told the board.

Neither he nor board members felt this week that they are in a position to discuss specific proposals but said that when the plan is completed the commissioners will then have to decide if they want to go to referendum and if so for what amount.

Regardless of the proposal, Caskey advised the park board to either stage a special election calling for a bond issue of seven to eight hundred thousand dollars or go to approximately $1.2 million depending on the proposal.

HE SAID THAT the survey also revealed a strong feeling regarding lack of facilities and programs for teenagers but tended to point up the view of parents who are opting for strictly supervised areas and activities.

The average age of respondents in the survey was 34, however, Caskey noted that this pointed out parents' feelings regarding supervision rather than that of the teens.

"First we are going to have to make a decision as to whether to go to referendum and then discuss specific amounts that would be involved," Caskey said.

The next step would be a decision regarding funding of a proposed capital expansion program through either revenue or general obligation bonds.

"At any rate, we cannot now begin talking specifics," he said.

Construction Of Building Cited

Schaumburg Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamsen yesterday cited Town Square Apartments as being "very well constructed," and credited the construction with preventing a major fire.

Fire did break out in one of the apartments at 300 S. Roselle Rd., rented to Richard Geeting, at about 9:20 p.m. Tuesday, but fire walls between each apartment prevented it from spreading. Other tenants in the building could not even detect an odor of smoke until it was discovered.

The fire was started in a sofa by a cigarette. Abrahamsen said, and was discovered when smoke came out a window. In the apartment, only the sofa showed actual fire damage, although clothing and other furniture showed smoke and water damage. The tenant had left the apartment about an hour and a half before the fire was discovered, and no one was home when firemen arrived.

"I can give (George) Shapiro (complex owner) a plug here on the construction of the building. Due to the construction, the fire was contained in one apartment," said Abrahamsen.

Three Youths Charged With Drug Possession

Three young persons, from Schaumburg, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights, were charged with possession of marijuana and possession of a stimulant drug, amphetamine, by Schaumburg Village Police Sunday.

The driver of a van type truck in which the three rode when they were arrested also was charged with having improper identification on the side of the vehicle. He is Terry A. Demetre, 19, of 1530 Weathersfield Way, Schaumburg. Charged only on the drug counts were Robert C. Adams, 20, of 112 W. Sunset Rd., Mount Prospect, and Lynda F. Vrandack, 18, of 710 Victoria Ln., Arlington Heights. They are to answer the charges June 2 in Circuit Court in Schaumburg.

Police stopped the truck on Braintree Drive at Weathersfield Way for the identification violation, and reported they saw material alleged to be marijuana and capsules alleged to be amphetamine inside the truck.

Also in the truck, but not charged was a juvenile police did not identify.

OK Woodfield Legal Points

Ordinances annexing, rezoning and granting variances to a 394 acres adjacent to the Woodfield Mall Shopping Center in Schaumburg were approved by trustees Tuesday following a second reading.

The property is owned by J. Emil Anderson & Co. The land lies west of Woodfield Mall, between Golf and Higgins roads and extends west to Plum Grove Road.

Of the total acreage, 181 acres, located mostly along both sides of Meacham Road, was annexed to the village. Trustees Herb Aigner, Mathew Helsper, Jack Larsen and James Guthrie and Pres. Pro Tempore Gordon Mullins voted yes on the annexation.

Mixed zoning classifications were approved for the parcel. About 70 acres along Higgins retains T-1, transitional zoning. This obsolete classification includes commercial, office, laboratories, wholesale, warehouse, manufacturing-industrial and residential uses except single-family.

Burglary Reported At Enco Station

The burglary and theft of $55 from a cash register was reported to Schaumburg Village Police Wednesday by Larry Burget, proprietor of Village Enco station, 314 W. Higgins. On investigation, police determined entry was gained by kicking open a locked door to the station. Also opened was a locked cabinet.

Hospital Addition Slated As Nine Stories

by SANDRA BROWNING

The five-story addition presently under construction at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, will grow to nine floors following the signing of a $1.58 million contract Monday night.

The addition is adjacent to the northeast corner of the hospital at 800 W. Central Road and was originally planned to be built in two phases. First, the 166-bed five floor portion was scheduled to be built with extra foundation support and other items so the second phase, a four-floor 166-bed addition, could be added in four or five years.

However, based on revised occupancy figures, the hospital's board of directors authorized the construction of the outside shell of the remaining four floors at the same time as work on the lower five floors.

Cost of the additional four floors will bring the total cost of the addition to more than $9.38 million. Estimated completion date is the fall of 1972, at which time the hospital's total number of beds will be approximately 600.

BURT CHOTINER, vice president administration for the hospital, said the board felt it would be "prudent" to authorize the construction of the shell at this time.

One reason for the early construction of phase two was the heavy construction work would be completed at one time, resulting in less inconvenience to patients and less disruption of service.

Another of the reasons was the money which could be saved by building the shell now, rather than paying increased construction costs, at a later date, for ripping off the roof on the first phase. Chotiner said the interest which the hospital will pay on the money it borrows

Fashion Show Slated

The home economics department of James B. Conant High School will present its 7th annual fashion show Friday, 8 p.m., in the school cafeteria.

"Passport to Fashion" will feature fashions of the world, including pant suits and original wool dresses. About 50 girls in Clothing II and advanced clothing classes will model their school and home projects.

The show is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

matter into the air, consisting of part of phenolic compounds including cresylic acid.

He alleged the odors were "strong and offensive, causing respiratory irritation and other damage to personal health and enjoyment as well as damage to property."

SCOTT FILED suit in Cook County Circuit Court under his authority to deal with a public nuisance and two Illinois pollution laws.

The suit asked to permanently enjoin the company from polluting the air, seeking penalties of $10,000 for each violation of the Environmental Protection Act of 1970, and up to $1,000 a day for each day the violation continued.

Also, $5,000 for each violation of the Air Pollution Control Act that was in effect until July 1, 1970, and $200 for each day the violation continued.

The firm, located at 901 Chase Ave. in Elk Grove Village has been the object of complaints for years by residents who have smelled the odor emitted from the plant.

The firm, located in the community for seven years, manufactures a baked coating magnet wire for use in electrical products.

Last September, executive vice president Anthony Jordan, said the firm was in the midst of a "total environmental program" that would cost from $3 to $5 million and that it was in "no violation of any law."

William Scott, attorney general, charged that the firm emits a gaseous

Wire Corp. Files Counter Suit

Chicago Magnet Wire Corp. has filed a suit against Elk Grove Village seeking $2 million in damages, said Village Mgr. Charles Willis on Tuesday.

The suit is a counter claim to another suit filed in April by the Illinois Attorney General's office to halt air pollution at the Elk Grove Village plant.

The municipality, which authorized its attorney to work in conjunction with the attorney general's office, is named in the counter claim with the attorney general.

EDWARD HOFERT, village attorney, said the village has 30 days in which to respond to the counter claim, filed May 3 in Cook County Circuit Court. The suit was served on the village Monday, though village officials did not learn of it until late Tuesday.

Apply Now For Scholarship

Students planning to attend a college or university in Illinois for the 1971-72 school year may make application for an Illinois State scholarship or grant by June 1, 1971.

Applications are available from high school counselors, Jack McCrory, financial aid officer at Elgin Community College, or the Illinois State Scholarship Commission (ISSC), Box 607, Deerfield, Ill. 60015.

The ISSC program will pay tuition and fees in $150 increments up to a maximum of $1200 or the maximum of the total tuition and fees. The application determines which students are eligible for financial aid in accordance with the amount a student and his parents should be expected to pay from income and assets.

The ISSC estimates they will receive between 105,000 and 115,000 applications for the 1971-72 school year. Eighty thousand applications have already been received. Over 250 students currently enrolled at ECC have made application for assistance while they continue their education at ECC or as they transfer to a four-year institution. According to McCrory, approximately 400 of the 1,280 full-time ECC students currently enrolled are eligible for free tuition under the provisions of the ISSC program.

For further information about the ISSC program, contact a high school counselor, McCrory at 695-1000, Ext. 222, or the ISSC.

Students Exhibit Art At Library

Both Elgin and Larkin High School art students are displaying a variety of art objects at the Gail Borden Library from now through May 29.

"The subjects expressed by the high school students are as varied as the techniques and media they used," said Corinne Loeb, director of art for Elgin School District U46.

Media used includes macrame, print making, water color, tempera, oils, photo montage, and various photographic displays illustrating both realistic and imaginative techniques.

There are also examples of weaving and pop art sculpture.

Coordinators for the exhibit are Betsy McKay, head of the art department at Elgin High School and Don Johns, head of the art department at Larkin High School.

The exhibit area is open during regular library hours: noon - 9 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Woman Injured In Automobile Accident

Marie Johnson, 50, of 256 Lakeview, Hoffman Estates, was treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital Monday after she sustained a head injury in an auto accident at Higgins and Roselle roads.

Mrs. Johnson was a passenger in a car driven by Helen Schulz, 43, of 259 Lakeview. She was eastbound on Higgins when she made a left turn onto Roselle.

Charged with failure to yield the right-of-way was Raymond Mueller, 33, of 721 Lincolnwood. Streamwood, who was driving westbound on Higgins, said police. He is to appear June 25 in Circuit Court in Schaumburg.

Tefft Eighth Graders Visit Springfield

Eighth grade students at Tefft Junior High School, Irving Park Road, Streamwood, highlighted the spring semester with a one-day trip in April to Springfield.

According to Melvin Swiedarke, social studies teacher, the trip culminated the social studies classes' study of the history of Illinois.

In addition to a tour of the Capitol Building, the students met Secretary of State John Lewis and several state senators.

Over 300 students went on the trip on two different days.

The students also visited the Old State Capitol Building, Lincoln's Home and Tomb and New Salem.

Church To Hold Rummage Sale

Church of the Cross of Hoffman Estates will hold a rummage sale this weekend to raise funds for the summer student theological intern fund.

The Presbyterian congregation, through its session and minister, has invited a Princeton Theological Seminary student, Monica McKig, to be part of the church staff for three months during the summer.

She will assist the pastor and work with various groups within the church especially the young people. This will give her some field training as part of her seminary education.

A similar program was conducted last summer when another Princeton student, Lance Hudgins, spent three months at the church.

This Friday and Saturday the rummage sale will be held at the church, on Higgins Road west of Roselle Road near the intersection of Golf and Higgins.

Friday hours will be noon to 9 p.m. and Saturday 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Rummage sale co-chairmen are Mrs. Richard Christie and Mrs. Henry Mueller.

Carpenter Tools From 1800 To Be Displayed

A permanent display of carpentry tools dating back to the early 1800s stands in a new position with the modern equipment in the Elgin Community College machine tool shop.

The tools were presented to ECC by Mr. Emma Cover of Wayne and were accumulated by three generations of the Cover family from her husband Harl Hutch Cover to his grandfather the Rev. Mr. Cover Akron, Ohio.

The tools represent a bygone era of men working with their hands in an ordinary yet artistic occupation. They were the means of creation when things hand made were a way of life.

The Rev. Mr. Cover used some of the tools as a handy man to supplement his salary as a minister. He was best known for the podiums he built in the Akron area. What tools he had were passed to his son Amandas H. Cover.

A. H. Cover was born in 1855 and the tools are a tribute to his life. He ultimately made his home in Wayne as a carpenter and the tools of his trade grew in number as his business mushroomed. The mainstay of his livelihood came from a small cabinet shop behind his house and his business as a contractor and builder. Before settling in Wayne, however, his expertise as a carpenter reached as far as Salt Lake City, Utah. There he built the city post office and was commissioned by the Mormon church to work in their magnificent Tabernacle.

COVER WAS BLINDFOLDED going to and from his work room in the Tabernacle to prevent him from revealing and inside of the Tabernacle to the outside world. He helped install the huge pipe organ in the building and did some of the intricate hand carvings on the furniture. It was natural for Cover's son, Harl, to apprentice himself in his father's shop. The two men worked together building houses in Wayne, Wheaton, Glen Ellyn and Elgin when these areas were vast farmlands. In 1915 Harl married and he and his father built the house which Mrs. Cover still lives in today.

Harl "Hutch" Cover was caught in the transition from hand production to automated production. The shop he inherited from his father became a part time interest and past history "Hutch" then worked for the Elgin Aurora third rail and finally for the Illinois tool works, Elgin.

AFTER RETIRING, Hutch became a local figure in Wayne. He was the piper of children and small dogs. The shop was used occasionally when a neighbor needed some obscure tool which had long fallen into disuse. The shop was finally disassembled in 1965 to make way for a garage. After 100 years of use, the shop gave way to progress. All the tools were then boxed and stored in the Cover basement until last year when John Murphy, business administrator for ECC and a neighbor of Mrs. Cover, discovered them. Hutch Cover died two years after the shop was taken down.

The display includes the workbench of A. H. Cover which is put together with wooden nails and studs. On the wall behind the bench is an array of tools marked by time. A dozen planes of every size possible are flanked by intricately carved levels, wooden mallets worn with use, awls and many more. A side piece of the display is an unusual old pig saw. The carpenter sat on a seat in front of the saw and pedaled as on a bicycle to make the blade move.

The tools were refurbished by Milton Holtz and the display was set up by Ralph Schroeder, both of Elgin.

The display will be an educational parallel for all visitors and students at the college.

Elgin Choir To Present Final Concert

The Elgin Community College Concert Choir will present its final concert of the year tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Hemminger Auditorium, Elgin Civic Center.

The concert appropriately begins with "The Lord Is My Music" by Williams. The choir will then go to a more religious vein with "Lord We Love This Place" by Gounod. Here, too, a woman and a young man of Elgin are two canons from "The Catch Club or Merry Comedians."

The Chorales, a select group of male and female voices will then take over a portion of the program with contemporary tunes. "Raindrops Keep Fallin' On My Head" by Bacharach begins this portion of the concert and is followed by the Ballad of Kachta Hootch by Elgin. The chorales will end with "Four Free" by Black and Barry which is the title song from the motion picture. The Girls Ensemble will take the lead from Broadway tunes with "As Long As He Needs Me" by Bart from the musical "Oliver" and "Aquarius" by MacDermid from "Hair."

GARY EIGHTHARDT will play an organ interlude between the first and second half of the program. "Espana Cani" by Coleman will be followed by a medley of popular tunes including "Sunny," "Something" and "Going Out of My Mind."

The Chorales will open the second half of the program with the animated antics from Telephone Hour by Charles Strousse from "Bye Bye Birdie."

The choir will come back with "Looks Like Spring Is Here" by Simeone and "Curtain Time" by Cassey. "For All We Know" winner of an academy award for 1970 by Knapp, will be juxtaposed with the rock beat of the finale "Praise and Sing" by Butler. For this final number drums, string bass, guitar and organ will accompany the choir to an exciting finish.

The choir will perform under the direction of Mrs. Jayne Schaefer. Adult admission to the concert is $1. Student admission is 50 cents.

40 Volunteers To Aid Area Clean-Up

A group of 40 persons volunteers from the Jaycees Do Something campaign will work all day Saturday on a cleanup project through Hoffman Estates.

The effort is being coordinated by Street Supt. Ken Dean who welcomes additional residents who want to help gather litter from around the village. The group will meet at village hall, 161 Illinois Blvd. at 9 a.m. Persons wishing more details should call Dean at 894-3034.

John Sowa immediate past president of the Hoffman Estates Jaycees, this week presented Mayor Frederick Downey and the village board with a letter of appreciation for cooperation the group received from village officials over the past year.

Sowa's letter was followed by a request from the group's new president, Robert Janus who asked for a beer license during the Jaycee carnival this summer.

Janus said the concession will be closely regulated to avoid the sale of beer to minors. The village board will act on the request at Monday's village board meeting.

Nigeria's YMCA Leaders Put Needs Of Kids First

"Nigeria's recent civil war left its wake a staggering number of human needs, so many, in fact that both government agencies and voluntary organizations were hard pressed to know where to begin," Ralph Wood executive director of the Greater Elgin YMCA said in describing the role of Nigeria's YMCA following the war.

Nigeria's YMCA leaders decided that children should be their first concern, Wood said. Thousands of youngsters — innocent victims of war — were homeless and many were orphans. All were hungry and insecure.

The Y responded by setting up emergency month-long camps in various parts of the Eastern Region. "In each camp, 100 youngsters were given nutritious food recreation programs, educational classes — and most important, the first love and understanding these youngsters had known for a long time," Wood said.

At first, all supplies for the camps had to be trucked in from the capital, Lagos, Wood said. But as soon as possible the Y began to buy food stuffs locally to help in a small way the economy of the devastated region.

MOST OF THE volunteer leaders for the camps came from local communities in the Eastern Region. Since there was no time for training before the camps began, the volunteers had to be taught at night after the campers had gone to bed.

In addition, seven young men from the war-affected states were brought to the Y's Training Center near Lagos for a crash program in youth leadership community development and the organizing and conducting of work camps.

"These emergency training programs have resulted in the opening of new YMCAs or reopening of Ys destroyed during the war in 12 communities in the Eastern Region," Wood commented.

The YMCA members of Elgin have more than a passing interest in the work of Nigeria's YMCA, Wood said. Through its YMCA World Service program Elgin's YMCA helps support Y work in 36 countries including Nigeria.

Performance Slated

The Hoffman Chorale and the Carzonia Trio will perform at Our Savior's Methodist Church Sunday at 3 p.m. The church is located in Hoffman Estates on Golf Road east of Roselle Road.

The Hoffman Chorale has appeared before many local and civic organizations and at St. Joseph's Hospital, Little City and numerous nursing homes.

The Carzonia Trio has given concerts in local schools and for civic groups. There will be no admission charge, but donations will be accepted. Refreshments will be served.

Students Sponsor Taiwan Boy

The Associated Dental Students at Elgin Community College have become the sponsor of a seven month-old boy from Taiwan through the Pearl S. Buck Foundation Inc. Philadelphia, Pa.

The Foundation is not a child relief program in the usual sense. It has made itself responsible for more than donating money, clothing and food to displaced children. The Foundation was established with the primary goal of discovering and aiding children whose fathers are American and whose mothers are Asian, the Amerasian children. These children stand between two countries whose people do not want them.

Amerasian children are displaced from birth. They are without status in the eyes of their country since they assume the nationality of their fathers. As a result of this attitude, one of the greatest problems is bringing the Asian people to awareness of the value of the American heritage and the Americans to an awareness of the existence of half American children throughout Asia.

Ju Syweng Wu lives with his mother, grandmother and brother. The entire family lives on the salary of the mother. They will now receive $16 a month from the ECC dental students to augment her salary. The students will receive progress reports from the Foundation and be kept up to date on his well-being.

Earn NIU Degrees

Several area students received bachelor and graduate degrees from Northern Illinois University at the end of the first semester.

James Gerald Kelley of 7200 Jonquil Terrace earned a bachelor's degree.

Timothy John Cummings, 161 Des Plaines Lane, Mary Deems Howland, 120 N. Olive St. and Donna Jean M. Sembach, 169 Payson St., all of Hoffman Estates, received bachelor's degrees.

John Reid Kagan of 10 E. Ottendorf, Streamwood, received a bachelor's degree.

Two Hoffman Estates students received master's degrees. They are Geraldine J. Heniff of 220 Grand Canyon and Patricia Mulrone of 648 Greenfield.

Robert G. Beatty of 530 Raymond Court, Schaumburg, also earned a master's degree.

Vandals Are Preventing Improvements

New street signs bent and damaged by vandals in Hoffman Estates delay other capital improvements in the village. The Virginia Hayter said this week.

To show the type of destruction vandals create, Mrs. Hayter pulled the damaged intersection cross-sign from under the podium in village hall Monday and held it over her head during the board meeting.

Mrs. Hayter later praised Frank Alex, youth commission chairman for the job he did in quickly organizing a display showing the dangers of drug abuse for last week's health heart fair held at Keller Junior High School.

Alex was called to arrange a display when the party who was planned to show anti-drug abuse materials failed to arrive. Mrs. Hayter said.

11 Students Win HT Competition

Four students from James B. Conant High School's industrial education department are listed among winners of the Illinois Institute of Technology's 21st annual drawing and design competition for high school students.

Senior Mark Grabo of Schaumburg received a favorable consideration for his industrial machine drawing. Junior Lee Ellison of Hoffman Estates was given a favorable consideration for his pictorial representation.

Douglas Kosloske, a senior from Schaumburg received favorable consideration for his advanced architectural drawing, and senior Peter Mueller received mention for his pictorial representation.

The four were among 20,218 entries in the competition. One hundred or less winners were chosen in six divisions. Awards presented were one first place, two second place, two third place, ten honorable mention, 20 mention and 40 to 60 favorable consideration.

Dr. Irving instructors at Conant are David Chobar and Gerald Peterson.

OK Tax Warrants Purchase

The purchase of $175,000 in tax anticipation warrants was authorized Monday by the Hoffman Estates Village Board.

"We had hopes of getting through the 1971-72 year without TAWs but because of the electioneers in Chicago we face the same problem as most taxing bodies," said Trustee William Cowin, finance committee chairman.

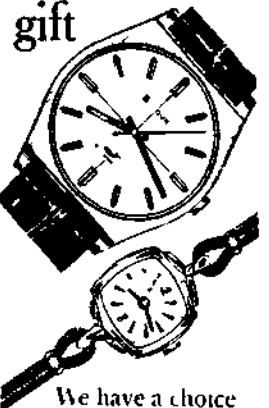

Cowin referred to the delay by county officials in getting tax money delivered on time to local taxing bodies in Cook County.

School Dist. 54 which includes the western portion of Elk Grove Village, will have to pay an additional $26,000 in interest over what it expected because of the situation, Cowin added.

He said it is difficult to predict what the added expense will cost the village because the interest rate is not yet known.

Vote Campaign Push Is On For Referendum

With two days left before the Dist. 214 high school referendum, a citizens' committee in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling is preparing for a massive "get out the vote" drive for the election Saturday.

Board Schedules Committee Sessions

A variety of committee meetings have been scheduled in the next few weeks by Wheeling village board members.
Next Monday at 7:30 p.m. a committee meeting of the board as a whole to acquaint the new trustees with board procedures has been called by village president Ted C. Scanlon.

Bill Kinkade, a liaison between the Buffalo Grove-Wheeling committee and the district's central committee, yesterday explained what plans have been made for election day.

"Right now we are compiling a list of 'friendly neighbors' who will probably vote in favor of the referendum. We are also lining up a telephone campaign to call the people on this list Saturday morning and ask them to vote for the referendum," Kinkade said.

ALSO ON SATURDAY, members of the committee will station themselves at shopping centers in both villages to pass out handbills urging residents to vote.

"I think we're pretty well organized," Kinkade said. "The key thing is the people coming out to vote in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling. If we can get the vote out here we can carry it," he said.

Expansion Of Library Lines Attempt Set

The decision to attempt to expand the Wheeling Library District into Lake County came in response to requests from residents of Buffalo Grove, according to Joyce Finnegan, a library trustee.

Most of the out-of-district cards issued by the library go to residents of the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove and many of these persons had asked about the possibility of annexation to the district, Mrs. Finnegan said.

The district now takes in most of Wheeling and the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove.

The library board at first considered annexation of only the Buffalo Grove portion of Lake County, Mrs. Finnegan said, but it was decided that this was impractical.

THE RAPID GROWTH of Buffalo Grove, she said, would mean that "we would have to have one annexation after another" to keep the library district boundaries the same as those of the village.

Instead, the library board decided to attempt to annex a 15 square mile area directly north of the county line. It includes Buffalo Grove, small parts of Long Grove and Lincolnshire and the communities of Prairie View, Half Day, Horatio Gardens and Aptakisic.

"The boundaries," Mrs. Finnegan said, "are very similar to those suggested by a survey done for the North Suburban Library System by the Institute of Urban Life." She described the annexation area as the "natural growth area" for the

Post Office Traffic Tie-Up Answers Sought

Wheeling's Zoning Board of Appeals has invited a representative of the Wheeling Post Office and Police Chief M. O. Horcher to a meeting May 18 to consider a solution to traffic problems in the area of the post office and village municipal building.

Acting on a request by the village board that they study the traffic in the area and a proposal for a chute-type mailbox in front of the municipal building, the zoning board deferred discussion until the May 18 meeting.

In a brief discussion Tuesday, zoning board chairman Douglas Cargill said that placing a mailbox in front of the village hall was not the solution. He said he thought they should "confine the confusion to one general locality," — the post office.

Roman Domas, zoning board member, said he thought drop boxes in shopping centers would be a better solution to the mail congestion problem.

WILLIAM BIEBER, village director of building and zoning said he thought boxes in the middle of the K-Mart or Dunhurst Shopping Center parking lots might be the answer.

The zoning board members also proposed a "one way" drive way system for the post office. To enter, drivers would use the east driveway and to leave they would use the west driveway.

To enter the village municipal building drivers would use the west driveway and to exit they would use the east driveway, they suggested.

"No Left Turn" and "No U Turn" signs were also proposed, possibly ones applying only to certain peak traffic hours.

Absentee Ballots Are Available

Absentee ballots for the May 22 Wheeling Library District referendum are now available at the library, 850 Jenkins Ct., Wheeling.

The ballots will be available during regular library hours through May 21, but officials suggested voters phone the library in advance to insure an authorized employee will be on hand to help them.

The library phone number is 537-4011. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The House reversed itself yesterday and voted to resurrect the SST program with a $85 million appropriation for more development work on the controversial aircraft. The project must get by an expected tough fight in the Senate before approval, however.

The administration urged the federal minimum wage be raised from $1.60 an hour to $2 by January, 1974. The proposal recommended, however, a lower minimum for persons under the age of 18.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has acquired what was termed "one of the world's greatest paintings," for a record sum of $5,544,000. The painting is Diego Velasquez's 1650 portrait of his mulatto assistant. The painting was sold last November in a London art auction.

The World

The American dollar inched upward on the European money markets again Wednesday. It was the second day of small gains for the value of the dollar which sagged Monday when West Germany abandoned its "support" and allowed supply and demand to set the worth of U.S. currency.

In what was called "one of the most significant documents" of his nearly eight years as pontiff, Pope Paul VI's apostolic letter on modern social conditions addressed itself to the modern problems of urbanization and pollution. The Pope called on city leaders to tackle housing problems; called the generation gap a problem "which strikes at the deep roots of society;" and condemns in women's liberation "that false equality which would deny the distinction laid down by the Creator Himself." The Pope warned, however, that society leaders should not solve city problems by pushing birth control.

The State

College students would be required to bear some of the state costs of higher education under a proposal now being considered by the Illinois House Higher Education Committee. The proposal would require a post graduation contribution — in some cases up to $1,500 — to the state by those who attend state schools which receive state funds. The amount would, in part, be determined by the graduate's annual income. Each alumnus could take up to 15 years to pay his share, but the amount would not exceed $1,500.

Workers of the UAW agreed to end their 100-day strike at the two Sunstrand Corp. plants in Rockford. Production at the hydraulic pump and aircraft parts plant is expected to resume Monday.

The War

High administration officials said yesterday that evidence is mounting that Hanoi may attempt a major military offensive just prior to the October elections in South Vietnam.

The Weather

Funnel clouds skipped through parts of the Deep South and lower Midwest during the past two days while thunderstorms spread from the Lower Great Lakes to the lower Mississippi Valley. Funnel clouds were reported northeast of Champaign.

The Market

Profit taking loosened its hold on the stock market in the final minutes of trading Wednesday and allowed most key indicators to finish higher in moderate turnover. The Dow Jones Industrial Average edged up 21 to 937.46. DJ utilities also climbed but the DJ transportation index lost ground. Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American stock exchange.

Expansion Of Library Lines Attempt Set

Wheeling library

"ACTUALLY, it is a medium-sized area," Mrs. Finnegan said. "It isn't nearly as large as some of the growth areas suggested for other libraries."

The western boundary is Arlington Heights Road and Rte. 83. "It takes in about 20 families in Long Grove," Mrs. Finnegan said. "We didn't want to take any of Long Grove but we did want to follow natural boundaries."

The eastern boundary is the Des Plaines River. This puts part of Lincolnshire in the district and Mrs. Finnegan said the same reasoning was followed in selecting this boundary.

The southern boundary is the county line and the northern boundary is a section line one mile north of Port Clinton Road.

THE EXPANSION will be decided by an annexation referendum May 22, and if it passes, Mrs. Finnegan said the new area will be served by a bookmobile or a branch library "within a few months."

"Our primary aim," she said, "is to provide direct service and if the referendum passes we will be able to get state funds for a bookmobile or a branch."

Annexation would increase the district's tax base and give it the money to expand its collection of books. Mrs. Finnegan said, but in the immediate future the main tax burden will be carried by the present library district area. The present area has an assessed valuation of $75 million, while the valuation of the annexation area is $39 million.

Annexation would mean that residents of the new area would begin paying a library tax of 22 cents per $100 of assessed valuation or $33 a year on a house with an assessed valuation of $15,000. Taxes would decrease slightly for residents of the present area since part of their taxes are for a bond issue. With a larger tax base, this tax rate would decrease slightly.

IN THE PAST two years the library has enlarged its collection from 18,000 to 31,000. It moved into a new building at 850 Jenkins Ct. in Wheeling less than two weeks ago.

The Wheeling library is a member of the North Suburban Library System and its cards are honored at 28 member libraries. The Wheeling library can also borrow books from other libraries at the request of a resident.

Residents of both the present library district and of the annexation area will vote in the referendum. A majority of the total number of votes will decide the issue.

Mrs. Finnegan said that the library board wants to plan ahead for the area.

If the referendum is defeated this will be difficult, she said, since the library district would be required to wait three years before building another one.

Koontz Leaves Cubs

Robert Koontz received his Cub Scout graduation certificate at a meeting of Cub Scout Pack 43 in the Joyce Kilmer School in Buffalo Grove.

Todd Lambert won the "best all-around car award" at the pack's Pinewood Derby. The winner of the pack was Jay Rasmussen. Second place went to Tim Trzaniak and third place to Dennis Reeb.

The pack's next meeting will be June 4 and the "handy Andy" for that meeting will be "Do Your Own Thing."

Al Volz Honored On 100th Birthday

About 50 friends gathered at Northwest Community Hospital yesterday to pay tribute to Al Volz on his 100th birthday.

Volz, who has been in intensive care at the hospital for about five weeks with a heart condition, was wheeled to the lobby of the hospital for a brief ceremony in observation of the anniversary.

The lobby was decorated with flowers donated by Charles Klehm & Son Nursery and a number of cakes. The largest of the birthday cakes was donated by Walter Aronson, operator of The Cake Box, 15 W. Campbell St.

About 100 greeting cards were stacked on the table by the cakes, along with a poster of greetings put together by third graders at Windsor School, and a stack of personal messages to Arlington Heights' oldest citizen from the school children.

Village Pres. Jack Walsh read Volz a personal letter from President Nixon. When he finished, Volz declared "That's wonderful. Ain't that wonderful?"

AMONG THE GREETINGS received by Volz were a letter from the Arlington Beautification Council informing him that three trees have been planted in his honor at the eastern entrance to Arlington Heights on Northwest Highway, and one from Arlington Heights Junior Women's Club which said $100 was donated to the Arlington Memorial Library in his name.

Among those present at the ceremony were Volz' daughter-in-law, Louella Volz, wife of his son, Rex; and his granddaughter, Ann Volz of Glenview. Also on hand was William Meyer, Arlington Heights postmaster from 1916 to 1928 and village treasurer for 25 years during the height of Volz' political career. Meyer, now retired in Albuquerque, N.M., timed a vacation visit to Arlington Heights to coincide with Volz' birthday observance.

Harwood said a series of smaller units rather than the single large building originally proposed for the development were planned if the planned development zoning is granted.

Rezonning of the 23-acre site on the east side of Milwaukee Avenue north of Dundee and south of Edgewood Drive was recommended unanimously Tuesday by the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals.

The property, owned by Richard and Ralph Harwood, is proposed for development as a planned development with one and two bedroom units.

The property has been zoned for multiple family zoning (R-4) since 1967 despite opposition to the original zoning of the land for apartments from residents of the Edgewood drive area.

The Harwood brothers, who own Northern Illinois Construction Co. and Harwood Homes, explained that they now own one contiguous parcel of land. Earlier the land had been divided by a parcel owned by another person.

At the hearing the attorney for the developers, Harold Feinberg, explained that the preliminary site plan called for clusters of small buildings to be built in the development. No specific figures were available yet for the development, but an estimate of 350 units was given by the developers.

RALPH HARWOOD told the zoning board members that the development would be designed to give the effect of bringing the forest preserves into the development. The property is bordered on the east by the forest preserves.

He said fingers of green belts would extend into the development.

The proposed plan also called for putting greens, a swimming pool, and approximately 40 per cent of the land being left to open space.

Harwood said a series of smaller units rather than the single large building originally proposed for the development were planned if the planned development zoning is granted.

A staggered design will provide optimum view of the forest preserves from the largest number of apartments.

A NAME OF Forestview Village Apartments has been proposed for the development.

They said they hoped to develop the land as soon as possible. Development of the land has been held up because of the economy, but financing for the project appears to be available now, the developers said.

An agreement made in 1967 promising donations of more than $6,000 to school district 21 by the developers will be enforced, they said, when the project is built and may even have to be amended in the school district's favor.

A covenant saying there can be no more than two bedrooms per unit runs with the land.

A final decision on the rezoning of the property will be made by the village board based on the recommendations of the zoning board of appeals.

Furniture Store Rezoning Denied

A proposal for rezoning to allow a 150,000 square-foot furniture store on the southeast corner of Dundee Road and Wheeling Road was denied Tuesday by the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals.

The board acted against the rezoning primarily because the rezoning request was for an entire 30-acre tract and the use of 20 acres of the land had not yet been decided.

A final decision on the rezoning request will be made by the Wheeling Village Board.

The petitioner, the Wickes Corporation, is seeking rezoning of the 30 acre site from industrial district to general business district zoning.

THE SITE, CURRENTLY owned by the G. D. Searle Co., is bounded on the north by Dundee Road, on the south by Heritage Park, on the west by the existing Wheeling Road, and on the east by the village municipal building.

The Wickes Corp. proposed building a 150,000 square foot building — housing a furniture store and warehousing for the store on the west 10 acres of the site.

They explained that they had to purchase the entire 20 acres in order to have the site for the store and so were seeking rezoning of the entire area, hoping to build other businesses on the remaining 20 acres of the property.

"A blank check for 20 acres of B-3 (general business district zoning) is something we're not ready to digest at this time," zoning board chairman Douglas Cargill said of the proposal.

THE ZONING BOARD ALSO questioned the plan to store large quantities of merchandise for the store in the front of the building and have customers walk through the warehouse area to showrooms. They pointed out that such storage might not be legal in the general business district zoning classification.

The Wickes attorney, William Theiss, explained that the furniture store venture is a new one for the corporation. Other businesses the corporation has include a line of cash and carry hardware stores and home supply centers, and a manufacturing division, he said.

He said the corporation had more than a million dollars invested in the purchase of the property.

Deliveries of furniture to the site would be by a rail spur, avoiding truck traffic on Dundee Road, the developers testified.

They introduced testimony from a traffic analyst showing that the development of the area with commercial zoning would have a less detrimental effect on Dundee Road traffic than if the land was developed as an industrial park.

THE BASIS for the traffic study pointed out that peak traffic to a furniture business would be in mid-afternoon and early evening while traffic peaks from an industrial park would coincide with rush hour traffic currently on Dundee Road in the early morning and the after work hours.

The attorney told the zoning board that advantages of the rezoning would be eliminating the industrial zoning in an area no longer suited for industry, sales tax revenues of approximately $80,000 yearly for the village, and the absence of traffic increase.

The proposed furniture store would be similar to ones being built in Itasca and Flossmoor, they testified.

The developers suggested that a neighborhood shopping center might occupy the other 20 acres of the land, but said they had no definite use in mind.

Zoning board members question how extensive the flood plain area of the land was at present. Cargill asked why the developers had not sought B-1 shopping center district zoning for the land since a furniture store would be allowed in such zoning.

Zoning Board members said that if the 20 acres had B-3 zoning rather undesirable uses could be built adjacent to the village municipal building with no required review of the development by the village board.

THE DEVELOPERS WOULD have to subdivide the land to build more than one building on it. And they would have to demolish existing Koeppen farm buildings before building the furniture store if the land is not subdivided, Cargill said.

Zoning board member Al Martin said he thought the developer would need a variation to build a store with as much warehouse space as Wickes proposed.

Despite offers of covenants to restrict the uses on the 20 acres, the zoning board finally voted unanimously to recommend denial for the rezoning request.

His Bag Is Sacred Music

by JIM HODL

While most young song writers special-ize in rock music, Rory Noland's bag is sacred music.

He has been composing hymns and church songs as a hobby for the past few years. While these songs were for his own pleasure only, the word got around about his talent.

In February, Palatine's Christ Lutheran Church asked Noland to try his hand at writing the music for their contemporary church service.

The end results of Noland's efforts were performed Sunday at the church and according to Noland's father, James, the music was "well received."

Noland, who lives at 57 David Dr., is only a sophomore at Palatine High School. He is an accomplished piano and guitar player and has used these instruments in the composition of songs.

HIS SONGS. UNLIKE most church music, have a modern beat. While he would not compare these songs to the music in "Jesus Christ Superstar," he does consider them to be highly contemporary.

When asked to compose music for a church service, Noland said he had only one song that would fit, "Lord's Prayer."

For the other songs, he started from scratch, writing both music and lyrics. Two songs "Call to Worship" and "Confession of Sins and Absolution," took him only two weeks to compose, he said. The final song, "Words of Institution," took a month to write.

Taking the finished product to the church, the choir began rehearsing Noland's music immediately. By mid-April, the choir was auditioning a few of the songs at various worship services at Christ Lutheran.

AT THE SAME TIME, the church printed a booklet containing the Noland hymns. Currently, there is talk around the church that the songs will be copyrighted for Noland.

Finally, after much work, Noland's entire church service was performed Sunday by the choir. He assisted by playing the piano.

Interest in Noland's music goes beyond Christ Lutheran, his father said. There have been requests for copies of the music from other area churches, he said, some of non-Lutheran denominations.

Pupils Attend Play

Three third grade classes at Henry Wadsworth Longfellow School in Buffalo Grove have seen the play, "Treasure Island" at the Mill Run theater and the fourth graders will see it next Wednesday.

After the play, the third graders toured the Lamb's Pet Farm in Libertyville. After the fourth graders see the play they will visit the Morton Arboretum in Lisle.

Board Will Not Endorse High School Referendum

The Elk Grove Village Board has chosen not to endorse Saturday's $10.5 million bond referendum for a high school in Buffalo Grove.

High School Dist. 214 officials had requested that municipalities in the district (Elk Grove, Wheeling and a portion of Palatine townships) adopt a resolution supporting the referendum.

Buffalo Grove and Rolling Meadows have endorsed the bond issue.

Lick Pahl, Elk Grove Village president, said it is not unusual for the village board not to endorse a referendum though it has done so on occasion.

He said trustees preferred that residents make their own judgment on how to vote.

THE STANDARD way for endorsement by public officials, he said, has been for individual trustees to endorse and not the board as a whole.

Most recent issues to be endorsed by the village board include the new Illinois Constitution last fall and the four township mental health referendum early this year.

Ronald Chernick, at Tuesday's village board meeting, said if the resolution came to a vote he would abstain. He said he did not feel a trustee should tell residents how to vote. The resolution did not come to a vote.

Last week, Chernick said Elk Grove Village had no representation on the village board, a situation that arose following the defeat of Leah Cummings of 1009 Ridge Ave. in the suburb in the April school board election.

Tuesday, the village board heard a presentation on the referendum by Fred Klink of Elk Grove Village and Donald

Council Endorses School Referendum

The Rolling Meadows City Council has voted unanimously to support the Township High School Dist. 214 referendum scheduled for a vote this Saturday.

The resolution passed by the council urged all citizens to vote yes for construction of a new high school in Buffalo Grove "to insure the continuation of the present excellent educational program of the district."

It said the school district has "practiced efficient long-term planning of schools to insure quality educational facilities at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayer."

Dist. 214 has recommended an eighth high school to be constructed in Buffalo Grove in time for the opening of the 1973-74 school year if the referendum passes.

Elye, an assistant principal at Elk Grove High School.

Klink said the cost of the referendum would be "quite low" about $4.50 a year for a resident with a house worth $10,000.

"WE HAVE TO try to keep ahead of the kids," said Elye.

If the district's eighth high school is not built, he said, there will be overcrowding in Wheeling High School and John Hersey High School in Arlington Heights.

The district's policy is to limit schools to 2,500 students, he said, noting later that enrollment at Elk Grove High is 2,714 students but is expected to decrease.

Next fall, 350 freshmen attending Elk Grove High will be attending the new Rolling Meadows High School now under construction, he said.

Forty per cent of the students at Elk Grove High are from Des Plaines, he said, adding that the percentage will decrease as Des Plaines students are phased into Forest View High School in Arlington Heights.

Klink, a member of a citizens committee for an eighth high school, said enrollment was increasing from 1,000 to 1,500 students a year in the district.

ENROLLMENT is presently 16,000 students in 6 schools with 22,000 expected in 1977. The 1980 projection is 25,000.

Elye said there are fewer first and second grade students in the elementary schools in the district and that there may be some "relief in seven years."

Full-Time Sanitarian Hiring Is Approved

Donald Schindler has been hired as the first full-time Rolling Meadows sanitarian.

Schindler was appointed by Mayor Roland Meyer and approved by city council for a two-year term. His salary has been set near $11,300.

He had served as sanitarian at Northbrook and presently is the health inspector at Buffalo Grove.

City officials approved hiring a full-time sanitarian to more fully enforce city health codes. A part-time employee had been working eight hours a week making health inspection before approval of a full-time man was given.

Your Real Estate, Property Tax Bills Are On The Way

by DAVE CRIPPEN
Northwest suburban residents will be receiving their 1970 real estate and personal property tax bills within the next few weeks.

After a delay of more than two months, the Cook County Treasurer's office yesterday began sending out statements to Chicago taxpayers, thereby clearing the way for billing of residents of the county's 30 suburban townships.

Tax rates for suburban communities have not yet been determined by the county clerk's office but Walter Prybylo, tax extension officer for the county clerk, said he would begin computing suburban rates early next week.

He estimated that computation would be completed within a few days. Tax bills will then be prepared and mailed by the treasurer's office.

Computation of rates and individual tax bills is done alphabetically by township. Thus, residents living in Elk Grove Township will be among the first to receive their tax bills, and Wheeling Township residents will be among the last.

All tax bills will be out by June 15 with the first penalty date of July 15, officials reported.

MEANWHILE, tax rate increases for communities in the Northwest suburban area are expected to be greater than Chicago's rate, which was set at 9.5 per cent.

Figures already available showed a combined rate increase of 11 cents per $100 assessed valuation for Cook County and the Forest Preserve District, both of whom levy taxes in suburban areas.

Cook County's rate jumped from 42.2 cents in 1969 to 51.4 cents in 1970. The Forest Preserve District also boosted its rate from 6 cents to 7.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The only taxing body reducing its rate, according to the county clerk was the Metropolitan Sanitary District. The MSD's rate dropped from 31.4 cents to 23.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Also contributing to the expected tax rate hike in the Northwest suburbs is the 5 per cent increase in the "state equalization factor." The equalization factor, a multiplier determined by the state to provide equitable property assessment in all 102 counties of Illinois, jumped from 1.51 to 1.59.

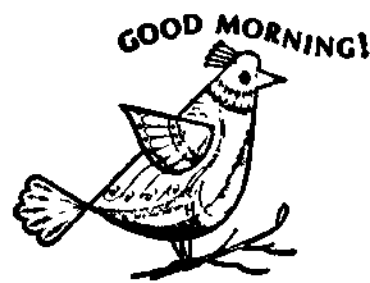

Prybylo explained that the new multiplier alone would raise the valuation of a home originally set at $10,000 to $15,900. Similarly, the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 will pay $51.40 in taxes to the county, $7.80 to the Forest Preserve District and $23.20 to MSD.

THE EXPECTED sharp increase among other local tax rates is attributed largely to higher levies by area school districts.

Anticipated collections by Cook County of all taxes — real estate, personal property and railroad — was set at $65,122,847, an increase of almost $14 million over last year.

Combined revenue for the Forest Preserve District was set at $9.8 million, an increase of over $2 million over the previous year. Projected tax receipts for MSD dropped from $38.1 million last year to $29.4 million this year.

There are more than 189,000 taxpayers in the Northwest suburbs, according to the most recent figures from the County Treasurer's office.

Vote Campaign Push Is On For Referendum

With two days left before the Dist. 214 high school referendum, a citizens' committee in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling is preparing for a massive "get out the vote" drive for the election Saturday.

The citizens' committee and an "action team" from Wheeling High School have been urging a "yes" vote on the $10.5 million referendum to build a school in Buffalo Grove at the corner of Dundee and Arlington Heights roads.

In the past weeks, the groups have been appearing at meetings of civic groups in the area and explaining the details of the referendum and their reasons for supporting it.

THE CITIZEN'S committee and the action team are only part of a district-wide organization created to support the referendum. Each of the district's seven high schools has an action team which has been distributing information in the same manner as the one at Wheeling High School.

Also, printed information has been mailed to about 58,000 homes in the district.

In Buffalo Grove, two former village trustees, Charles Wilhelm and Rex Lewis have been active in the citizens' committee. Wilhelm has designed and constructed signs that have been placed in the village urging a vote in favor of the referendum Saturday. Lewis is chairman of the get-out-the-vote committee.

Bill Kinkade, a liaison between the Buffalo Grove-Wheeling committee and the district's central committee, yesterday explained what plans have been made for election day.

"Right now we are compiling a list of 'friendly neighbors' who will probably vote in favor of the referendum. We are also lining up a telephone campaign to call the people on this list Saturday morning and ask them to vote for the referendum," Kinkade said.

ALSO ON SATURDAY, members of the committee will station themselves at shopping centers in both villages to pass out handbills urging residents to vote.

"I think we're pretty well organized," Kinkade said. "The key thing is the people coming out to vote in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling. If we can get the vote out here we can carry it," he said.

The Rutzenhals Bus Co. has lost its second attempt this year to find a place to park its school buses.

The Buffalo Grove Village Board Monday night rejected a proposal by the firm for rezoning of a five-acre site on Rte. 88 near the proposed extension of Lake-Cook Road.

Earlier this year, the Wheeling Village Board had rejected a similar request from the bus company.

Dick Byrne of Rutzenhals complained to the board that the company has been "trying to get the buses into a smaller group where the people will accept them, but no one will accept them."

BYRNE SAID his company wanted a convenient location at which to park its buses that transport students at Wheeling High School and Buffalo Grove and Wheeling elementary schools. The firm would keep its depots in Arlington Heights and Mundelein, for buses that serve schools near those areas, Byrne said.

Bob Moore, an attorney for Rutzenhals, said that the company planned to build a maintenance garage for five buses on the property and that "15 to 20 people" would work there.

Harvey Cohen, who said he represented neighboring landowners, objected to the proposal saying that it would change the character of the area and place buses almost in the backyards of homes.

"If Buffalo Grove has a downtown, this is downtown," Cohen said, "and there is no rhyme or reason for changing it now."

Richard Heinrich, a former member of the plan commission, said that the commission has envisioned the area as residential. It is now zoned R-9. Byrne had wanted zoning changed to B-1.

"OKLAHOMA" COMES TO Wheeling High School this weekend and again the following weekend. Performances will be in the school's Little Theater at 8 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday and at the same time May 21 and 22. Expansion Of Library Lines Attempt Set

The decision to attempt to expand the Wheeling Library District into Lake County came in response to requests from residents of Buffalo Grove, according to Joyce Finnegan, a library trustee.

Most of the out-of-district cards issued by the library go to residents of the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove and many of these persons had asked about the possibility of annexation to the district, Mrs. Finnegan said.

The district now takes in most of Wheeling and the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove.

The library board at first considered annexation of only the Buffalo Grove portion of Lake County, Mrs. Finnegan said but it was decided that this was impractical.

THE RAPID GROWTH of Buffalo Grove, she said, would mean that "we would have to have one annexation after another" to keep the library district boundaries the same as those of the village.

Instead, the library board decided to attempt to annex a 15 square mile area directly north of the county line. It includes Buffalo Grove, small parts of Long Grove and Lincolnshire and the communities of Prairie View, Half Day, Horatio Gardens and Aptakisic.

"The boundaries," Mrs. Finnegan said "are very similar to those suggested by a survey done for the North Suburban Library System by the Institute of Urban Life." She described the annexation area as the "natural growth area" for the

Board Endorses Park Referendum

The Buffalo Grove Village Board has unanimously endorsed the referendum to be held May 22 by the Buffalo Grove Park District.

The endorsement came Monday night after William Kiddle, park board president, spent about half an hour explaining the referendum to the trustees and an audience of about 30 persons.

Although Kiddle did not ask for an endorsement, Trustee Charles Vogt told the board that he thought that since they had recently voted to support High School Dist. 214 and Wheeling Library District referendum, they should also endorse the park district's referendum.

The board then voted to back the referendum and Village Pres. Gary Armstrong said he concurred in the action.

Kiddle explained that the park district had decided to seek voter approval of a $1,250,000 bond issue now because of the "diminishing amount of land available for parks," and rapidly rising construction and land costs. He said that the items included in the referendum were one that residents had favored in a recent survey done by the park district.

Kiddle said that park board members and their consultants would be "on the campaign trail" for the next week and a half trying to elicit support for the referendum.

Absentee Ballots Are Available

Absentee ballots for the May 22 Wheeling Library District referendum are now available at the library, 850 Jenkins Ct., Wheeling.

The ballots will be available during regular library hours through May 21, but officials suggested voters phone the library in advance to insure an authorized employee will be on hand to help them.

The library phone number is 537-4011. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

The amount would, in part, be determined by the graduate's annual income. Each alumnus could take up to 15 years to pay his share, but the amount would not exceed $1,500.

Expansion Of Library Lines Attempt Set

Wheeling library "ACTUALLY, it is a medium-sized area," Mrs. Finnegan said. "It isn't nearly as large as some of the growth areas suggested for other libraries."

The western boundary is Arlington Heights Road and Rte. 83. "It takes in about 20 families in Long Grove," Mrs. Finnegan said. "We didn't want to take any of Long Grove but we did want to follow natural boundaries."

The eastern boundary is the Des Plaines River. This puts part of Lincolnshire in the district and Mrs. Finnegan said the same reasoning was followed in selecting this boundary.

The southern boundary is the county line and the northern boundary is a section line one mile north of Port Clinton Road.

THE EXPANSION will be decided by an annexation referendum May 22, and if it passes, Mrs. Finnegan said the new area will be served by a bookmobile or a branch library "within a few months."

"Our primary aim," she said, "is to provide direct service and if the referendum passes we will be able to get state funds for a bookmobile or a branch."

Annexation would increase the district's tax base and give it the money to expand its collection of books, Mrs. Finnegan said, but in the immediate future the main tax burden will be carried by the present library district area. The present area has an assessed valuation of $75 million, while the valuation of the annexation area is $39 million.

Annexation would mean that residents of the new area would begin paying a library tax of 22 cents per $100 of assessed valuation or $33 a year on a house with an assessed valuation of $15,000. Taxes would decrease slightly for residents of the present area since part of their taxes are for a bond issue. With a larger tax base, this tax rate would decrease slightly.

IN THE PAST 20 years the library has enlarged its collection from 18,000 to 31,000. It moved into a new building at 850 Jenkins Ct. in Wheeling less than two weeks ago.

The Wheeling library is a member of the North Suburban Library System and its cards are honored at 28 member libraries. The Wheeling library can also borrow books from other libraries at the request of a resident.

Residents of both the present library district and of the annexation area will vote in the referendum. A majority of the total number of votes will decide the issue.

Mrs. Finnegan said that the library board wants to plan ahead for the area.

If the referendum is defeated this will be difficult, she said, since the library district would be required to wait three years before holding another one.

Al Volz Honored On 100th Birthday

About 50 friends gathered at Northwest Community Hospital yesterday to pay tribute to Al Volz on his 100th birthday.

Volz, who has been in intensive care at the hospital for about five weeks with a heart condition, was wheeled to the lobby of the hospital for a brief ceremony in observation of the anniversary.

The lobby was decorated with flowers donated by Charles Klehm & Son Nursery and a number of cakes. The largest of the birthday cakes was donated by Walter Aronson, operator of The Cake Box, 15 W. Campbell St.

About 100 greeting cards were stacked on the table by the cakes, along with a poster of greetings put together by third graders at Windsor School, and a stack of personal messages to Arlington Heights' oldest citizen from the school children.

Village Pres. Jack Walsh read Volz a personal letter from President Nixon. When he finished, Volz declared "That's wonderful. Ain't that wonderful?"

AMONG THE GREETINGS received by Volz were a letter from the Arlington Beautification Council informing him that three trees have been planted in his honor at the eastern entrance to Arlington Heights on Northwest Highway, and one from Arlington Heights Junior Women's Club which said $100 was donated to the Arlington Memorial Library in his name.

Among those present at the ceremony were Volz' daughter-in-law, Louella Volz, wife of his son, Rex; and his granddaughter, Ann Volz of Glenview. Also on hand was William Meyer, Arlington Heights postmaster from 1916 to 1928 and village treasurer for 25 years during the height of Volz' political career. Meyer, now retired in Albuquerque, N.M., timed a vacation visit to Arlington Heights to coincide with Volz' birthday observance.

Recommend Land Rezoning

Rezoning of the 23-acre site on the east side of Milwaukee Avenue north of Dundee and south of Edgewood Drive was recommended unanimously Tuesday by the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals.

The property, owned by Richard and Ralph Harwood, is proposed for development as a planned development with one and two bedroom units.

The property has been zoned for multiple family zoning (R-4) since 1967 despite opposition to the original zoning of the land for apartments from residents of the Edgewood drive area.

The Harwood brothers, who own North-ern Illinois Construction Co. and Harwood Homes, explained that they now own one contiguous parcel of land. Earlier the land had been divided by a parcel owned by another person.

At the hearing the attorney for the developers, Harold Feiertberg, explained that the preliminary site plan called for clusters of small buildings to be built in the development. No specific figures were available yet for the development, but an estimate of 350 units was given by the developers.

RALPH HARWOOD told the zoning board members that the development would be designed to give the effect of bringing the forest preserves into the development. The property is bordered on the east by the forest preserves.

He said fingers of green belts would extend into the development.

The proposed plan also called for putting greens, a swimming pool, and approximately 40 per cent of the land being left to open space.

Harwood said a series of smaller units rather than the single large building originally proposed for the development were planned if the planned development zoning is granted.

A staggered design will provide optimum view of the forest preserves from the largest number of apartments.

A NAME OF Forestview Village Apartments has been proposed for the development.

They said they hoped to develop the land as soon as possible. Development of the land has been held up because of the economy, but financing for the project appears to be available now, the developers said.

An agreement made in 1967 promising donations of more than $6,000 to school district 21 by the developers will be enforced, they said, when the project is built and may even have to be amended in the school district's favor.

A covenant saying there can be no more than two bedrooms per unit runs with the land.

A final decision on the rezoning of the property will be made by the village board based on the recommendations of the zoning board of appeals.

Furniture Store Rezoning Denied

A proposal for rezoning to allow a 150,000 square-foot furniture store on the southeast corner of Dundee Road and Wheeling Road was denied Tuesday by the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals.

The board acted against the rezoning primarily because the rezoning request was for an entire 30-acre tract and the use of 20 acres of the land had not yet been decided.

A final decision on the rezoning request will be made by the Wheeling Village Board.

The petitioner, the Wickes Corporation, is seeking rezoning of the 30 acre site from industrial district to general business district zoning.

THE SITE, CURRENTLY owned by the G. D. Searle Co., is bounded on the north by Dundee Road, on the south by Heritage Park, on the west by the existing Wheeling Road, and on the east by the village municipal building.

The Wickes Corp. proposed building a 150,000 square foot building — housing a furniture store and warehousing for the store on the west 10 acres of the site.

They explained that they had to purchase the entire 20 acres in order to have the site for the store and so were seeking rezoning of the entire area, hoping to build other businesses on the remaining 20 acres of the property.

"A blank check for 20 acres of B-3 (general business district zoning) is something we're not ready to digest at this time," zoning board chairman Douglas Cargill said of the proposal.

THE ZONING BOARD ALSO questioned the plan to store large quantities of merchandise for the store in the front of the building and have customers walk through the warehouse area to showrooms. They pointed out that such storage might not be legal in the general business district zoning classification.

The Wickes attorney, William Theiss, explained that the furniture store venture is a new one for the corporation. Other businesses the corporation has include a line of cash and carry hardware stores and home supply centers, and a manufacturing division, he said.

He said the corporation had more than a million dollars invested in the purchase of the property.

Deliveries of furniture to the site would be by a rail spur, avoiding truck traffic on Dundee Road, the developers testified.

They introduced testimony from a traffic analyst showing that the development of the area with commercial zoning would have a less detrimental effect on Dundee Road traffic than if the land was developed as an industrial park.

THE BASIS for the traffic study pointed out that peak traffic to a furniture business would be in mid-afternoon and early evening while traffic peaks from an industrial park would coincide with rush hour traffic currently on Dundee Road in the early morning and the after work hours.

The attorney told the zoning board that advantages of the rezoning would be eliminating the industrial zoning in an area no longer suited for industry, sales tax revenues of approximately $80,000 yearly for the village, and the absence of traffic increase.

The proposed furniture store would be similar to ones being built in Itasca and Flossmoor, they testified.

The developers suggested that a neighborhood shopping center might occupy the other 20 acres of the land, but said they had no definite use in mind.

Zoning board members question how extensive the flood plain area of the land was at present. Cargill asked why the developers had not sought B-1 shopping center district zoning for the land since a furniture store would be allowed in such zoning.

Zoning Board members said that if the 20 acres had B-3 zoning rather than undesirable uses could be built adjacent to the village municipal building with no required review of the development by the village board.

THE DEVELOPERS WOULD have to subdivide the land to build more than one building on it. And they would have to demolish existing Koeppen farm buildings before building the furniture store if the land is not subdivided, Cargill said.

Zoning board member Al Martin said he thought the developer would need a variation to build a store with as much warehouse space as Wickes proposed.

Despite offers of covenants to restrict the uses on the 20 acres, the zoning board finally voted unanimously to recommend denial for the rezoning request.

Your Real Estate, Property Tax Bills Are On The Way

by DAVE CRIPPEN

Northwest suburban residents will be receiving their 1970 real estate and personal property tax bills within the next few weeks.

After a delay of more than two months, the Cook County Treasurer's office yesterday began sending out statements to Chicago taxpayers, thereby clearing the way for billing of residents of the county's 30 suburban townships.

Tax rates for suburban communities have not yet been determined by the county clerk's office but Walter Prybylo, tax extension officer for the county clerk, said he would begin computing suburban rates early next week. He estimated that computation would be completed within a few days. Tax bills will then be prepared and mailed by the treasurer's office.

Computation of rates and individual tax bills is done alphabetically by township. Thus, residents living in Elk Grove Township will be among the first to receive their tax bills, and Wheeling Township residents will be among the last.

All tax bills will be out by June 15 with the first penalty date of July 15, officials reported.

MEANWHILE, tax rate increases for communities in the Northwest suburban area are expected to be greater than Chicago's rate, which was set at 9.5 per cent.

Figures already available showed a combined rate increase of 11 cents per $100 assessed valuation for Cook County and the Forest Preserve District, both of whom levy taxes in suburban areas.

Cook County's rate jumped from 42.2 cents in 1969 to 51.4 cents in 1970. The Forest Preserve District also boosted its rate from 6 cents to 7.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The only taxing body reducing its rate, according to the county clerk was the Metropolitan Sanitary District. The MSD's rate dropped from 31.4 cents to 23.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Also contributing to the expected tax rate hike in the Northwest suburbs is the 5 per cent increase in the "state equalization factor." The equalization factor, a multiplier determined by the state to provide equitable property assessment in all 102 counties of Illinois, jumped from 1.51 to 1.59.

Prybylo explained that the new multiplier alone would raise the valuation of a home originally set at $10,000 to $15,900. Similarly, the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 will pay $21.40 in taxes to the county, $7.80 to the Forest Preserve District and $23.20 to MSD.

THE EXPECTED sharp increase among other local tax rates is attributed largely to higher levies by area school districts.

Anticipated collections by Cook County

of all taxes — real estate, personal property and railroad — was set at $65,122,847, an increase of almost $14 million over last year.

Combined revenue for the Forest Preserve District was set at $9.8 million, an increase of over $2 million over the previous year. Projected tax receipts for MSD dropped from $38.1 million last year to $29.4 million this year.

There are more than 189,000 taxpayers in the Northwest suburbs, according to the most recent figures from the County Treasurer's office.

Push Onward With Plan For Landscaping Project

The Palatine Park District board of commissioners decided Tuesday night to go ahead with a proposal to turn part of the proposed Palatine bicycle trail into a community landscaping project.

Part of the trail's route along two miles of the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way in north Palatine will be leased by the district for the project. Then, the district will sub-lease the land to nearby homeowners and local civic groups for landscaping.

It is hoped the sub-leaseholders will continue to maintain their land after the bike trail is built.

Leasing of the right-of-way from Commonwealth Edison will be finalized by the board next month. The two-mile section of the three-mile long right-of-way to be leased by the district will be between Virginia Lake and Hicks Road.

Right-of-way land for the bike path between Hicks Road and the Palatine Hills Golf Course will be leased in 1972 and 1974 when current leases with farmers run out.

TO GET THE PROJECT going by summer, park district architect Bill Vaughan and four other Palatine citizens will begin to stake out the trail's route Saturday.

According to Vaughan, the trail will run close to the center of the right-of-way, not deviating more than 50 feet from the middle. This is being done to avoid future Commonwealth Edison power lines scheduled to be built.

Width of the trail will be about eight feet and it will follow the current topography of the right-of-way since the district cannot afford any grading.

Sub-leases will be offered to homeowners living along the right-of-way first, the board said. Afterward, the land left will be offered to the civic groups.

Groups interested in sub-leasing land along the trail are the Pebble Creek Homeowners Assn., the Palatine Posys Garden Club and the Girl Scouts.

Originally, the district didn't plan to lease the right-of-way property until 1973, when construction on the trail is expected to begin.

HOWEVER, AS A community project, the park district will not have to spend as much money as anticipated for maintenance. Among the costs the district will absorb will be the cost of moving the 46 acre tract six times a year.

The entire trail, when built, will stretch from Palatine Road near Winston Drive to Camp Reinberg on Quentin Road. It will be eight and a half miles long with only three of these miles running along the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way.

Cracker Barrel

A STAKE IN POLITICS? When Palatine Park District architect Bill Vaughan asked for volunteers to stake out the route of the proposed Palatine bike trail on the Commonwealth Edison Co. right-of-way, Jack Scollay, a local resident, volunteered. "If you don't mind taking along a Democrat, I'll help," he said.

AFTER DISCUSSING the status of a luxurious tennis club planned for north Palatine, Palatine Trustee Merwin Soper asked, "It is true that club will be called The Right Club?" After other trustees explained that it is indeed true and the developer's last name, Wright, sounds alike but is spelled with a W, Trustee Wendell Jones said, "Well, I guess that's better than the Wrong Club."

School Play To Be Staged For 3 Nights

by JIM HODL

Nobody seemed to mind when a girl wearing a miniskirt found romance at the turn of the century in Palatine High School's spring musical "Take Me Along."

Nor did anyone see anything odd in a father dressed like William Jennings Bryan have a talk with his son, dressed in paisley shirt and sneakers.

This was only a technical rehearsal of the play.

Held Monday, it was one of three major rehearsals for "Take Me Along," which will be held today, tomorrow and Saturday at 8 p.m. in Palatine's Cutting Hall. Actors were not required to be in full costume until the first dress rehearsal on Tuesday, so a few acted in their normal dress.

Monday's rehearsal began at about 6:30 p.m. with the band assembling and creating the noises all musicians create while practicing. Unlike the actors, the band, conducted by Tom Trimbom, has been rehearsing its music since March.

ACCORDING TO Trimbom, this is necessary since the band uses the same music the professionals used in the original production of "Take Me Along."

"We are only amateurs," he said. "It is a little harder for us to get the music right."

While the band practiced, actors arrived, most in good spirits and eager to get on stage.

Today, the seats of Cutting Hall will be occupied by the public before 8 p.m. However, few people besides the students in "Take Me Along" are there, so the seats became the dressing room.

Among the early arrivals was Chris Pederson, who plays Muriel, one of the lead roles in the musical. She brought along two costumes, one rented and one made.

SHE EXPLAINED that many of the students are renting costumes from a Chicago agency. However, a few have made their own.

One of the most eager student actors present was Mark Kirp, who will make his stage debut as a salesman in "Take Me Along." He will also double as a singer and dancer.

"I tried out for a role because I thought it would be a lot of fun," Kirp said. "Although I only have two lines in this musical, I hope it will lead to an eventual leading role."

Kirp's ambition is Jim Hartman's of a

Indoor Concert Season To Close

Sunday evening the Palatine Village Band will bring its indoor concert season to a close with a performance at Forest View High School, presenting a sample of what's in store for the 1971 summer outdoor program to begin next month.

At 7:30 p.m. the 56-member band will begin its performance in Forest View's theater, located at 2121 S. Goebbert Rd. in Arlington Heights, under the direction of Arthur J. Katterjohn, conductor.

Sunday's concert is the last of four indoor programs and will feature a solo by Dale Clevenger, a principal member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and one of the world's foremost wind artists.

A second guest artist, Thomas Trimbom, who is the band director of Palatine High School, will conduct three works: "Proud Heritage," "Salvation is Created," and "Sequoia, A Tone Painting."

SUNDAY'S CONCERT will feature a variety of other numbers, ranging from "Fantasies on a Theme by Haydn," to "Days of Wine and Roses."

Admission, as at all village band programs, is free of charge and open to all age groups.

The band, which is sponsored jointly by the Village of Palatine and the Palatine Park District, is also gearing up for a series of 10 outdoor concerts to be held at 8 p.m. on Fridays from June 18 to August 20, weather permitting.

The band is also expected to participate in the Memorial Day and Fourth of July celebrations in the village.

This summer, the concerts will be moved from the customary band shell at Community Park to a new site at Palatine Hills Recreation Area near the lake, located north of Northwest Highway and west of Smith Road.

A major project planned for early summer is the production and sale of a high quality stereo phonograph record which will contain the best of the band's material taped during past indoor concerts. The records will be distributed by band members and at the outdoor concerts.

PAUL SIEGERT, president of the village band, said his group is facing two problems, however. Attendance last year was down to roughly half that of 1969, and the band is only two-thirds full.

Siebert heads the band along with Nancy Walber, vice president; John Glover, vice president; Libby Robertson, secretary, and Glenn Stephenson, treasurer.

Sponsored in part by the village board, Palatine trustees recently allotted $5,400 for the band budget this year: $3,400 for the purchase of a new band shell, and $2,000 for operational expenses.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The House reversed itself yesterday and voted to resurrect the SST program with a $85 million appropriation for more development work on the controversial aircraft. The project must get by an expected tough fight in the Senate before approval, however.

The administration urged the federal minimum wage be raised from $1.60 an hour to $2 by January, 1974. The proposal recommended, however, a lower minimum for persons under the age of 18.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has acquired what was termed "one of the world's greatest paintings," for a record sum of $5,544,000. The painting is Diego Velasquez's 1650 portrait of his mulatto assistant. The painting was sold last November in a London art auction.

The World

The American dollar inched upward on the European money markets again Wednesday. It was the second day of small gains for the value of the dollar which sagged Monday when West Germany abandoned its "support" and allowed supply and demand to set the worth of U.S. currency.

In what was called "one of the most significant documents" of his nearly eight years as pontiff, Pope Paul VI's apostolic letter on modern social conditions addressed itself to the modern problems of urbanization and pollution. The Pope called on city leaders to tackle housing problems; called the generation gap a problem "which strikes at the deep roots of society;" and condemns in women's liberation "that false equality which would deny the distinction laid down by the Creator Himself..." The Pope warned, however, that society leaders should not solve city problems by pushing birth control.

The State

College students would be required to bear some of the state costs of higher education under a proposal now being considered by the Illinois House Higher Education Committee. The proposal would require a post graduation contribution — in some cases up to $1,500 — to the state by those who attend state schools which receive state funds. The amount would, in part, be determined by the graduate's annual income. Each alumnus could take up to 15 years to pay his share, but the amount would not exceed $1,500.

Workers of the UAW agreed to end their 100-day strike at the two Sunstrand Corp. plants in Rockford. Production at the hydraulic pump and aircraft parts plant is expected to resume Monday.

The War

High administration officials said yesterday that evidence is mounting that Hanoi may attempt a major military offensive just prior to the October elections in South Vietnam.

Their Concern: Mind Pollution

by JIM HODL

Mrs. Nancy Haines and Mrs. Joni Byrne are against pollution.

While they are concerned about phosphates in laundry soaps and cans littering the countryside, they say they are currently concerned with another kind of pollution — "mind pollution."

For the past few months, Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Byrne, Palatine housewives who live on Kilson Drive in Winston Park, have been combating the exhibition of "X" rated movies at the 53 Outdoor Theatre. Their small petition campaign against the drive-in's movie policy has grown into an area wide effort to back a bill in the state legislature regulating the type of films outdoor theaters may show.

In originating their petition last February, the women were primarily concerned with bringing about a police investigation as to why the 53 Outdoor was showing only "allegedly obscene" movies.

THEY POINTED out that the theater's screen could be viewed from nearby roads. Young people under 18 years old could see films there they could not get in to see at indoor theaters.

However, their campaign hit many snags. Located at Rte. 12 and Hicks Road, the 53 Outdoor was in the unincorporated areas of Palatine Township, preventing a Palatine police investigation. While the Cook County Sheriff's Police had jurisdiction in the area, they said they could do nothing because there was no clear law forbidding the theater from exhibiting "X" rated movies.

"Even when we came to dead ends like this, we kept right on working on this problem," Mrs. Haines said.

For continuing to work on the problem, Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Byrne have won the praise of their neighbors.

"Many of our neighbors have responded favorably to our campaign," Mrs. Byrne said. "Some have even added that they wish they had spearheaded the campaign themselves."

TO DATE, many people, including the Knights of Columbus, have volunteered to help them with their campaign.

However, it is not odd that Mrs. Byrne and Mrs. Haines should be the leaders of such a campaign in the community. Both have been active in the community for years.

Mrs. Byrne is currently active in the Volunteer Service Bureau and in the parish council of St. Thomas of Villanova Church in Palatine. She is also a counselor in the area for the Billy Graham Crusade.

Mrs. Haines is a partner in the Hang-It-All Boutique, a tiny company that makes items to hang on the wall. The company has been aiding various fund raising groups in Palatine, Inverness and Arlington Heights in recent months.

Now that her young children are growing up, Mrs. Haines said she will become involved with local groups again, like the Palatine Township Youth Organization (PTYO). She once was a member of a local PTA group.

Both women point out that their work is not finished since the outdoor theater regulation bill has not passed the Illinois House of Representatives yet. To insure passage of the bill, the women encourage local residents to write their state representatives.

Letters, they said, can be mailed to either Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights; David Regner, R-Mount Prospect; and Mrs. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; at State Capitol Building, Springfield, Ill.

by the Staff of the Palatine Public Library

Former pro football player Dave Meggery quit the sport because he didn't like the way things were. The result of his anger is his new book, "Out of Their League," in which he blasts most of pro football's myths. It is one of several new volumes at the Palatine Public Library this week.

On a more nostalgic level, there is Myron Cope's "The Game That Was." In this book, Cope explains why football was a great sport during its childhood in the 1920s, and how it is losing some of this greatness.

"Clyde" is an autobiography of New York Knicks basketball great Walt Frazier. With the assistance of Joe Jares, Frazier relates his childhood, his rise to greatness through his high school years and at Southern Illinois University, up to when the Knicks won the 1969-70 basketball crown.

SOME PEOPLE collect stamps. Others collect coins. Some even collect liquor bottles. However, Marian Klamkin has authored a book for box collectors. It is called, quite obviously, "The Collectors' Book of Boxes."

"Modesty in Dress" tells the history of the fashion industry. Authored by James Laver, this book tells of every fashion craze from Adam's fig leaf to Rudi Gernreich's topless bathing suit for women.

Boys Are Invited To Scouting Session

All boys eight to 10 years old are invited by Cub Scout Pack 188 of Palatine to try out Scouting for one evening Friday.

The pack is opening its May meeting, to be held in Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rohlfing Rd., at 7:30 p.m., to non-Scouts and their parents. Those attending will be able to observe the things Scouts do, including the vaudeville show the dens will present this month.

Refreshments will also be served. If the boys like what they see, they can join at the end of the meeting.

Parents who seek further information on the Pack 188 program are asked to call 338-0230 or 338-9511.

Picnic Is Planned

A picnic ending the 1970-71 school year for the Palatine Park District's Youth Recreation Organization (YRO) will be held Friday in Community Park.

Beginning at 5 p.m., the picnic is open to all of the 1,200 junior high school students who took part in the YRO program this year. There will be hot dogs for everyone and soda will cost 10 cents a can.

YRO is a program for seventh and eighth graders sponsored by the park district. Meetings at either Winston Park or Sanborn schools on Friday evenings, the young people take part in various fun athletic activities.

The program runs from October to May each year.

few years ago. He started as a bartender in "Bye Bye Birdie" with only five lines. Now, he has a lead in almost every Palatine High School play that comes along.

IN "TAKE ME ALONG," he plays Sid Davis, a role originated on Broadway by Jackie Gleason. Hartman is built like Gleason and said he will try to mimic the "Great One" in his performance.

He has been listening to the cast album of "Take Me Along" to get the Gleason voice characteristics perfect, right down to word mispronunciations.

"In fact, if I had any line troubles, I was instructed to call Gleason," Hatman joked.

Backstage, things were still in a state of frenzy. Stage hands were rushing around placing props and putting together a bed.

After they assembled the bed, a voice kept coming from the rafters warning of the dire consequences that would befall any stage hand who sat on it.

Doug Schrader, the stage manager, seemed to be the only person who wasn't happy backstage. He was too tired to smile.

SCHRADER HAS BEEN working with his crew on the "Take Me Along" set for the past six weeks, building a stairway for the home set and assembling the sound system.

"We do just about everything," he said. "We have to keep things moving. Otherwise, I get holed up."

Soon, the rehearsal was ready to begin.

As the curtains parted, the student actors began to present a simple story of life at the turn of the century in Centerville, Conn.

Faculty producer, Larry Peterson, observes the musical from the back row of Cutting Hall, taking notes on things he likes and dislikes about the performances.

Occasionally, he will shout "beautiful!" and "louder" in his commentaries on what he sees.

However, while the show is unveiling on the stage, another show is going on off the stage. In viewing the back of Cutting Hall, one can see actors studying lines or just conversing.

Hartman was seen leading the band with his cane.

But, in all, the students putting on "Take Me Along" appear to be having a good time and it shows in their performances. Peterson promises that this will rub off on the audiences, who will see the musical this week.

Tickets for the play are on sale at the door. All seats will cost $2.

Canoe Trip This Weekend

A group of Palatine High School students and teachers will take a canoe trip down the Wisconsin River this weekend.

According to Wayne Browning, a Palatine science instructor, the trip will originate in Wisconsin Dells and run 20 miles down the river to Portage. The trip will begin Saturday and end on Sunday with the group camping overnight along the river.

Browning said there will be 12 students and five teachers taking the trip. Most of the students are in his Social Implications of Biology course, which is sponsoring the trip.

"This will be the first co-ed canoe trip down the Wisconsin River from Palatine," Browning said.

In previous years, the trip was sponsored by the Girl's Athletic Association and all the canoeists were girls, he said. This year, however, the girls will still outnumber the boys by eight to four.

People going on the trip will also split the costs, Browning said. They will bring their own food and will pay an equal share of the other expenses when the trip is completed.

He estimated that the trip will cost each person about $8.

Tabulate Pollution Questionnaire

Survey Returns Surprising

Suburbanites are either unaware or ignoring the challenges of today's pollution problems, according to preliminary returns of 30,000 questionnaires distributed to local grade school children recently.

Sponsored by PEP, Pollution and Environmental Problems, questionnaires were given to students of elementary schools in Palatine, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows during Earth Week in April.

About 10 per cent of the children returned them to their schools and members of PEP have begun to tabulate the results.

"From early results it's fair to say recycling and the use of non-phosphate detergents are the least used anti-pollution tactics by the people," explained Mrs. Clayton Brown, co-chairman of the project.

"WITH ALL THE publicity about phosphates and recycling we're a little surprised at the returns, but it indicates a great deal more education in those areas is needed," she said.

The questionnaire asked children to answer five basic questions:

—Does your family buy soft drinks in returnable bottles?

—Does your family save newspaper and glass for recycling?

—Does your mother use a non-phosphate detergent?

—Has your family talked about planting a tree?

Does your family avoid the use of dangerous chemicals to spray on bugs and weeds?

More students answered "yes" to the first question than any other, but to the next two questions a high percentage of negative answers were recorded.

About planting a tree almost two-thirds of the students said "yes" while one-third said "no."

The last question concerning dangerous chemicals brought forth a large number of positive answers too.

Of all the schools polled, Joel Wood School in Palatine had the greatest return of questionnaires with 40 per cent. The average at most schools was 10 per cent which was the number PEP expected to receive back, according to Mrs. Brown.

"THE MAIN PURPOSE of the survey was to bring to the younger child the realization that there are many things, they, and their families, can do at home to help fight pollution," she said.

"And we hope that has been accomplished among, at least, 10 per cent of the children," she said.

The survey also will help guide PEP in its continuing campaign against pollution by indicating the areas which need the most education.

Approximately 3,000 questionnaires have been returned from 27 schools in the area. A few more returns still are expected.

Mrs. Brown said many schools already have requested a repeat of the survey in the fall.

Tennis Club Plan Meets Opposition

Construction of a $300,000 tennis club on property owned by the late George Jayne of Inverness is meeting with opposition from unknown owners of a different piece of property two miles from the clubhouse.

The opposition to the club, planned for the southwest corner of Quentin and Dundee roads, is being spearheaded by Allen C. Engerman. He is the attorney for clients who have entrusted a different 4.5 acre piece of land in Palatine to a Chicago bank and have chosen to remain anonymous.

The tennis club is to be developed on a six acre tract by Jayne's son-in-law, Mickey Wright of Chicago. Previously the same site was earmarked for a riding stable which Jayne planned to build after vacating his Tri-Color Stables at the present Harper College site in December of 1967.

Representing the anonymous objectors, Engerman has charged the tennis club developers did not follow proper channels to change the use of the Dundee-Quentin land from a riding stable to a tennis club. Therefore, he has filed a petition to intervene with the Cook County Circuit Court.

ENGERMAN, WHO refuses to disclose his clients names, said a public hearing on the proposal should have been held to give residents of the area a chance to object or question the developers of the tennis club.

He also said considerations for added traffic flow, sewer and water facilities and other impacts the development would have on the area should have been given a closer public review.

Monday night, Engerman's objection went before the Palatine Village Board which was asked to join in the petition to intervene. The board, however, declined.

But previously, the board as well as residents had objected strongly to the proposal to build a stable on the site.

More than three years ago, Jayne petitioned the county for a B-5 zoning classification, a broad business classification which allows for many businesses, including a stable and tennis club.

The Cook County Board of Appeals and the Palatine Village Board objected to the request, saying it was too broad a classification and would not conform with nearby developments.

JAYNE TOOK THE matter to court and won his battle in 1968. He was granted a court judgment allowing him to build only a riding stable, but was not granted B-5 zoning. Last month Jayne's attorney and an assistant state's attorney asked and were granted an amendment to that court judgment allowing for a tennis club.

But Paul Marcy, secretary of the county zoning board, said Mickey Wright does not have permission to build a tennis club. He said a public hearing must be held on the proposal first, and if the zoning board denies his request, the only way he can get permission to build is by going through the courts again.

On May 24, the same day Mickey Wright plans to begin breaking ground on the tennis club site, Circuit Court Judge Edward Egan will hold a hearing on Engerman's petition to intervene.

Palatine trustees said they are not objecting on the grounds that it does not involve a B-5 Zoning request as it did nearly four years ago.

And residents of the area, who bitterly opposed the stables, are now in favor of the tennis club proposal, said one spokesman for Quentin-Dundee area homeowners.

THAT RESIDENT, who preferred to remain unidentified, said people are puzzled as to why Engerman's clients are remaining anonymous in view of their objections to a development located some two miles away from their own land.

All Engerman would say is he represents a land trust at the American National Bank of Chicago and is objecting to the alleged improper manner in which Wright is developing the tennis club.

Residents, however, say Engerman has asked them to join his opposition, but want no part of it.

Your Real Estate, Property Tax Bills Are On The Way

by DAVE CRIPPEN
Northwest suburban residents will be receiving their 1970 real estate and personal property tax bills within the next few weeks.
After a delay of more than two months, the Cook County Treasurer's office yesterday began sending out statements to Chicago taxpayers, thereby clearing the way for billing of residents of the county's 30 suburban townships.
Tax rates for suburban communities have not yet been determined by the county clerk's office but Walter Prybylo, tax extension officer for the county clerk, said he would begin computing suburban rates early next week. He estimated that computation would be completed within a few days. Tax bills will then be prepared and mailed by the treasurer's office.

Computation of rates and individual tax bills is done alphabetically by township. Thus, residents living in Elk Grove Township will be among the first to receive their tax bills, and Wheeling Township residents will be among the last.
All tax bills will be out by June 15 with the first penalty date of July 15, officials reported.

MEANWHILE, tax rate increases for communities in the Northwest suburban area are expected to be greater than Chicago's rate, which was set at 9.5 per cent.
Figures already available showed a combined rate increase of 11 cents per $100 assessed valuation for Cook County and the Forest Preserve District, both of whom levy taxes in suburban areas.
Cook County's rate jumped from 42.2 cents in 1969 to 51.4 cents in 1970. The Forest Preserve District also boosted its rate from 6 cents to 7.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The only taxing body reducing its rate, according to the county clerk was the Metropolitan Sanitary District. The MSD's rate dropped from 31.4 cents to 23.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Also contributing to the expected tax rate hike in the Northwest suburbs is the 5 per cent increase in the "state equalization factor." The equalization factor, a multiplier determined by the state to provide equitable property assessment in all 102 counties of Illinois, jumped from 1.51 to 1.59.

Prybylo explained that the new multiplier alone would raise the valuation of a home originally set at $10,000 to $15,900. Similarly, the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 will pay $51.40 in taxes to the county, $7.80 to the Forest Preserve District and $23.20 to MSD.
THE EXPECTED sharp increase among other local tax rates is attributed largely to higher levies by area school districts.
Anticipated collections by Cook County

of all taxes — real estate, personal property and railroad — was set at $65,122,847, an increase of almost $14 million over last year.
Combined revenue for the Forest Preserve District was set at $9.8 million, an increase of over $2 million over the previous year. Projected tax receipts for MSD dropped from $38.1 million last year to $29.4 million this year.
There are more than 189,000 taxpayers in the Northwest suburbs, according to the most recent figures from the County Treasurer's office.

Zoning Denied: City Loses Plan For Restaurant

Gus Allgauer is going back to work.
He won't build his $1.3 million restaurant in Rolling Meadows and said he has no plans for the restaurant on another site in the city.
"I'm just going back to work in my other restaurants. This was the best site we could find," Allgauer said after the city council turned down a zoning change that would have allowed the restaurant on Hicks Road near Plum Grove Country subdivision.
Five aldermen voted in favor of the restaurant and five voted against it. Seven "yes" votes were needed for approval of the zoning change, because a petition was submitted from homeowners contiguous to the property against rezoning. State statutes require a two-thirds vote of the aldermen when such a petition is submitted, according to City Atty. Donald Rose.
Ald. Thomas Scanlan (1st) led the fight against the restaurant and got support from Aldermen Merrill Wuerch, William Ahrens, Kenneth Retzke and Frederick Jacobson.
THE LAND NOW is zoned for manufacturing, but Scanlan said he feels the land is too expensive for industry and it probably will be developed as an office site, although residents living near the restaurant site who attended the meeting said they preferred even a car wash to the restaurant.
The manufacturing zoning allows not only the car wash, but selected industries, body shops along with many other establishments.
The residents who opposed the restaurant (206 signed a petition) objected to the hours of operation, which would have been until 2 a.m. They also cited excess noise, traffic and rodents, if the restaurant were constructed near their homes.
Ald. Thomas Waldron, who introduced the rezoning for passage, said he was "amazed at the concern of the citizens. This is the first time I have ever seen homeowners object to an institutional use over a manufacturer. And I've sat at zoning hearings for years."
"I'm afraid the citizens hope the land will remain vacant for a number of years and some nice industry move in," Waldron said.

RICHARD HOUP, attorney for Allgauer, made a presentation contending the restaurant would upgrade the property. He submitted pictures of Arlington Heights restaurants showing the frontage on residents' property comparing them to frontage of industrial property in Rolling Meadows. "Consider the interests of the community as a whole," Houp said.
He declared that $40,000 of yearly sales tax returns could benefit all the Rolling Meadows taxpayers. Allgauer's expected sales after two years was more than $2½ million.
Residents near the proposed restaurant said they feared a "precedent" for all of Hicks Road to be developed into night spots and cocktail lounges. Scanlan had called the rezoning "the foundation for a swinging race track strip along Hicks Road."
"When 200 and some residents get together and petition, I have to back the homeowners," Retzke said before he voted against the rezoning. Ahrens said he "would like to see Allgauer in Rolling Meadows but not at this location." Jacobson and Wuerch seemed convinced that the homeowners would be best served by voting against the proposal.
A special Rolling Meadows zoning commission first heard the Allgauer proposal and recommended to city council that the zoning change be approved.
The restaurant would have provided facilities for 1,000 persons, with large banquet rooms, dining area and cocktail lounge.
Ramada Inn also wanted to locate in Rolling Meadows near the Allgauer site, but city officials did not approve a similar zoning request.

THE VIKING TABLE restaurant in Rolling Meadows is designed to provide a Viking atmosphere while serving Scandinavian-accented foods. The owner, Brian Johnson, made the farm implements, displayed on the wall. Mrs. Margaret Chinberg is manager of the new restaurant.

His Interest Is Nordic Cooking

by DOUG RAY
Brian Johnson has a talent for preparing food.
His Scandinavian-born grandmother was a chef for the wealthy Studebaker family and he says he may have learned a few things from her.
Johnson is owner of the Viking Table restaurant in Rolling Meadows, which specializes in smorgasbord dishes.
"We had smorgasbord at almost every meal when I was young." When he toured the Scandinavian countries a few years ago, they too served smorgasbord every day.
"I have a great interest in the Nordic culture and cooking, and finally decided to open a restaurant of my own. I always wanted to do it."

JOHNSON'S FIRST experience in the restaurant business was as a bus boy in high school and college. He has been a real estate broker for a number of years in Chicago, saving his money to open the new restaurant.
Not only the restaurant's food is Scandinavian, but also the exterior and interior of the establishment. Authentic Viking designs hang from the walls with the five Scandinavian flags hanging in front of the building.
Johnson made all the interior designs, which include oars, shields, farm implements and a large North Atlantic salmon.

He says he painted the salmon, which is more than five feet long, while watching television. "I paint a couple of pictures a year using Scandinavian scenes." The designs are primitive replicas of Nordic coats of arms.
The farm implements represent the Viking farming instinct. "Most people don't think of the Vikings as farmers, but they traveled to other lands to plant food each spring."
"THEY WOULD RETURN for the winter with food for all. Of course they took the land from someone else," Johnson explains.

Also lining the walls of the restaurant are barrels, pictures of Viking ships from 990 A.D. to the 18th century and a Nordic border, which Johnson says is in almost every restaurant in the Scandinavian countries.
"We will probably get some people with Scandinavian backgrounds to eat here, but I hope more than those. I don't think there are too many Swedes living around here."
"The Vikings were hearty people and liked to eat. They are like most of us only we have a little different manners."

This Morning In Brief

The Nation
The House reversed itself yesterday and voted to resurrect the SST program with a $85 million appropriation for more development work on the controversial aircraft. The project must get by an expected tough fight in the Senate before approval, however.
The administration urged the federal minimum wage be raised from $1.60 an hour to $2 by January, 1974. The proposal recommended, however, a lower minimum for persons under the age of 18.
The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has acquired what was termed "one of the world's greatest paintings," for a record sum of $5,544,000. The painting is Diego Velasquez's 1650 portrait of his mulatto assistant. The painting was sold last November in a London art auction.

The World
The American dollar inched upward on the European money markets again Wednesday. It was the second day of small gains for the value of the dollar which sagged Monday when West Germany abandoned its "support" and allowed supply and demand to set the worth of U.S. currency.
In what was called "one of the most significant documents" of his nearly eight years as pontiff, Pope Paul VI's apostolic letter on modern social conditions addressed itself to the modern problems of urbanization and pollution. The Pope called on city leaders to tackle housing problems; called the generation gap a problem "which strikes at the deep roots of society;" and condemns in women's liberation "that false equality which would deny the distinction laid down by the Creator Himself . . ." The Pope warned, however, that society leaders should not solve city problems by pushing birth control.

The State
College students would be required to bear some of the state costs of higher education under a proposal now being considered by the Illinois House Higher Education Committee. The proposal would require a post graduation contribution — in some cases up to $1,500 — to the state by those who attend state schools which receive state funds. The amount would, in part, be determined by the graduate's annual income. Each alumnus could take up to 15 years to pay his share, but the amount would not exceed $1,500.
Workers of the UAW agreed to end their 100-day strike at the two Sunstrand Corp. plants in Rockford. Production at the hydraulic pump and aircraft parts plant is expected to resume Monday.

The War
High administration officials said yesterday that evidence is mounting that Hanoi may attempt a major military offensive just prior to the October elections in South Vietnam.

Their Concern: Mind Pollution

by JIM HODL

Mrs. Nancy Haines and Mrs. Joni Byrne are against pollution.

While they are concerned about phosphates in laundry soaps and cans littering the countryside, they say they are currently concerned with another kind of pollution — "mind pollution."

For the past few months, Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Byrne, Palatine housewives who live on Kitson Drive in Winston Park, have been combating the exhibition of "X" rated movies at the 53 Outdoor Theatre. Their small petition campaign against the drive-in's movie policy has grown into an area wide effort to back a bill in the state legislature regulating the type of films outdoor theaters may show.

In originating their petition last February, the women were primarily concerned with bringing about a police investigation as to why the 53 Outdoor was showing only "allegedly obscene" movies.

THEY POINTED out that the theater's screen could be viewed from nearby roads. Young people under 18 years old could see films there they could not get in to see at indoor theaters.

However, their campaign hit many snags. Located at Rte. 12 and Hicks Road, the 53 Outdoor was in the unincorporated areas of Palatine Township, preventing a Palatine police investigation. While the Cook County Sheriff's Police had jurisdiction in the area, they said they could do nothing because there was no clear law forbidding the theater from exhibiting "X" rated movies.

"Even when we came to dead ends like this, we kept right on working on this problem," Mrs. Haines said.

For continuing to work on the problem, Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Byrne have won the praise of their neighbors.

"Many of our neighbors have responded favorably to our campaign," Mrs. Byrne said. "Some have even added that they wish they had spearheaded the campaign themselves."

TO DATE, many people, including the Knights of Columbus, have volunteered to help them with their campaign.

However, it is not odd that Mrs. Byrne and Mrs. Haines should be the leaders of such a campaign in the community. Both have been active in the community for years.

Mrs. Byrne is currently active in the Volunteer Service Bureau and in the parish council of St. Thomas of Villanova Church in Palatine. She is also a counselor in the area for the Billy Graham Crusade.

Mrs. Haines is a partner in the Hang-It-All Boutique, a tiny company that makes items to hang on the wall. The company has been aiding various fund raising groups in Palatine, Inverness and Arlington Heights in recent months.

Now that her young children are growing up, Mrs. Haines said she will become involved with local groups again, like the Palatine Township Youth Organization (PTYO). She once was a member of a local PTA group.

Both women point out that their work is not finished since the outdoor theater regulation bill has not passed the Illinois House of Representatives yet. To insure passage of the bill, the women encourage local residents to write their state representatives.

Letters, they said, can be mailed to either Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights; David Regner, R-Mount Prospect; and Mrs. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; at State Capitol Building, Springfield, Ill.

Wire Corp. Files Counter Suit

Chicago Magnet Wire Corp. has filed a suit against Elk Grove Village seeking $2 million in damages, said Village Mgr. Charles Willis on Tuesday.

The suit is a counter claim to another suit filed in April by the Illinois Attorney General's office to halt air pollution at the Elk Grove Village plant.

The municipality, which authorized its attorney to work in conjunction with the attorney general's office, is named in the counter claim with the attorney general.

EDWARD HOFERT, village attorney, said the village has 30 days in which to respond to the counter claim, filed May 3 in Cook County Circuit Court. The suit was served on the village Monday, though village officials did not learn of it until late Tuesday.

The firm, located at 801 Chase Ave. in Elk Grove Village has been the object of complaints for years by residents who have smelled the odor emitted from the plant.

The firm, located in the community for seven years, manufactures a baked coating magnet wire for use in electrical products.

Last September, executive vice president Anthony Jordan, said the firm was in the midst of a "total environmental program" that would cost from $3 to $5 million and that it was in "no violation of any law."

William Scott, attorney general, charged that the firm emits a gaseous matter into the air, consisting of part of phenolic compounds including cresylic acid.

He alleged the odors were "strong and offensive, causing respiratory irritation and other damage to personal health and enjoyment as well as damage to property."

SCOTT FILED suit in Cook County Circuit Court under his authority to deal with a public nuisance and two Illinois pollution laws.

The suit asked to permanently enjoin the company from polluting the air, seeking penalties of $10,000 for each violation of the Environmental Protection Act of 1970, and up to $1,000 a day for each day the violation continued.

Also, $5,000 for each violation of the Air Pollution Control Act that was in effect until July 1, 1970, and $200 for each day the violation continued.

Council Endorses School Referendum

The Rolling Meadows City Council has voted unanimously to support the Township High School Dist. 214 referendum scheduled for a vote this Saturday.

The resolution passed by the council, urged all citizens to vote yes for construction of a new high school in Buffalo Grove "to insure the continuation of the present excellent educational program of the district."

It said the school district has "practiced efficient, long-term planning of schools to insure quality educational facilities at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayer."

Dist. 214 has recommended an eighth high school to be constructed in Buffalo Grove in time for the opening of the 1973-74 school year, if the referendum passes.

Meyer Reappoints 9 City Officials

Nine Rolling Meadows officials were reappointed by Mayor Roland Meyer for two-year terms.

Cars, trucks, mobile homes, motorcycles, racing along our modern superhighways to today's super-markets, boutiques, etc. Our younger generation, dressed in long calico dresses, gives one time to pause and think about how it all began.

How did our ancestors have the fortitude to pack up all their worldly possessions and set forth in a covered wagon to move westward? If these early settlers hadn't set forth to seek a new way of life for themselves and their families, would we ever have discovered some of our favorite vacation spots?

Albert and Jane Salisbury have written and illustrated the book "Here Rolled the Covered Wagons." The book is an historical tour of the Northwest and depicts nearly 100 important historical spots. Included is the history of the Ward Wagon Train at Caldwell, Idaho in 1854.

ON DECEMBER 7, 1805, Captain Lewis set up Camp Clatsop in Oregon because of the abundance of Elk. It was a wet cold winter with scarcely enough food to feed the men. A whale was washed ashore which they were forced to use for food. Beyond the wide Missouri lay the Prairie. Every few hundred miles, military forts were set up to give protection to the white man from the Indians and for the Indians against the white man. The forts were a source of comfort to the settlers, trading points for the trappers and buffalo hunters and rallying points for the scouts.

FROM 1790 to 1895 there were 69 campaigns with the Indians and 19 reasonably definite wars. In 1874 Chief of the Army, Sherman, became so disgusted with politicking in Washington, he packed up the Department of the Army headquarters lock, stock and campstool and moved to St. Louis, Missouri. The land acquired for Fort Snelling cost $200 in cash and $80 in whiskey to purchase in 1895. Want to learn more about "Old Forts," then read Herbert M. Hart. The book is illustrated and has detailed maps of all the major forts.

BY THE WAY, have you ever visited a real Ghost Town? It is rather a heart-breaking experience, to see the dreams and hopes of a group of people laid to waste. One can only hope they moved on to a better life. If you are interested in the locations of some of these towns, then you'll want to read Lambert Florin's book "Western Ghost Towns."

An entertaining book to read is "Country Storekeeping 1620-1920" by Lawrence Johnson. Homemade brooms made by Indian and white women alike brought eight cents a piece in trade in 1837. In 1854 a store printed the following rules for employees: "Store Hours 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. Store not open on Sunday. Any employee shaving at a barber shop, smoking cigarettes and going to dances will give his employer reason to be suspicious of his integrity." Each employee must contribute no less than $5 a year to church. Male employees are given one night off a week for courting. Leisure time must be spent reading good literature."

A hotel bill in 1860 in an Illinois hostelry, including transportation of a trunk two ways from Railway Stations, use of the hotel parlor for sample room and a good dinner, cost a salesman 50 cents.

IN 1845 Peter Cooper, who had invented the locomotive "Tom Thumb" also patented a gelatin dessert. He did nothing about it nor did anyone else for half a century. In 1895 Pearl Wait, interested in expanding packaged foods, discovered Cooper's gelatin. He took it home and his wife tried it and named it "Jell-O," but it didn't sell too well and he sold his rights to the product for $450.

Oliver Winchester's furnishing business failed in 1840 so he went to New Haven and started a shirt factory. Becoming bored with this, he turned to firearms, producing in 1860 the repeating rifle that made his name famous.

IT SOUNDED like the philharmonic was tuning up at the Rolling Meadows city council meeting this week. Microphones located in front of city officials belled with deep tones until the conductor, James Watson, toned them down.

POLICE CHIEF Lewis Case said he couldn't sleep well last week, when the Chicago Cubs were on their latest losing streak. "I don't see how they lose those games in the last innings," Case said. He may be faced with insomnia if the Cubs don't develop some winning habits.

Your Real Estate, Property Tax Bills Are On The Way

by DAVE CRIPPEN

Northwest suburban residents will be receiving their 1970 real estate and personal property tax bills within the next few weeks.

After a delay of more than two months, the Cook County Treasurer's office yesterday began sending out statements to Chicago taxpayers, thereby clearing the way for billing of residents of the county's 90 suburban townships.

Tax rates for suburban communities have not yet been determined by the county clerk's office but Walter Prybylo, tax extension officer for the county clerk, said he would begin computing suburban rates early next week. He estimated that computation would be completed within a few days. Tax bills will then be prepared and mailed by the treasurer's office.

Computation of rates and individual tax bills is done alphabetically by township. Thus, residents living in Elk Grove Township will be among the first to receive their tax bills, and Wheeling Township residents will be among the last.

All tax bills will be out by June 15 with the first penalty date of July 15, officials reported.

MEANWHILE, tax rate increases for communities in the Northwest suburban area are expected to be greater than Chicago's rate, which was set at 9.5 per cent.

Figures already available showed a combined rate increase of 11 cents per $100 assessed valuation for Cook County and the Forest Preserve District, both of whom levy taxes in suburban areas.

Cook County's rate jumped from 42.2 cents in 1969 to 51.4 cents in 1970. The Forest Preserve District also boosted its rate from 6 cents to 7.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The only taxing body reducing its rate, according to the county clerk, was the Metropolitan Sanitary District. The MSD's rate dropped from 31.4 cents to 23.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Also contributing to the expected tax rate hike in the Northwest suburbs is the 5 per cent increase in the "state equalization factor." The equalization factor, a multiplier determined by the state to provide equitable property assessment in all 102 counties of Illinois, jumped from 1.51 to 1.59.

Prybylo explained that the new multiplier alone would raise the valuation of a home originally set at $10,000 to $15,900. Similarly, the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 will pay $51.40 in taxes to the county, $7.80 to the Forest Preserve District and $23.20 to MSD.

THE EXPECTED sharp increase among other local tax rates is attributed largely to higher levies by area school districts.

Anticipated collections by Cook County

of all taxes — real estate, personal property and railroad — was set at $65,122,347, an increase of almost $14 million over last year.

Combined revenue for the Forest Preserve District was set at $9.8 million, an increase of over $2 million over the previous year. Projected tax receipts for MSD dropped from $38.1 million last year to $29.4 million this year.

There are more than 189,000 taxpayers in the Northwest suburbs, according to the most recent figures from the County Treasurer's office.

Homeowners Will Correct Illegal Sewer Hookups Now

Residents in the Euclid-Lake Home owners Association in Prospect Heights have decided to correct their illegal sewer hookups now rather than wait for an entanglement of legal suits to be settled.

The legal fights began in 1969 when the Citizens Utility Co. filed suit against the homeowners for an illegal connection between their storm and sanitary sewers. During heavy rains ground water overloads the sanitary lines and sewage backed up into residents' basements and crawl spaces.

In response to the utility company's suit the 130 homeowners filed suit against Hollis Builders calling for the builder to pay damages. The builders in turn filed suit against the Metropolitan Sanitary District and the district filed suit against the utility company.

The Prospect Heights residents under the auspices of the Euclid-Lake legal aid committee have already spent over $3,000 on their suit, according to Robert Schmidt, chairman of the committee.

"RECENTLY WE were notified by our attorneys that it would cost an additional $6,000 to continue the suit," said Schmidt. "We were only able to secure pledges for 40 per cent of this amount."

The legal aid committee has decided to drop the suit because of the lack of funds, but has not yet done so, according to Schmidt. "You need money to drop the suit and we don't have any. So we are waiting for developments."

One "development," according to Schmidt, is that the utility company may also drop its suit. "I was told by an official of the company that he planned to instruct their attorney to drop their suit." However, the attorney said he has received no word from the utility company to drop the suit.

During the past two years, Schmidt said the court has only made one ruling on the case. "Our suit asked that all of the illegal sewer hookups be corrected. But the builder objected, saying only the people who brought their homes from the builder should receive retribution. The judge dismissed the builder's objection."

"Since the first ruling the case has been continued. The court has still not set a new hearing date," said Schmidt.

RESIDENTS ARE now paying up to $800 to fix the sewer connection violations which are of two types. The ranch and two-story homes with a basement have only one sump pump which feeds both ground water and laundry water into sanitary lines. To correct this violation residents must dig a hole and hire a plumbing contractor to install another sump pump.

In the split-level homes with sloping driveways, residents will have to rip up the base of the driveway and install a sump pump in the garage. The unfortunate resident with both a split-level home and a basement must pay a double expense.

Nomination Papers Ready For St. Raymond Council

Nominating petitions for election to the newly approved parish council at St. Raymond Catholic Church in Mount Prospect will be distributed Sunday.

Parishioners voted 1,586 to 116 earlier this week to approve the establishment of the decision-making body that will coordinate church and school organizations. Robert Rogers, chairman of the council planning committee estimated between 45 and 50 per cent of the parishioners voted and termed the turnout good.

Elections for the 16 council members will be held June 12 and 13. Two representatives from each of the eight geographical districts each including about 250 to 280 families will be chosen. To get their names on the ballot, candidates must turn in the nominating petition with 20 signatures from residents in their particular district. All registered parishioners 18 and older are eligible to run for the council and sign the petition.

"We hope we have at least four people running from each district," Rogers said. He said he hoped candidates would run active campaigns with coffee and public speeches.

The candidate in each district with the highest number of votes will be elected to a two-year term. The other winner will fill a one-year term according to the constitution. "This way we can insure continuity on the council," Rogers said. In following elections candidates will run for two-year terms.

BESIDES ELECTED representatives the council will also include the Rev. William Buhrfeind, one other parish priest and a member of the community of nuns.

"It's up to the sisters themselves to decide whom they want to represent them," Rogers said. He said the three parish assistants will also decide which one of them will join the council.

The council will coordinate the activities of parish committees such as those on finance, adult and religious education and the school board. It will meet publicly once a month except for December, July and August, according to its constitution.

Rogers compared the council's operation to a village board. "The intent of the council is that present operating organizations make their own decisions and if something requires parish approval it can be brought to the council," he said.

Ritzenthaler Loses Attempt To Find Parking Place For Buses

The Ritzenthaler Bus Co. has lost its second attempt this year to find a place to park its school buses.

The Buffalo Grove Village Board Monday night rejected a proposal by the firm for rezoning of a five-acre site on Rte. 83 near the proposed extension of Lake-Cook Road.

Earlier this year, the Wheeling Village Board had rejected a similar request from the bus company.

Dick Byrne of Ritzenthaler complained to the board that the company has been "trying to get the buses into a smaller group where the people will accept them, but no one will accept them."

BYRNE SAID his company wanted a convenient location at which to park its buses that transport students at Wheeling High School and Buffalo Grove and Wheeling elementary schools. The firm would keep its depots in Arlington Heights and Mundelein, for buses that serve schools near those areas, Byrne said.

Bob Moore, an attorney for Ritzenthaler, said that the company planned to build a maintenance garage for five buses on the property and that "15 to 20 people" would work there.

Harvey Cohen, who said he represented neighboring landowners, objected to the proposal saying that it would change the character of the area and place buses almost in the backyards of homes.

"If Buffalo Grove has a downtown, this is downtown," Cohen said, "and there is no rhyme or reason for changing it now."

Richard Heinrich, a former member of the plan commission, said that the commission has envisioned the area as residential. It is now zoned R-9. Byrne had wanted zoning changed to B-4.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong told Byrne, "One problem of the village is that we haven't had a great deal of planning, but in this case the plan commission has planned for this area."

The plan commission had recommended that the village board not grant the rezoning request.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The House reversed itself yesterday and voted to resurrect the SST program with a $85 million appropriation for more development work on the controversial aircraft. The project must get by an expected tough fight in the Senate before approval, however.

The administration urged the federal minimum wage be raised from $1.60 an hour to $2 by January 1974. The proposal recommended, however, a lower minimum for persons under the age of 18.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has acquired what was termed "one of the world's greatest paintings," for a record sum of $5,544,000. The painting is Diego Velasquez's 1650 portrait of his mulatto assistant. The painting was sold last November in a London art auction.

The World

The American dollar inched upward on the European money markets again Wednesday. It was the second day of small gains for the value of the dollar which sagged Monday when West Germany abandoned its "support" and allowed supply and demand to set the worth of U.S. currency.

In what was called "one of the most significant documents" of his nearly eight years as pontiff, Pope Paul VI's apostolic letter on modern social conditions addressed itself to the modern problems of urbanization and pollution. The Pope called on city leaders to tackle housing problems, called the generation gap a problem "which strikes at the deep roots of society," and condemns in women's liberation "that false equality which would deny the distinction laid down by the Creator Himself." The Pope warned, however, that society leaders should not solve city problems by pushing birth control.

The State

College students would be required to bear some of the state costs of higher education under a proposal now being considered by the Illinois House Higher Education Committee. The proposal would require a post graduation contribution — in some cases up to $1,500 — to the state by those who attend state schools which receive state funds. The amount would, in part, be determined by the graduate's annual income. Each alumnus could take up to 15 years to pay his share, but the amount would not exceed $1,500.

Workers of the UAW agreed to end their 100-day strike at the two Sunstrand Corp. plants in Rockford. Production at the hydraulic pump and aircraft parts plant is expected to resume Monday.

The War

High administration officials said yesterday that evidence is mounting that Hanoi may attempt a major military offensive just prior to the October elections in South Vietnam.

Profit taking loosened its hold on the stock market in the final minutes of trading Wednesday and allowed most key indicators to finish higher in moderate turnover. The Dow Jones Industrial Average edged up 21 to 837.46. DJ utilities index climbed but the DJ transportation index lost ground. Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American stock exchange.

Parks To Annex 200 Homes

About 200 homes in the Mount Shire subdivision in Mount Prospect will soon become part of the Mount Prospect Park District.

The park board Monday night instructed its attorney to draw up an ordinance annexing a portion of the subdivision, involving homes south of Golf Road and west of Busse Road. The board will approve the ordinance at its next meeting June 14, thereby annexing the area.

The six-square block area to be annexed includes parts of Catalpa and Willow Lanes, Busse Road and Tammarack, Sprucewood, Cherrywood, Oakwood and Lavergne drives.

The annexation is the result of homeowners' efforts since September, according to Tom Cooper, park director. He said the group at that time submitted a petition for annexation which had an insufficient number of signatures. Recently the group again submitted a petition with 250 names, more than the 51 per cent of the property owners and legal votes required by the Illinois park district code.

THE MOUNT SHIRE group's first petition had exactly 51 per cent with no allowance for error, according to Tom Cooper. To be annexed, an area must also be co-terminous with current district boundaries and not belong to any other park district.

Cooper said the homes will be added to the park district's tax rolls for the 1972 real estate tax bills. Cooper estimated the annexation would bring in $20 in revenue per home each year, enough "to pay for the park district's services."

He said that to prevent annexation, homeowners in the area would have to submit a petition objecting to the addition. However, he said that is unlikely since "the majority of them said they wanted to annex."

"Most of the people probably want to belong because of the new park going in near there and the popular park district programs," Cooper said. West Park, a 25-acre site, across the street from the subdivision at Golf and Busse roads, is currently being developed.

The area to be annexed has been developed only in the last two years, according to Cooper, and is part of the village. A section of the subdivision including Tammarack Drive and Pheasant Trail already belong to the district. Residents in this section fought strongly against the $2.4 million park district referendum passed in 1969.

Begin Park Name Contest

The Mount Prospect Park District "Name the Park" contest begins today.

Elementary school students living in the park district are eligible to enter the contest to rename the three parks now being developed. The parks are now called South Park, Algonquin and Janice roads in Des Plaines; West Park, Golf and Busse roads, and East Park, Lonnquist Boulevard and William Street; both in Mount Prospect.

"The name can be anything as long as it fits the park and has general appeal," said Paul Caldwell, assistant park director.

Each student can submit as many entries as he or she wants to on lined paper in the student's handwriting. The entry should be mailed to: Name the Park Contest, Mount Prospect Park District, 411 S. Maple St. All entries must be postmarked no later than June 11. Winners will be announced in the Herald the week beginning June 14.

CALDWELL SAID ALL entries must include the name, address and telephone number of the students and must specify for which park the name is being submitted.

Entries must include the reason behind the name in 50 words or less, also in the student's handwriting. Names will be judged by members of the park board, and the three winners will receive a family year-round swim pass, worth $36. Wall plaques will be given to the students as well as their schools and names of winners will appear in the park district's July-August issue of "Fun Talk," the park district's newsletter.

If the name selected is suggested by

PTA: Serve Up A Good Summer

"Serve Up a Good Summer" will be the theme of a Dempster Junior High School PTA meeting at 8 p.m. today at the school, 420 W. Dempster St., Mount Prospect.

Speakers include Paul Caldwell, Mount Prospect Park District assistant director of recreation; Cliff Lohery, YMCA activities director; and Richard Jenness, Dist. 59 summer school director.

Each speaker will make a short presentation on his specific program, followed by organization of small discussion groups on the topics.

Officers for the coming school year will be installed after the talks.

Girl Scout cadets of Troop 877 will also receive their charter at the meeting signifying their sponsorship by the Dempster PTA.

ducted a survey similar to the current county-wide project.

OF 40 businesses and industries only 10 responded, according to Mrs. Alice Rothrock, housing committee chairman for the local league.

The responses indicated there were 175 persons in the $8,000 to $10,000 salary range who lived outside Des Plaines, but would move to the city, if they could afford housing.

Mrs. Rothrock said the league intends to continue its study this spring, directing it at public employees.

The Arlington Heights league, serving Mount Prospect and Elk Grove, issued a brief statement of "indications of local housing needs" several months ago which was unrelated to the present survey.

THE GROUP IS awaiting results of housing surveys being conducted by a joint committee of the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees and Plan Commission and by a housing commission appointed by the Elk Grove Village Board, before deciding whether to participate in the county league study.

Suburban leagues also have been directed to seek endorsements of the survey from local organizations including the Chambers of Commerce, church groups, the Jaycees and other civic organizations.

It's expected that local leagues will tabulate the results of the survey and return them to the county office by August.

Club Schedules 'Alumni Night'

At its 17th anniversary celebration next week the Mount Prospect Toastmasters Club will hold its annual "Alumni Night."

The special observance will be part of the club's regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 S. See-Gwin Ave.

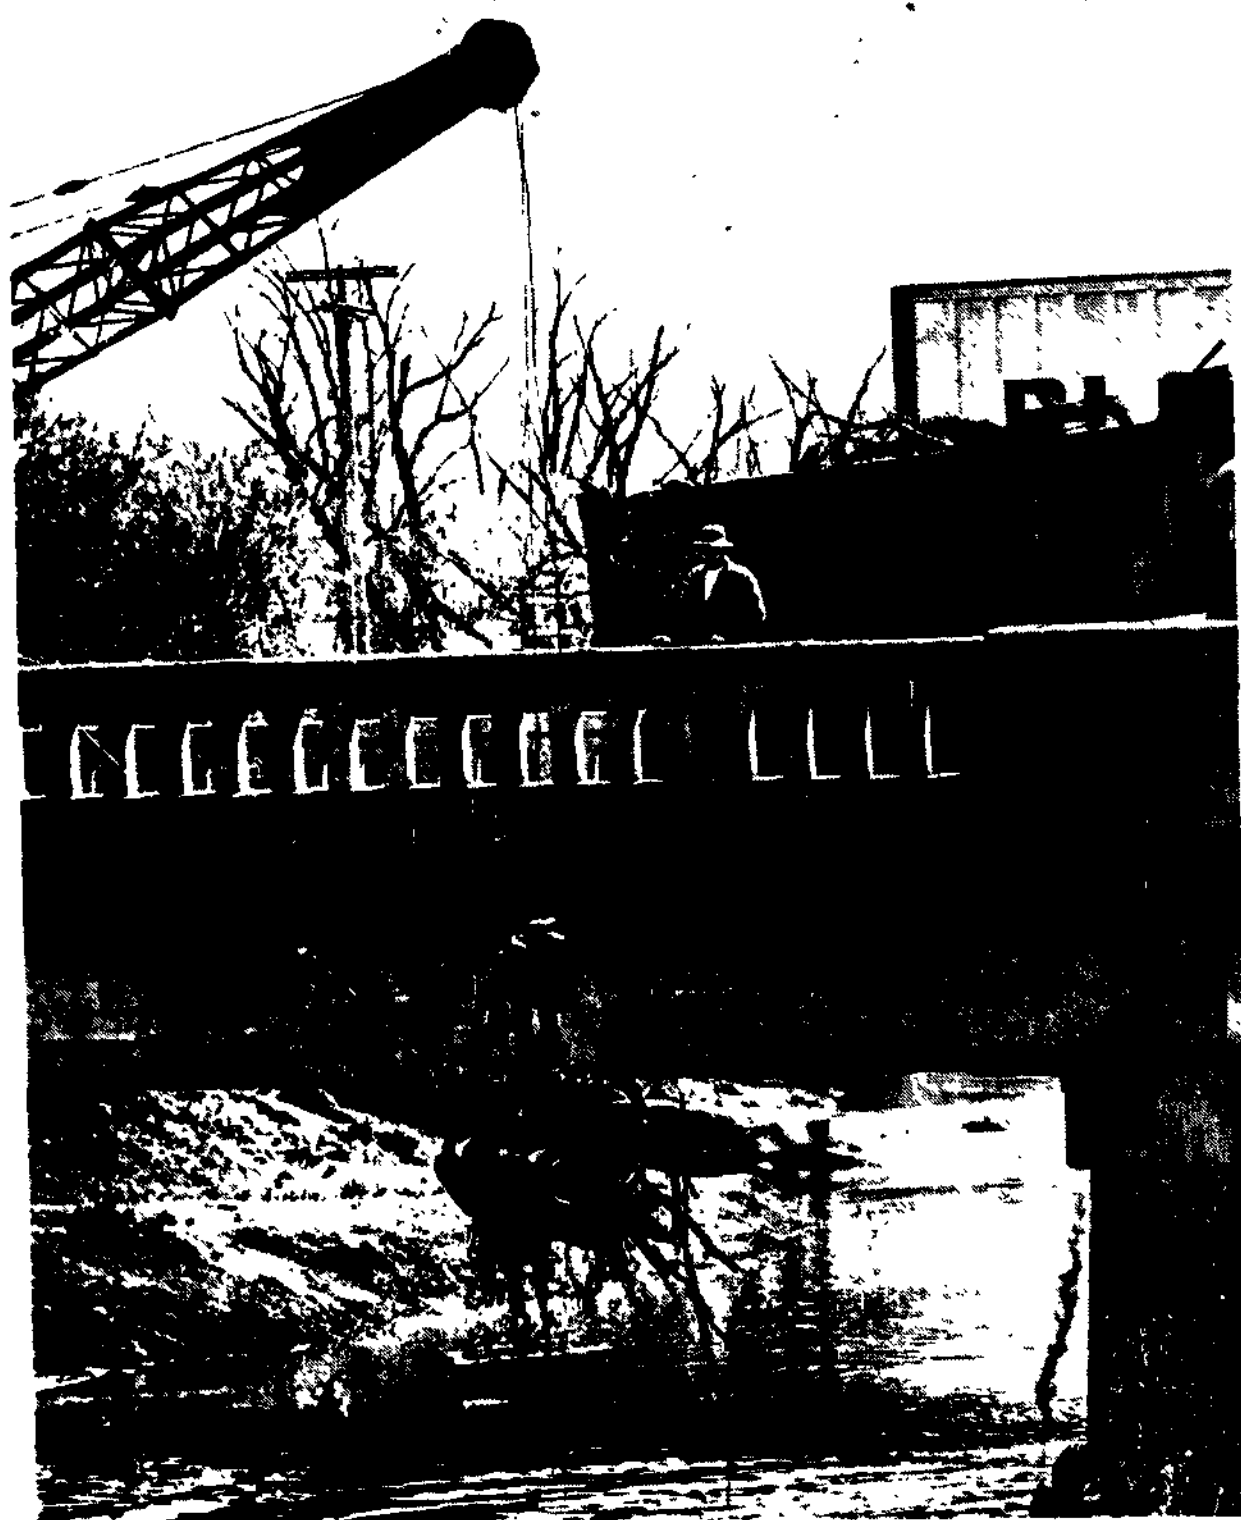

Many of the men who helped charter the club in 1954 are expected to attend, according to a spokesman for the Toastmasters. Among these are the club's first president, J. G. Johnson of 305 Belmont in Arlington Heights, and C. O. Schlaver of 400 S. I-Oka in Mount Prospect, former village president.

Also expected to attend is Russel Puzey of Chicago, a past president of Toastmasters International and one of the initial organizing Toastmasters.

In announcing the meeting, Kenneth Uding, the current club president, invited former club members to attend. He also invited prospective members to attend Monday's meeting.

Purpose of the club is to provide members with a program to improve their abilities in public speaking and conducting meetings. There are more than 3,500 Toastmasters Clubs around the world.

The Mount Prospect Toastmasters Club holds regular meetings at 7:45 p.m. on the first and third Mondays at the community center.

TREES AND MUCK AND JUNK were dredged out of the Des Plaines River last week by workers from the Illinois Division of Highways. A crane lifted the items into several trucks and taken away.

LWV Members Take Part In Survey

Members of local Leagues of Women Voters have been asked to participate in a survey on the need for low and moderate-income housing in Cook County.

The study includes sending questionnaires to local employers asking five questions ranging from the number of employees at the firm to salary range of workers and where they live.

"The reason behind the study is to determine whether or not there's a need for low cost housing," said Geraldine Cosby, human resource chairman for the Palatine League of Women Voters which will begin sending out the questionnaires this month.

"That determination can be made solely on the basis of facts, if the questionnaires are answered," she added.

The survey will be taken of both private and public employers, according to county housing chairman for the league,

Phyllis Griffith.

"The results of this survey will greatly benefit our study of housing on the county level and will provide all of us with a more precise picture of the total housing needs on a regional basis," she said.

It asks how many employees work for the firm and gives four alternatives of salary range: $0 to $5,200 to $10,500, $10,500 to $16,000, and $16,000 and above.

Of each salary range the employer is asked to give the number of employees living within the community and the number living outside of a five-mile radius. It also asks for an estimate on how many employees would move into the area, if adequate housing was available at the right price.

Not all leagues of the suburban area have decided to participate in the survey.

As a local project last fall the Des Plaines League of Women Voters con-

Legislation To Tax Mobile Homes Passes Senate Panel

Some 1,200 mobile homes in Elk Grove Township may be subject to real estate taxes if a bill recently passed by the Senate Revenue Committee is approved by the Illinois General Assembly.

Although the township has not received details on the bill, it would probably mean about $126,000 in tax revenue, according to Charles Hodlmair, township assessor.

Sponsored by State Sen. Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst, the bill defines as real property any conveyance used as a dwelling place in one county for three months or longer.

Sen. Knuepfer said the units should be called modular homes, not mobile homes, because of the length of time they usually remain at one site.

"There would be much less resistance by communities to the proliferating colonies of modular homes if they contribute their fair share of taxes," he said in one news report.

HODLMAIR SAID he has been trying for years to get some form of real estate tax from mobile homes.

"I don't believe we get enough help from trailers in the way of taxes," he said.

Language Arts 'Scope Of Study' Widened

'Greater relevancy to students and a wider scope of study' are the key points of a new language arts curriculum that will be introduced in the seven Dist. 26 schools in the fall.

The new program was recommended to the school board by Donnalais Ahlstedt, the district language arts and reading consultant at a meeting last week. Mrs. Ahlstedt said she and a committee of almost a dozen teachers (representing the entire teaching staff) designed the program after about seven months of study.

The district curriculum council first proposed that the program be updated because our present curriculum is no longer relevant to the students' said

Mrs. Ahlstedt To find a better program the committee studied over a dozen textbook series.

"WE TOOK THE new series into the classroom to see how they actually work," said Mrs. Ahlstedt. "And we had conferences with the other teachers and passed out questionnaires to see what they really want in a language arts program."

Mrs. Ahlstedt also called in a state consultant, attended a state workshop at Northwestern University and met with other districts' language arts personnel to discover new trends in her field.

As a result of Mrs. Ahlstedt's and the committee's study, two new textbook series will be introduced into district schools in the fall. The first through sixth grades will use a series called "Language and How To Use It" published by the Scott Foresman Co. Another series called "Gateway" published by the MacMillan Co. will be used in the seventh and eighth grades as a supplement to the current textbooks.

According to Mrs. Ahlstedt both series take a different approach to grammar and include literature and poetry. The Scott Foresman Co. also publishes two supplementary books on writing and spelling which will be used at one or two schools on a pilot basis.

"The Gateway series concentrates on human relationships," said Ahlstedt. Some of the readers are titled "Family Is Way of Feeling", "Who Am I", and "Coping".

ONCE THE NEW textbooks are introduced into the schools questionnaires will be passed out to the teachers again to find out how the series worked. "This information will all be compiled into a report," said Mrs. Ahlstedt.

The teachers' committee based their selection on several objectives, according to Mrs. Ahlstedt. "We wanted the series to be appealing and motivating and to be interesting to children of all levels of ability. We also wanted it to lead to better understanding and to promote better listening habits and critical thinking."

The academic skills Mrs. Ahlstedt hopes the series will promote include, "sound sentences, effective paragraphs, basics of grammar, oral and written expression and good examples of literature and poetry."

According to Supt. Winston Harwood, the district would like to update the language arts program on an average of every five years. The current program has been in the district about eight years.

Mrs. Ahlstedt explained that the emphasis in the language arts program shifts over the years. "In the past the stress was on grammar, now the pendulum has swung to phonics (sounds of letters in words). We try to stay in the middle."

Wire Corp. Files Counter Suit

Chicago Magnet Wire Corp. has filed a suit against Elk Grove Village seeking $2 million in damages, said Village Mgr. Charles Willis on Tuesday.

The suit is a counter claim to another suit filed in April by the Illinois Attorney General's office to halt air pollution at the Elk Grove Village plant.

The municipality, which authorized its attorney to work in conjunction with the attorney general's office, is named in the counter claim with the attorney general.

EDWARD HOFERT, village attorney, said the village has 30 days in which to respond to the counter claim, filed May 3 in Cook County Circuit Court. The suit was served on the village Monday, though village officials did not learn of it until late Tuesday.

The firm located at 901 Chase Ave. in Elk Grove Village has been the object of complaints for years by residents who have smelled the odor emitted from the plant.

The firm located in the community for seven years manufactures a baked coating magnet wire for use in electrical products.

Last September, executive vice president Anthony Jordan said the firm was in the midst of a "total environmental program" that would cost from $3 to $5 million and that it was in "no violation of any law."

William Scott, attorney general, charged that the firm emits a gaseous material into the air, consisting of part of phenolic compounds including cresylic acid.

Your Real Estate, Property Tax Bills Are On The Way

by DAVE CRIPPEN
Northwest suburban residents will be receiving their 1970 real estate and personal property tax bills within the next few weeks.
After a delay of more than two months, the Cook County Treasurer's office yesterday began sending out statements to Chicago taxpayers, thereby clearing the way for billing of residents of the county's 30 suburban townships.
Tax rates for suburban communities have not yet been determined by the county clerk's office but Walter Prybylo, tax extension officer for the county clerk, said he would begin computing suburban rates early next week. He estimated that computation would be completed within a few days. Tax bills will then be prepared and mailed by the treasurer's office.

Computation of rates and individual tax bills is done alphabetically by township. Thus, residents living in Elk Grove Township will be among the first to receive their tax bills, and Wheeling Township residents will be among the last.
All tax bills will be out by June 15 with the first penalty date of July 15, officials reported.

MEANWHILE, tax rate increases for communities in the Northwest suburban area are expected to be greater than Chicago's rate, which was set at 9.5 per cent.
Figures already available showed a combined rate increase of 11 cents per $100 assessed valuation for Cook County and the Forest Preserve District, both of whom levy taxes in suburban areas.
Cook County's rate jumped from 42.2 cents in 1969 to 51.4 cents in 1970. The Forest Preserve District also boosted its rate from 6 cents to 7.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The only taxing body reducing its rate, according to the county clerk was the Metropolitan Sanitary District. The MSD's rate dropped from 31.4 cents to 23.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Also contributing to the expected tax rate hike in the Northwest suburbs is the 5 per cent increase in the "state equalization factor." The equalization factor, a multiplier determined by the state to provide equitable property assessment in all 102 counties of Illinois, jumped from 1.51 to 1.59.

Prybylo explained that the new multiplier alone would raise the valuation of a home originally set at $10,000 to $15,900. Similarly, the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 will pay $1.40 in taxes to the county, $7.80 to the Forest Preserve District and $23.20 to MSD.
THE EXPECTED sharp increase among other local tax rates is attributed largely to higher levies by area school districts.
Anticipated collections by Cook County

of all taxes — real estate, personal property and railroad — was set at $65,122,947, an increase of almost $14 million over last year.
Combined revenue for the Forest Preserve District was set at $9.8 million, an increase of over $2 million over the previous year. Projected tax receipts for MSD dropped from $38.1 million last year to $29.4 million this year.
There are more than 189,000 taxpayers in the Northwest suburbs, according to the most recent figures from the County Treasurer's office.

Altobelli Named Coordinator For Local Action Plan

James Altobelli has been named coordinator of the Community Action Plan (CAP) on the problems of drug use and abuse in Mount Prospect.
Altobelli, of 617 S. Albert St., succeeds Kenneth Scholten who was recently elected to a four-year term on the Mt. Prospect Village Board. Altobelli, a member of CAP since its inception last year, will coordinate the work of nine subcommittees in implementing community projects designed to cope with the problems of drug use and abuse.
Altobelli's wife, Pat, is currently chairman of CAP's citizens' committee on the establishment of a drug information center in the community. He has been instrumental in outlining plans for the establishment of an ICE House, which stands for Information, Counseling and Education.

SCHOLTEN SAID Altobelli's appointment was by "unanimous consent" of CAP's subcommittee chairmen. "Jim has earned the respect and trust of the youth in the community, and he works very well with them. I think he'll do a good job in implementing the program."
"I'll continue my association with CAP as an interested party, but continuing as coordinator and serving as a village trustee could cause a conflict of interests. I'm by no means discontinuing my support of the program," Scholten explained. "I think the program deserves the support of the community and residents should give of their time and efforts to ensure its success."
Altobelli, 36, is currently a member of the village's youth commission, and the High School Dist. 214 Drug Abuse Committee. A resident of Mount Prospect for 12 years, Altobelli is active in the Mount Prospect Baseball Association. This summer, he is manager of a team in the Colt division.
He is employed as a sales manager for a machine supply co. in Chicago. Altobelli and his wife have seven children: James, 16; Elizabeth, 15; Diane, 14; Patricia, 11; Gina, 10; John, 8; and Anthony, 4 months.

Kids To Present Spring Concert

Fifth and sixth graders from three Mount Prospect Dist. 57 schools will combine instruments and voices in a spring concert tomorrow night.
The free concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the gym at Lincoln Junior High School, 700 W. Lincoln St. Students from Fairview, Westbrook and Sunset Park schools will participate under the direction of David Metzler, band director, and Ted Jahnke, vocal director.
An 80-piece Beginners' Band will open the program with numbers featuring the clarinet and trumpet sections, ending with the Marine Hymn. Also featured in the program will be the Westbrook Choralettes, a boy and girl vocal group, who will sing "What the World Needs Now."
The sixth grade Cadet Band, made up of 60 students from the three schools will play all types of music, from Beethoven to Bacharach and from Latin American to concert marches.
The spring program will end with an arrangement of "America the Beautiful" with the band and chorus, narrated by John Gatto, Westbrook School principal. Immediately following the concert, refreshments will be served.

SCHOLTEN SAID Altobelli will conduct the next meeting of CAP subcommittee chairmen. They meet the first Thursday of each month at Forest Hospital in Des Plaines.
Priority projects this summer will include sponsoring a drug abuse week in the community. The tentative date is June 19 through June 26. Scholten said launching the new program will be one of Altobelli's most immediate concerns as coordinator.
Opening of the ICE House is also on the agenda this summer. Scholten said an opening date will be contingent upon the community's reaction to drug abuse week and CAP's efforts to raise money for the project.

Nomination Papers Ready For St. Raymond Council

Nominating petitions for election to the newly approved parish council at St. Raymond Catholic Church in Mount Prospect will be distributed Sunday.
Parishioners voted 1,386 to 110 earlier this week to approve the establishment of the decision-making body that will coordinate church and school organizations. Robert Rogers, chairman of the council planning committee, estimated between 45 and 50 per cent of the parishioners voted and termed the turnout "good."
Elections for the 16 council members will be held June 12 and 13. Two representatives from each of the eight geographical districts, each including about 250 to 280 families, will be chosen. To get their names on the ballot, candidates must turn in the nominating petition with 20 signatures from residents in their particular district. All registered parishioners 18 and older are eligible to run for the council and sign the petition.

"We hope we have at least four people running from each district," Rogers said. He said he hoped candidates would run active campaigns with coffees and public speeches.
The candidate in each district with the highest number of votes will be elected to a two-year term. The other winner will fill a one-year term, according to the constitution. "This way we can insure continuity on the council," Rogers said. In following elections, candidates will run for two-year terms.
BESIDES ELECTED representatives, the council will also include the Rev. William Buhrfeind, one other parish priest and a member of the community of nuns.
"It's up to the sisters themselves to decide whom they want to represent them," Rogers said. He said the three parish assistants will also decide which one of them will join the council.

The council will coordinate the activities of parish committees such as those on finance, adult and religious education and the school board. It will meet publicly once a month except for December, July and August, according to its constitution.
Rogers compared the council's operation to a village board. "The intent of the council is that present operating organizations make their own decisions and if something requires parish approval, it can be brought to the council," he said.
"THE DECISION-MAKING authority of the council is within the confines of the parish," Rogers said. "It couldn't sell the church or the school — legally they belong to the Chicago Archdiocese." He said the council could "theoretically overrule the school board but a board member has the most expertise on the subject."

Rogers said a member of the council will sit in on one each of the church and school organizations to make recommendations and bring feedback to the council.
The first parish council should meet sometime soon after elections, Rogers said. He said the representatives will set a meeting date but that the object of the June elections was to organize the council so it can be functioning by the time school opens in September.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The House reversed itself yesterday and voted to resurrect the SST program with a $85 million appropriation for more development work on the controversial aircraft. The project must get by an expected tough fight in the Senate before approval, however.
The administration urged the federal minimum wage be raised from $1.60 an hour to $2 by January, 1974. The proposal recommended, however, a lower minimum for persons under the age of 18.
The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has acquired what was termed "one of the world's greatest paintings," for a record sum of $5,544,000. The painting is Diego Velasquez's 1650 portrait of his mulatto assistant. The painting was sold last November in a London art auction.

The World

The American dollar inched upward on the European money markets again Wednesday. It was the second day of small gains for the value of the dollar which sagged Monday when West Germany abandoned its "support" and allowed supply and demand to set the worth of U.S. currency.
In what was called "one of the most significant documents" of his nearly eight years as pontiff, Pope Paul VI's apostolic letter on modern social conditions addressed itself to the modern problems of urbanization and pollution. The Pope called on city leaders to tackle housing problems; called the generation gap a problem "which strikes at the deep roots of society;" and condemns in women's liberation "that false equality which would deny the distinction laid down by the Creator Himself..." The Pope warned, however, that society leaders should not solve city problems by pushing birth control.

The State

College students would be required to bear some of the state costs of higher education under a proposal now being considered by the Illinois House Higher Education Committee. The proposal would require a post graduation contribution — in some cases up to $1,500 — to the state by those who attend state schools which receive state funds. The amount would, in part, be determined by the graduate's annual income. Each alumnus could take up to 15 years to pay his share, but the amount would not exceed $1,500.
Workers of the UAW agreed to end their 100-day strike at the two Sunstrand Corp. plants in Rockford. Production at the hydraulic pump and aircraft parts plant is expected to resume Monday.

The War

High administration officials said yesterday that evidence is mounting that Hanoi may attempt a major military offensive just prior to the October elections in South Vietnam.

Parks To Annex 200 Homes

About 200 homes in the Mount Shire subdivision in Mount Prospect will soon become part of the Mount Prospect Park District.

The park board Monday night instructed its attorney to draw up an ordinance annexing a portion of the subdivision, involving homes south of Golf Road and west of Busse Road. The board will approve the ordinance at its next meeting June 14, thereby annexing the area.

The six-square block area to be annexed includes parts of Catalpa and Willow Lanes, Busse Road and Tammarack, Sprucewood, Cherrywood, Oakwood and Lavergne drives.

The annexation is the result of homeowners' efforts since September, according to Tom Cooper, park director. He said the group at that time submitted a petition for annexation which had an insufficient number of signatures. Recently the group again submitted a petition with 250 names, more than the 51 per cent of the property owners and legal votes required by the Illinois park district code.

THE MOUNT SHIRE group's first petition had exactly 51 per cent with no allowance for error, according to Tom Cooper. To be annexed, an area must also be co-terminous with current district boundaries and not belong to any other park district.

Cooper said the homes will be added to the park district's tax rolls for the 1972 real estate tax bills. Cooper estimated the annexation would bring in $20 in revenue per home each year, enough "to pay for the park district's services."

He said that to prevent annexation, homeowners in the area would have to submit a petition objecting to the addition. However, he said that is unlikely since "the majority of them said they wanted to annex."

"Most of the people probably want to belong because of the new park going in near there and the popular park district programs," Cooper said. West Park, a 25-acre site, across the street from the subdivision at Golf and Busse roads, is currently being developed.

The area to be annexed has been developed only in the last two years, according to Cooper, and is part of the village. A section of the subdivision including Tammarack Drive and Pheasant Trail already belong to the district. Residents in this section fought strongly against the $2.4 million park district referendum passed in 1969.

Begin Park Name Contest

The Mount Prospect Park District "Name the Park" contest begins today.

Elementary school students living in the park district are eligible to enter the contest to rename the three parks now being developed. The parks are now called South Park, Algonquin and Jance roads in Des Plaines; West Park, Golf and Busse roads, and East Park, Lonnquist Boulevard and William Street; both in Mount Prospect.

"The name can be anything as long as it fits the park and has general appeal," said Paul Caldwell, assistant park director.

Each student can submit as many entries as he or she wants to on lined paper in the student's handwriting. The entry should be mailed to: Name the Park Contest, Mount Prospect Park District, 411 S. Maple St. All entries must be postmarked no later than June 11. Winners will be announced in the Herald the week beginning June 14.

CALDWELL SAID ALL entries must include the name, address and telephone number of the students and must specify for which park the name is being submitted.

Entries must include the reason behind the name in 50 words or less, also in the student's handwriting. Names will be judged by members of the park board, and the three winners will receive a family year-round swim pass, worth $36. Wall plaques will be given to the students as well as their schools and names of winners will appear in the park district's July-August issue of "Fun Talk," the park district's newsletter.

LWV Members Take Part In Survey

Members of local Leagues of Women Voters have been asked to participate in a survey on the need for low and moderate-income housing in Cook County.

The study includes sending questionnaires to local employers asking five questions ranging from the number of employees at the firm to salary range of workers and where they live.

"The reason behind the study is to determine whether or not there's a need for low cost housing," said Geraldine Cosby, human resource chairman for the Palatine League of Women Voters which will begin sending out the questionnaires this month.

"That determination can be made solely on the basis of facts, if the questionnaires are answered," she added.

The survey will be taken of both private and public employers, according to county housing chairman for the league,

Phyllis Griffith.

"The results of this survey will greatly benefit our study of housing on the county level and will provide all of us with a more precise picture of the total housing needs on a regional basis," she said.

It asks how many employees work for the firm and gives four alternatives of salary range: $0 to $5,200 to $10,500, $10,500 to $16,000, and $16,000 and above.

Of each salary range the employer is asked to give the number of employees living within the community and the number living outside of a five-mile radius. It also asks for an estimate on how many employees would move into the area, if adequate housing was available at the right price.

Not all leagues of the suburban area have decided to participate in the survey.

As a local project last fall the Des Plaines League of Women Voters conducted a survey similar to the current county-wide project.

OF 40 businesses and industries only 10 responded, according to Mrs. Alice Rothrock, housing committee chairman for the local league.

The responses indicated there were 175 persons in the $8,000 to $10,000 salary range who lived outside Des Plaines, but would move to the city, if they could afford housing.

Mrs. Rothrock said the league intends to continue its study this spring, directing it at public employees.

The Arlington Heights league, serving Mount Prospect and Elk Grove, issued a brief statement of "indications of local housing needs" several months ago which was unrelated to the present survey.

THE GROUP IS awaiting results of housing surveys being conducted by a joint committee of the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees and Plan Commission and by a housing commission appointed by the Elk Grove Village Board, before deciding whether to participate in the county league study.

Suburban leagues also have been directed to seek endorsements of the survey from local organizations including the Chambers of Commerce, church groups, the Jaycees and other civic organizations.

It's expected that local leagues will tabulate the results of the survey and return them to the county office by August.

Club Schedules 'Alumni Night'

At its 17th anniversary celebration next week the Mount Prospect Toastmasters Club will hold its annual "Alumni Night."

The special observance will be part of the club's regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 S. See-Gwan Ave.

Many of the men who helped charter the club in 1954 are expected to attend, according to a spokesman for the Toastmasters. Among these are the club's first president, J. G. Johnson of 305 Belmont in Arlington Heights, and C. O. Schlaver of 400 S. I-Oka in Mount Prospect, former village president.

Also expected to attend is Russel Puzey of Chicago, a past president of Toastmasters International and one of the initial organizing Toastmasters.

In announcing the meeting, Kenneth Uding, the current club president, invited former club members to attend. He also invited prospective members to attend Monday's meeting.

Purpose of the club is to provide members with a program to improve their abilities in public speaking and conducting meetings. There are more than 3,500 Toastmasters Clubs around the world.

The Mount Prospect Toastmasters Club holds regular meetings at 7:45 p.m. on the first and third Mondays at the community center.

Legislation To Tax Mobile Homes Passes Senate Panel

Some 1,200 mobile homes in Elk Grove Township may be subject to real estate taxes if a bill recently passed by the Senate Revenue Committee is approved by the Illinois General Assembly.

Although the township has not received details on the bill, it would probably mean about $126,000 in tax revenue, according to Charles Hodlmaier, township assessor.

Sponsored by State Sen. Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst, the bill defines as real property any conveyance used as a dwelling place in one county for three months or longer.

Sen. Knuepfer said the units should be called modular homes, not mobile homes, because of the length of time they usually remain at one site.

"There would be much less resistance by communities to the proliferating colonies of modular homes if they contribute their fair share of taxes," he said in one news report.

HODLMAIER SAID he has been trying for years to get some form of real estate tax from mobile homes.

"I don't believe we get enough help from trailers in the way of taxes," he said.

Lutheran Church Bible School Set

Vacation Bible School will be held from July 26 through Aug. 6 at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 1111 N. Elmhurst Rd., Prospect Heights. Classes will last from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Your Real Estate, Property Tax Bills Are On The Way

by DAVE CRIPPEN
Northwest suburban residents will be receiving their 1970 real estate and personal property tax bills within the next few weeks.

After a delay of more than two months, the Cook County Treasurer's office yesterday began sending out statements to Chicago taxpayers, thereby clearing the way for billing of residents of the county's 30 suburban townships.

Tax rates for suburban communities have not yet been determined by the county clerk's office but Walter Prybylo, tax extension officer for the county clerk, said he would begin computing suburban rates early next week. He estimated that computation would be completed within a few days. Tax bills will then be prepared and mailed by the treasurer's office.

Computation of rates and individual tax bills is done alphabetically by township. Thus, residents living in Elk Grove Township will be among the first to receive their tax bills, and Wheeling Township residents will be among the last.

All tax bills will be out by June 15 with the first penalty date of July 15, officials reported.

MEANWHILE, tax rate increases for communities in the Northwest suburban area are expected to be greater than Chicago's rate, which was set at 9.5 per cent.

Figures already available showed a combined rate increase of 11 cents per $100 assessed valuation for Cook County and the Forest Preserve District, both of whom levy taxes in suburban areas.

Cook County's rate jumped from 42.2 cents in 1969 to 51.4 cents in 1970. The Forest Preserve District also boosted its rate from 6 cents to 7.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The only taxing body reducing its rate, according to the county clerk was the Metropolitan Sanitary District. The MSD's rate dropped from 31.4 cents to 23.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Also contributing to the expected tax rate hike in the Northwest suburbs is the 5 per cent increase in the "state equalization factor." The equalization factor, a multiplier determined by the state to provide equitable property assessment in all 102 counties of Illinois, jumped from 1.51 to 1.59.

Prybylo explained that the new multiplier alone would raise the valuation of a home originally set at $10,000 to $15,900. Similarly, the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 will pay $51.40 in taxes to the county, $7.80 to the Forest Preserve District and $23.20 to MSD.

THE EXPECTED sharp increase among other local tax rates is attributed largely to higher levies by area school districts.

Anticipated collections by Cook County

of all taxes — real estate, personal property and railroad — was set at $65,122,847, an increase of almost $14 million over last year.

Combined revenue for the Forest Preserve District was set at $9.8 million, an increase of over $2 million over the previous year. Projected tax receipts for MSD dropped from $38.1 million last year to $29.4 million this year.

There are more than 189,000 taxpayers in the Northwest suburbs, according to the most recent figures from the County Treasurer's office.

Funds Being Sought For Music Class

Persons interested in preserving instrumental music in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 next year are being asked to put up their money next week.

A letter being sent home with students this week by the "Music for Youth" committee asks parents to indicate if they will have children participating in the music program next year and requests pledges for donations.

Members of the committee say that a donation of $30 per semester for each student in the program will be necessary to maintain its quality. Donations for the first semester will be needed on or before May 20.

The Music for Youth committee has been formed by the parents of music students in order to collect donations needed to continue the program next year.

In March, the Board of Education of the district cut the instrumental music program, which includes Suzuki violin instruction and band, from the 1971-72 budget.

THE MUSIC CUT was one of many made in response to the failure of the district's tax rate referendum, a drop in state aid and the circuit court decision making corporate personal property tax unconstitutional.

The plan to continue the music program on a donation basis involves agreements between the parent's committee, the Music Center of the North Shore and the school district.

The Music Center, which is based in Winnetka, will hire teachers for the program using funds collected by the parents group and will provide the teachers to the district.

Donations are voluntary and all children in the district will be eligible for the program whether or not their parents donate money.

In addition, the committee will accept donations from anyone who has interest in the music program but does not have children participating in it. Ruth Rodriguez, a member of the committee, said.

Last month the board, by a vote of 4 to 3, gave the go-ahead to the program, subject to final approval when the amount of participation and extent of the instruction offered is known.

The committee wants to have pledges for the first semester this spring. Mrs. Rodriguez said, so decisions can be made on the number of teachers who will be needed and so the board can have definite information.

The committee has a coordinator in each school who will be collecting donations, Mrs. Rodriguez added.

EXTERNAL HEART MASSAGE is one of the techniques that Arlington Heights firemen must know when they serve on the two ambulances. Dennis Horcher, left, and Dennis Maihack practice the technique during an emergency medical training program held this week at Holy Family Hospital. The program is one of the ways firemen improve their life-saving skills through study.

Crew Copes With Major, Minor Problems

Ambulance Service Marks First Year Anniversary

by WANDALYN RICE
The Arlington Heights Fire Department ambulances have become a familiar sight in just one year.

This month, the ambulance service will be one year old, and in that time the ambulances have been on call an average of just over three times every day.

In that time firemen have coped with minor problems and major tragedies, and have helped deliver one baby.

The baby was delivered at home and was the second delivery Arlington Heights firemen had assisted. Capt. Jack Benson said. The first time firemen helped with a delivery was before the ambulance service began.

THE SERVICE WAS an extension of the work that had always been done in the area of resuscitation, Benson said, adding that Arlington Heights was one of the last large communities to institute full-time ambulances.

Before the service began, he said, the fire department would often respond to accidents, give first aid and then have to wait for a private ambulance to arrive to transport the victim. "Our interest was time because we were on the scene anyway," he said.

Beginning in January, 1970, the fire department transported victims on a part-time basis, using the department's station wagon. In May, 1970, the ambulances arrived.

Since then the ambulances have answered 1,210 calls.

Firemen always had training in basic first aid, even before the ambulance service started, Benson said, but in the past year interest in the training has grown and the amount of training has increased.

Firemen take Red Cross emergency training, attend special classes on different kinds of emergencies and keep up on new developments in the field, he said.

THIS WEEK 17 FIREMEN and four members of the Arlington Heights Police Department participated in "Save a Life" Emergency Medical Training at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines.

The three-day series of lectures and workshops was sponsored by the hospital and the Northwest Suburban Committee on Trauma, with members from police and fire departments in the area attending.

For firemen, the program fell on "off" days when they would not otherwise have been on duty. Such programs are voluntary, Benson said, because the men go on their off time, but "they have to further their education."

The ambulances, Benson said, are equipped with "some pretty neat stuff that makes our job easier."

The equipment includes scoop stretchers that make it possible to lift a victim without changing his position, half and full back boards for use on persons with back injuries, many kinds of splints and a light-weight resuscitator that gives the men flexibility of movement when needed.

EMERGENCIES THE department handles fall into two general categories, he said — accidents and heart-lung emergencies.

The firemen cope with both, whether a patient has broken bones from an auto accident or heart failure. "Knowing what to do and how to do it is important," he said.

Residents have gotten used to the idea that they can call for ambulance service, Benson added, although it took a little time. "Our service is free and once people find this out it doesn't take long," he said.

But the biggest factor in the large number of calls the ambulance gets is the growth of the area, he said.

"Years ago we had most of the male population leaving town every day," he said. "Now we have people coming in, too."

Benson recalled that in 1957 when he joined the department there were 300 alarms all year. Last month there were 99 ambulance calls and 104 fire calls — a total of 203 trips for the firemen.

Library Turns Down Low Bid For Carpet Cleaning

The Arlington Heights Memorial Library Board of Directors Tuesday night turned down the lowest of four bids submitted for carpet cleaning and awarded the contract to the company which does regular maintenance in the building.

The carpet cleaning job was awarded to Nationwide Building Maintenance, which submitted a bid of $1,185.

The lowest bid of four submitted was from Wheeler Maintenance Co. of Arlington Heights, at $990.

By a vote of 4-2, board members awarded the contract to Nationwide.

Wheeler has never had a carpet cleaning job the size of the library, but has handled cleaning for the post office in Arlington Heights, executive librarian Harold Ard told the board.

WHEELER SUBMITTED TWO references. Ard said one firm he had been able to reach before the board meeting said Wheeler's work was satisfactory.

Board Member Robert Melroy said he was concerned with not being able to ensure performance by Wheeler because the company does not do other jobs for the library. Employees of Nationwide are around all the time, he said.

Last year carpets were cleaned by another company for $1,165. After the board had paid the bill, they discovered the carpet in the Dunton Room had shrunk and pulled apart at the seams.

Board Pres. Mrs. Robert Wallace and Board Member Lawrence Dickerson voted against the motion to accept the bid by Nationwide.

Following the vote, Dickerson, who is vice president of a landscape construction firm, explained, "I bid for a living and I can't believe that if I cut prices in an attempt to get a job the bid would not be accepted."

Futurities

The Dist. 25 Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner St., Arlington Heights.

The Harper College board will meet at 8 p.m. today at the college's campus, Roselle and Algonquin roads, Palatine.

The Dist. 21 Board of Education will meet at 8:15 p.m. at the district's administrative offices, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

Correction

A story in Monday's Herald regarding the Rand Road study incorrectly stated the date for a scheduled public hearing on the report as June 16.

The hearing, scheduled by the Village Plan Commission, will be held June 2 at 8 p.m., in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The planning group will conduct a continued hearing into the controversial Victor moderate-income housing proposal June 16 at John Hersey High School.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The House reversed itself yesterday and voted to resurrect the SST program with a $85 million appropriation for more development work on the controversial aircraft. The project must get by an expected tough fight in the Senate before approval, however.

The administration urged the federal minimum wage be raised from $1.60 an hour to $2 by January, 1974. The proposal recommended, however, a lower minimum for persons under the age of 18.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has acquired what was termed "one of the world's greatest paintings," for a record sum of $5,544,000. The painting is Diego Velasquez's 1650 portrait of his mulatto assistant. The painting was sold last November in a London art auction.

The World

The American dollar inched upward on the European money markets again Wednesday. It was the second day of small gains for the value of the dollar which sagged Monday when West Germany abandoned its "support" and allowed supply and demand to set the worth of U.S. currency.

In what was called "one of the most significant documents" of his nearly eight years as pontiff, Pope Paul VI's apostolic letter on modern social conditions addressed itself to the modern problems of urbanization and pollution. The Pope called on city leaders to tackle housing problems; called the generation gap a problem "which strikes at the deep roots of society;" and condemns in women's liberation "that false equality which would deny the distinction laid down by the Creator Himself . . ." The Pope warned, however, that society leaders should not solve city problems by pushing birth control.

The State

College students would be required to bear some of the state costs of higher education under a proposal now being considered by the Illinois House Higher Education Committee. The proposal would require a post graduation contribution — in some cases up to $1,500 — to the state by those who attend state schools which receive state funds. The amount would, in part, be determined by the graduate's annual income. Each alumnus could take up to 15 years to pay his share, but the amount would not exceed $1,500.

Workers of the UAW agreed to end their 100-day strike at the two Sunstrand Corp. plants in Rockford. Production at the hydraulic pump and aircraft parts plant is expected to resume Monday.

The War

High administration officials said yesterday that evidence is mounting that Hanoi may attempt a major military offensive just prior to the October elections in South Vietnam.

Profit taking loosened its hold on the stock market in the final minutes of trading Wednesday and allowed most key indicators to finish higher in moderate turnover. The Dow Jones Industrial Average edged up .21 to 937.46. DJ utilities also climbed but the DJ transportation index lost ground. Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American stock exchange.

GREETINGS FROM the president were delivered to Al Volz yesterday on his 100th birthday by Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh, left.

30 Residents Sign To Grow Vegetables

Only about 30 people have signed up for garden plots offered free this year by the Arlington Heights Park District.

Individuals or groups may call the park district administration office, 253-0820, to register for a plot in Prairie Farm Garden Park, at 1700 South Belmont Avenue at Council Trail Road, about four blocks east of Arlington Heights Road.

More than 100 plots are still available for summer use by residents who will be expected to supply their own tools and seeds.

A mass planting day will be held at 10:30 a.m. May 22 and adult supervisors will be present to assist in the beginning of plantings. The program is sponsored by the park district in cooperation with the Arlington Heights Garden Club and the Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP).

Residents who register for a plot will receive a booklet of planting tips prepared by Mary B. Good, Paddock Publications garden editor and vice president of PEP.

3 Earn Degrees

Three Arlington Heights students received degrees from Illinois State University, Normal, at the end of the first semester.

The three are Lee Combs, 622 S. Dryden Ave.; Karen Linsey, 1239 N. Wilke and Margaret Sidor, 1504 S. Belmont.

'Mr. Arlington Heights' Celebrates 100th Year

About 70 friends gathered at Northwest Community Hospital yesterday to pay tribute to Al Volz on his 100th birthday.

Volz, who has been in intensive care at the hospital for about five weeks with a heart condition, was wheeled to the lobby of the hospital for a brief ceremony in observation of the anniversary.

The lobby was decorated with flowers donated by Charles Klehm & Son Nursery and a number of cakes. The largest of the birthday cakes was donated by Walter Aronson, operator of The Cake Box, 15 W. Campbell St.

About 100 greeting cards were stacked on the table by the cakes, along with a poster of greetings put together by third graders at Windsor School, and a stack of personal messages to Arlington Heights' oldest citizen from the school children.

Village Pres. Jack Walsh read Volz a personal letter from President Nixon. When he finished, Volz declared "That's wonderful. Ain't that wonderful?"

AMONG THE GREETINGS received by Volz were a letter from the Arlington Beautification Council informing him that three trees have been planted in his honor at the eastern entrance to Arlington Heights on Northwest Highway, and one from Arlington Heights Junior Women's Club which said $100 was donated to the Arlington Memorial Library in his name.

Librarians Describe Techniques For Young

Teaching the Dewey Decimal System to second graders, helping a third grader research women's liberation or guiding a junior high school student through his first major research assignment using the Reader's Guide are all part of the day's work at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library.

Members of the library board of directors got a glimpse of those activities and others involving children under 16 Tuesday night when the heads of the children's and young adult departments described their activities.

The two librarians spoke to the board in the first of a series of presentations from various departments that will be made to the board over the summer.

Justine Tarpy, who heads the children's department which serves youngsters through the fifth grade, explained that besides working with young patrons she also works with high school students in child care classes and with teachers.

IN ADDITION, she said, classes from elementary schools come to the library and children participate in the summer reading program.

When classes visit the library, she said, she explains the Dewey decimal system to them so they can find things for themselves.

"I make it very logical," she explained, adding that she describes the different classifications as dividing different activities that men take part in.

"Often teachers tell me they wish they had been taught that way because they still don't remember the classifications," she said.

This summer, as in past years, the library will have a summer reading program in which children who read 10 books and report on them during the summer will be rewarded with a special movie shown at the Arlington Theater.

Last summer, she said, 1,000 children attended the movie.

Elmer Hackbarth, the Young Adult Librarian who works with the sixth through ninth graders, said her department provides a useful bridge between the children's department and the adult department for many children.

"THE ADVANCED students can go to the adult section, but in working with them I find that sixth and seventh graders are still young children who need direction," she said.

The library's collection of 12,000 Young Adult books is designed to provide materials needed in class assignments as well as information on careers and fiction, she said.

Each spring, invitations are sent to each fifth grade class in Arlington Heights asking them if they would like to come to the library for orientation to the Young Adult department, she said.

The librarians then describe the use of the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature to the students, since they may start getting assignments which require magazine information, Mrs. Hackbarth said.

In addition, children are shown how to change their children's card to a young adult card and are given a chance to check out books from that section, she said.

One suggestion Mrs. Hackbarth made to the board was that young adults be redefined to include only junior high school students. Now freshmen in high school also hold young adult cards.

If only junior high school students were young adults and if a larger area was set aside for the section, she said, her section would be able to provide more help for them and would keep them more separate from adult patrons.

At the present time, she said, children get their books in the young adult area of the library. Sometimes, as a result, adults complain about noise the youngsters make.

Some adults use the young adult section executive librarian Harold Ard said, because they object to some of the current trends in fiction. The young adults section sometimes stocks adult fiction but "there is nothing objectionable to anyone in the selections," he said.

And sometimes, even in the children's section, kids look for information on grown-up topics. Mrs. Tarpy told the board of one third grade girl who came in looking for books for an assignment on women's liberation. By herself, she told the librarian, she had found some books on "women's stuffage."

Wire Corp. Files Counter Suit

Chicago Magnet Wire Corp. has filed a suit against Elk Grove Village seeking $2 million in damages, said Village Mgr. Charles Willis on Tuesday.

The suit is a counter claim to another suit filed in April by the Illinois Attorney General's office to halt air pollution at the Elk Grove Village plant.

The municipality which authorized its attorney to work in conjunction with the attorney general's office is named in the counter claim with the attorney general.

EDWARD HOFFERT, village attorney, said the village has 90 days in which to respond to the counter claim filed May 3 in Cook County Circuit Court. The suit was served on the village Monday, though village officials did not learn of it until late Tuesday.

The firm, located at 901 Chase Ave. in Elk Grove Village, has been the object of complaints for years by residents who have smelled the odor emitted from the plant.

The firm, located in the community for seven years, manufactures a baked coating magnet wire for use in electrical products.

Last September, executive vice president Anthony Jordan, said the firm was in the midst of a "total environmental program" that would cost from $3 to $5 million and that it was in "no violation of any law."

William Scott, attorney general, charged that the firm emits a gaseous matter into the air, consisting of part of phenolic compounds including cresylic acid.

He alleged the odors were "strong and offensive, causing respiratory irritation and other damage to personal health and enjoyment as well as damage to property."

SCOTT FILED suit in Cook County Circuit Court under his authority to deal with a public nuisance and two Illinois pollution laws.

The suit asked to permanently enjoin the company from polluting the air, seeking penalties of $10,000 for each violation of the Environmental Protection Act of 1970, and up to $1,000 a day for each day the violation continued.

Also, $5,000 for each violation of the Air Pollution Control Act that was in effect until July 1, 1970, and $200 for each day the violation continued.

Nonresident Library Card Holders Analyzed Here

Less than one fourth of the 140 persons who have non-resident cards at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library live in areas that have no library service of their own.

An analysis of non-resident cardholders presented to the library board of directors Tuesday night by executive librarian Harold Ard indicates that 267 of the non-resident cardholders are from unincorporated Arlington Heights, 41 are from Lake Zurich and 31 are from Long Grove.

Those areas have no local library service, although Lake Zurich is included in annexation plans by the Barrington Library District and a small part of Long Grove included in annexation plans by the Wheeling Library District.

The other non-resident cardholders are from neighboring suburban communities with the largest number, 316, from Palatine.

Other communities represented on the list include Mount Prospect with 267, Prospect Heights, 183, Buffalo Grove, 11, Rolling Meadows, 8, Barrington, 26, Elk Grove Village, 23, Inverness, 19, and Wheeling, 19.

THE PORTION OF Buffalo Grove in Lake County is not now served by the Wheeling Library District, so some of the cardholders from that community might be without library service. If an annexation referendum in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area passes on May 22, that area will be included in the district.

Ard said 36 families are represented in the number of non-resident cardholders as well as adult individuals.

The non-resident fee for families is $20.

The question of non-resident cardholders has been one factor in the library's involvement with the reciprocal borrowing controversy in the North Suburban Library System.

If reciprocal borrowing is put into effect in the system, the library would no longer be able to charge for non-resident cards for any person who lives in an area served by a library. All persons with cards in any of the system libraries could use any other library in the system.

In addition, members of the Arlington Heights Library Board have feared that reciprocal borrowing will mean a great drain on the library because it has a larger collection than any of the neighboring libraries.

Board Will Not Endorse High School Referendum

The Elk Grove Village Board has chosen not to endorse Saturday's $10.5 million bond referendum for a high school in Buffalo Grove.

High School Dist. 214 officials had requested that municipalities in the district (Elk Grove, Wheeling and a portion of Palatine townships) adopt a resolution supporting the referendum.

Buffalo Grove and Rolling Meadows have endorsed the bond issue.

Jack Pahl, Elk Grove Village president, said it is not unusual for the village board not to endorse a referendum though it has done so on occasion.

He said trustees preferred that residents make their own judgment on how to vote.

THE STANDARD way for endorsement by public officials, he said, has been for individual trustees to endorse and not the board as a whole.

Most recent issues to be endorsed by the village board include the new Illinois Constitution last fall and the four township mental health referendum early this year.

Ronald Chernick, at Tuesday's village board meeting, said if the resolution came to a vote he would abstain. He said he did not feel a trustee should tell residents how to vote. The resolution did not come to a vote.

Last week, Chernick said Elk Grove Village had no representation on the school board, a situation that arose following the defeat of Leah Cummings of 1009 Ridge Ave. in the suburb in the April school board election.

Tuesday, the village board heard a presentation on the referendum by Fred Klink of Elk Grove Village and Donald Fyfe, an assistant principal at Elk Grove High School.

Klink said the cost of the referendum would be "quite low," about $4.50 a year

Council Endorses School Referendum

The Rolling Meadows City Council has voted unanimously to support the Township High School Dist. 214 referendum scheduled for a vote this Saturday.

The resolution passed by the council, urged all citizens to vote yes for construction of a new high school in Buffalo Grove "to insure the continuation of the present excellent educational program of the district."

It said the school district has "practiced efficient long-term planning of schools to insure quality educational facilities at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayer."

Dist. 214 has recommended an eighth high school to be constructed in Buffalo Grove in time for the opening of the 1973-74 school year, if the referendum passes.

For a resident with a house worth $30,000, "WE HAVE TO try to keep ahead of the kids," said Fyfe.

If the district's eighth high school is not built, he said, there will be overcrowding in Wheeling High School and John Hersey High School in Arlington Heights.

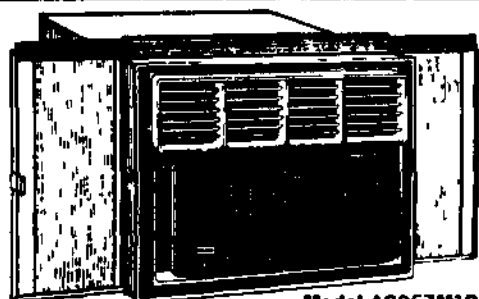

The district's policy is to limit schools to 2,500 students, he said, noting later that enrollment at Elk Grove High is 2,714 students but is expected to decrease.

Next fall, 350 freshmen attending Elk Grove High will be attending the new Rolling Meadows High School now under construction, he said.

Your Real Estate, Property Tax Bills Are On The Way

by DAVE CRIPPEN

Northwest suburban residents will be receiving their 1970 real estate and personal property tax bills within the next few weeks.

After a delay of more than two months, the Cook County Treasurer's office yesterday began sending out statements to Chicago taxpayers, thereby clearing the way for billing of residents of the county's 30 suburban townships.

Tax rates for suburban communities have not yet been determined by the county clerk's office but Walter Prybylo, tax extension officer for the county clerk, said he would begin computing suburban rates early next week. He estimated that computation would be completed within a few days. Tax bills will then be prepared and mailed by the treasurer's office.

Computation of rates and individual tax bills is done alphabetically by township. Thus, residents living in Elk Grove Township will be among the first to receive their tax bills, and Wheeling Township residents will be among the last.

All tax bills will be out by June 15 with the first penalty date of July 15, officials reported.

MEANWHILE, tax rate increases for communities in the Northwest suburban area are expected to be greater than Chicago's rate, which was set at 9.5 per cent.

Figures already available showed a combined rate increase of 11 cents per $100 assessed valuation for Cook County and the Forest Preserve District, both of whom levy taxes in suburban areas.

Cook County's rate jumped from 42.2 cents in 1969 to 51.4 cents in 1970. The Forest Preserve District also boosted its rate from 6 cents to 7.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The only taxing body reducing its rate, according to the county clerk was the Metropolitan Sanitary District. The MSD's rate dropped from 31.4 cents to 23.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Also contributing to the expected tax rate hike in the Northwest suburbs is the 5 per cent increase in the "state equalization factor." The equalization factor, a multiplier determined by the state to provide equitable property assessment in all 102 counties of Illinois, jumped from 1.51 to 1.59.

Prybylo explained that the new multiplier alone would raise the valuation of a home originally set at $10,000 to $15,900. Similarly, the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 will pay $51.40 in taxes to the county, $7.80 to the Forest Preserve District and $23.20 to MSD.

THE EXPECTED sharp increase among other local tax rates is attributed largely to higher levies by area school districts.

Anticipated collections by Cook County

of all taxes — real estate, personal property and railroad — was set at $65,122,847, an increase of almost $14 million over last year.

Combined revenue for the Forest Preserve District was set at $9.8 million, an increase of over $2 million over the previous year. Projected tax receipts for MSD dropped from $38.1 million last year to $29.4 million this year.

There are more than 189,000 taxpayers in the Northwest suburbs, according to the most recent figures from the County Treasurer's office.

Mobile Homes In Area May Face Increased Tax

A bill approved recently by an Illinois Senate committee would increase taxes on the almost 1,000 mobile homes in Des Plaines.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Jack Knuepfer (R-Elmhurst), would classify mobile homes that remain in one place for three months as real property, ending what critics contend has been a virtual free ride for trailer park residents as far as local taxes are concerned.

Mobile homes are classified as personal property, which has enabled trailer owners to escape the heavier burdens of real estate tax assessments.

With the elimination of personal property tax on individuals in a statewide referendum last year, officials of many local taxing bodies feel they should be given a way to derive more taxes from the mobile homes.

Sen. Knuepfer said the units should be called modular homes rather than mobile homes because of the long period of time they usually remain at one site.

"There would be much less resistance by communities to the proliferating colonies of modular homes if they contributed their fair share of taxes," he said in one news report.

Harold Brieschke, director of business services for School Dist. 62, said the school district derives virtually no taxes from mobile home parks. He said there are 72 children in district schools this year who live in mobile home parks.

According to Frank Hines, attorney for School Dist. 59, elimination of the personal property tax has given increase support to classifying mobile homes as real property and thus realizing more tax money from them.

Legislators from southern Illinois counties, which in the past have opposed more taxation for mobile homes, now support such legislation because of revenue problems created in their home districts by the abolition of the personal property tax, Hines said.

According to the 1970 census of housing, there are 962 occupied mobile homes in the city limits of Des Plaines. One source estimated that Dist. 59 has 1,200 of the trailers within its boundaries.

Charles Hodlman, Elk Grove Township assessor, said officials have been trying for years to get more tax dollars from mobile home owners. He estimated that Sen. Knuepfer's bill, if passed by the General Assembly, would bring in an additional $126,000 for township taxing bodies.

James Parks, Maine Township assessor, said mobile homes "are one of the big problems" for school districts because they provide many children and few tax dollars.

He said taxes equivalent to those levied on a $60,000 home are needed to pay for the education of one school child. Mobile homes provide even a smaller portion of those needed revenues than do average single-family homes, he said.

Parks, who said mobile homes are a "headache" for taxing bodies, predicted that many owners would try to avoid the real property classification imposed under Knuepfer's bill by moving their homes every three months.

SPRING WEATHER, WHICH brings out the leaves on local trees, also brings out the forestry department crews from the Des Plaines Public Works Department.

The city's $200,000 forestry budget includes $150,000 for trimming, removal and replacement of parkway trees.

Families To Host Latin American Kids

"We want to show them some warmth, and we want to show them we care."

This is the way a member of the Trinity Lutheran Church, Algonquin Road and Fifth Avenue, Des Plaines, described the purpose for a program this summer in which children of Latin American descent will spend 10 days with Des Plaines families.

Last year 24 local families hosted children from Chicago, in a program sponsored by Casa Central, 2635 N. Kedzie, Chicago, a community guidance and aid organization for Latin Americans.

This year, families are being sought who can host children, 7 through 11 years old, for 10 days, July 2 through 11 or July 30 through Aug. 8.

The Rev. Daniel Alvarez, of Casa Central, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 27, at the Des Plaines church, to answer questions about the program, according to Mrs. Tyra Kadlec, 1353 A Henry, Des Plaines.

FAMILIES MAY specify whether they want a boy or a girl of a specific age. All of the children speak English.

The children are of Cuban or Puerto Rican descent, according to Mrs. Kadlec. They are part of a 400,000 Latin American community in the Chicago area who share problems of adjusting to American culture and climate, she said.

Mrs. Kadlec said her family will welcome Luz Garcia, a 10-year-old girl, back to their home this year.

Last year, Luz enjoyed her brief visit to Des Plaines, and especially liked swimming in the Rand Park swimming pool. She had never seen a swimming pool before, Mrs. Kadlec said.

Last January, Luz visited the Kadlec family and they went tobogganing and ice skating.

Mrs. Kadlec plans to take Luz to an amusement park in the southwest Chicago area. Mrs. Kadlec has three children, Suzanne 6, Christine, 9, and Vickie, 11, who attend Central School, 1526 Thacker.

Maine East Moves Into Finals, 5-2

Maine East advanced to the championship round of the Maine West District baseball tournament by defeating Maine North 5-2 Wednesday on the Maine West High School field.

The Demons will play Niles West for the district championship today at 4:15 p.m. at Maine West. The winner of today's game will advance to the Niles West Regional tournament, which will be held next week.

Maine East went out to a 4-0 lead after four innings of play and overcame a Maine North threat in the fifth inning for the victory.

John DeCardy went all the way on the mound for Maine East and gave up four hits and two walks while striking out nine. DeCardy benefited by two Maine East double plays but also was hindered by four Maine East errors.

MAINE EAST took a 1-0 lead in the first inning as Russ Anderson reached second base safely on an error, went to third on a wild pitch and scored after consecutive walks to Rick Lloyd, Steve Fagerman and Barney Cornfield.

The Demons made it 2-0 in the bottom of the third inning as Lloyd reached first base on an error, went to third on a single to left field by Fagerman and scored on Cornfield's groundout.

Maine East got what proved to be the winning runs in the bottom of the fourth as the Demons collected a pair of tallies.

Mike McDonnell got the inning going with an infield single and stole second base. DeCardy lined a double to left-center field which scored McDonnell from second.

Gary Shuman rapped a single to left field that scored DeCardy from second to make the score 4-0.

MAINE NORTH, playing in its first district baseball game ever, gave the Demons a scare by scoring two runs in the top of the fifth.

After two were out, Doug Werhane reached first base on an error and advanced to second base as Neil Schawel walked. Mickey Drewes singled to score Werhane and moved Schawel to second and Brian Bradfield singled to score Schawel. Halls followed with a walk.

The Norsemen had the bases loaded at this point, but DeCardy picked a Maine North baserunner off of third base to end the Norsemen threat.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The House reversed itself yesterday and voted to resurrect the SST program with a $85 million appropriation for more development work on the controversial aircraft. The project must get by an expected tough fight in the Senate before approval, however.

The administration urged the federal minimum wage be raised from $1.60 an hour to $2 by January, 1974. The proposal recommended, however, a lower minimum for persons under the age of 18.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has acquired what was termed "one of the world's greatest paintings," for a record sum of $5,544,000. The painting is Diego Velasquez's 1650 portrait of his mulatto assistant. The painting was sold last November in a London art auction.

The World

The American dollar inched upward on the European money markets again Wednesday. It was the second day of small gains for the value of the dollar which sagged Monday when West Germany abandoned its "support" and allowed supply and demand to set the worth of U.S. currency.

In what was called "one of the most significant documents" of his nearly eight years as pontiff, Pope Paul VI's apostolic letter on modern social conditions addressed itself to the modern problems of urbanization and pollution. The Pope called on city leaders to tackle housing problems; called the generation gap a problem "which strikes at the deep roots of society;" and condemns in women's liberation "that false equality which would deny the distinction laid down by the Creator Himself." The Pope warned, however, that society leaders should not solve city problems by pushing birth control.

The State

College students would be required to bear some of the state costs of higher education under a proposal now being considered by the Illinois House Higher Education Committee. The proposal would require a post graduation contribution — in some cases up to $1,500 — to the state by those who attend state schools which receive state funds. The amount would, in part, be determined by the graduate's annual income. Each alumnus could take up to 15 years to pay his share, but the amount would not exceed $1,500.

Workers of the UAW agreed to end their 100-day strike at the two Sunstrand Corp. plants in Rockford. Production at the hydraulic pump and aircraft parts plant is expected to resume Monday.

The War

High administration officials said yesterday that evidence is mounting that Hanoi may attempt a major military offensive just prior to the October elections in South Vietnam.

The Market

Profit taking loosened its hold on the stock market in the final minutes of trading Wednesday and allowed most key indicators to finish higher in moderate turnover. The Dow Jones Industrial Average edged up .21 to 937.46. DJ utilities also climbed but the DJ transportation index lost ground. Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American stock exchange.

Writer Has Been Everywhere; Prefers Chicago Area

by BRAD BREKKE
There are simple men and then there is Richard Dunlop.

A travel writer and author, Dunlop is a bottomless chaser of information about sophisticated places in the world such as Moscow and Paris and Athens and remote areas, such as North Burma.

But he also says the Chicago area is the most exciting place to live and relates his life style to the simplicity of nature, by becoming aware and involved with it.

Dunlop, 49, of Arlington Heights, has just finished his most recent book, "Great Trails of the West," and it will soon be available at local book stores.

On May 29, he said he will be autographing copies at the Hilltop Book Store in Arlington Heights.

"THINK OF THE great trails . . . of the trader caravans to Santa Fe, of the Spanish friars trudging the road to the California missions, of men, women and children and covered wagons toiling along the migrant trails, and of dashing stagecoaches and the Pony Express," reads an excerpt from the book.

Dunlop is a seasoned traveler along the great trails of the West. Over a period of five years, he and his family hiked, drove or rode over the routes of the trails which played a prominent part in the opening of the American territory west of the Mississippi. He parked their camper at night where wagon trains bivouacked on the Oregon trail; set up tents where roadbuilders had camped along the Mullan Military Road; and sometimes ate and slept in inns which have survived from the frontier past.

In this account you will travel with Dunlop from the beginning of the Santa Fe trail in Kansas throughout the West. He has interwoven into each chapter, along with his observations, historical background and anecdotes of adventure, humor, hardship, tragedy and courage.

In one chapter about the Chilkoot Trail, Dunlop and five Boy Scouts from Troop 333 in Arlington Heights, backpack up an old pass used during the Alaskan gold rush in 1898 to get to the Klondike.

"WHEN A SCOUTMASTER teaches his boys such Scouting skills as first aid, how to use a map and compass, or mountain hiking, he scarcely thinks they may have to use them to rescue him, but before I was to get safely out of the wilderness, the Scouts sleeping peacefully at my side were going to call on all their training and ingenuity. Each one of them was to take a long stride toward manhood. I was to learn what it must have been like during the days of the gold stampede to be sick and weary on the Chilkoot Trail," Dunlop wrote.

"I always wanted to be a writer. As far back as I can remember, I've done many other things, but writing is what I like," said Dunlop.

He says it is a 24-hour a day job and even when he is not busy on a story or book, he is still working. "You have to be totally involved with life and people and the things around you," he said.

Dunlop's career began just before World War II when he went through Northwestern University. In 1942 he left school for the Army and was given his journalism degree while he was in China. Later he went to Burma where he served in General Donovan's OSS (Office of Strategic Services), the predecessor of the CIA.

Dunlop said while he was in Burma he worked closely with the Kachins, a primitive mountain people in the north, as guerrillas behind Japanese lines and later wrote a book about it.

After the war, he went back for a master's degree in journalism at Northwestern and began writing for magazines as a free-lancer.

"I'VE WRITTEN something for almost every major magazine there is and many that aren't around any more. Magazines are on the decline now, so I've been getting more and more into books," he said.

Dunlop is the author of several books, including Doctors of the American Frontier and the Rand McNally Vacation

Guide, and is co-editor of the Texaco Touring Atlas. His articles have appeared in such magazines as Reader's Digest, Saturday Evening Post, Today's Health, Better Homes and Gardens, Southern Living and Popular Mechanics.

He also has written for travel sections of large newspapers and has won several awards for his writing. A member of the Author's League and Society of Midland Authors, Dunlop is also president of the Society of American Travel Writers.

As a travel writer, he has visited 50 countries in the last seven years. He says there are only about 1,000 people in the country today who make their living solely as free-lance writers and some say it's really more like 400.

Dunlop says during any one period he might have 12 magazine assignments he's working on, plus a book. His latest book was supposed to be done in three years, but it took five.

"Editors want you to be on time, but they also want an outstanding book. I used to get little notes from my editor on this one saying 'My, my, what can the matter be?'" he said.

In the course of writing a book, Dunlop does a frightening amount of research at the Newberry Library on the near North Side and the Chicago Public Library in the Loop.

"THERE'S QUITE A difference in reading for research and reading for pleasure. You have to read fast for research and it's hard work," he said.

All but one of his books has been non-fiction and he says he has plans for several more, including some novels. He says one he plans to do is about the OSS and he will have to travel all over the world to look people up he has on a list from the war and interview them.

Dunlop moved to Arlington Heights in 1955 with his wife, Joan. They have four children, three sons and a daughter, and live at 1115 Mayfair.

He's Alive And Well, Thank You!

Landon's Nobody's Loser

BY TOM TIEDE

TOPEKA, Kansas — (NEA) — It was 1936. The presidential elections. Franklin Delano Roosevelt against somebody with a sunflower button named Alf Landon. Roosevelt had an uphill climb. The polls, the pundits and most of the newspapers supported the challenger from Kansas. Then the people had their way. And when the nation was through listening, Alf Landon had been surprisingly defeated.

The vote: 523 electoral votes to eight. "Well, harrumph," Alfred Mosman Landon now 84, going on 50, will tell friends "I'm a strange duck. I'm a lawyer who never had a case, an oilman who never had a million and a presidential candidate who carried only Maine and Vermont."

Some say the man is one of history's great losers. They are wrong. Landon himself is the proof. "If I'd been elected," he says, "I'd be a dead man today."

So instead, thanks to all those votes that didn't want him, Landon is alive and well and living in charming elegance here in Topeka. His manor comprises 40 acres on the edge of town. His home is an imposing structure supported by eight gigantic frontal columns and shaded by trees such as they don't grow any more.

INSIDE, Alf sips bourbon and water and talks, what else, politics.

"Now, this here Vietnam thing," he says. "I think the President's got it under more control than many people think." He gets up from his green velvet chair and paces back and forth to get the juices flowing. "Let me tell you what I think I think Vietnam isn't going to be a political issue in 1972."

He lets that sink in. And continues:

"Now McGovern is going around using the war as his big stick. I see where Muskie is starting to do the same thing. McCarthy has been doing it all along." He pauses sips. "Well, I think they're in for a surprise. I think the President is going to have Vietnam cooled off by 1972. He's withdrawing the troops. The public knows this. So by the time the next election rolls around McGovern, Muskie and the rest may find they are beating a dead political horse."

ALF LANDON

Landon smiles. Nods. And, satisfied, he sits back down.

HERE IS A WONDER, this man. A loser? Humbug. Twice governor of his state, adviser and confidant to numberless national leaders, one of the original Bull Moose (progressive) Republicans, he is one of life's great winners. Politics, he says, was merely an avocation. It wasn't as necessary as bringing in a wildcat oil well (the free-lances in the business) or informing the public (he owns three radio stations) or even getting on a horse every morning (he does) and riding over to the spot where the sun first warms the moisture from the grass.

He has life figured out. And he figures it's a plus. Granted, times are tough, "but every generation feels they go through the worst period in history." Certainly, the Union is shaky, but "it's always been shaky and it's always managed to survive." And sure, society is bizarre, yet "our people are more committed today than I've ever seen them and that's the greatest hope for the future."

Optimistic? Why not. The old man has seen it all and knows most wounds inevitably heal. He has been, at one time or another, the most important figure in his state and the biggest laughing stock in his nation. He has been poor and rich. He has outlived three wars and hopes to add a fourth soon. He is worn and slowed but he refuses to concede. "New thoughts," he says, "that's what's kept me alive. I've always got something cooking. I think life is to live."

SO HE DOES live it. In a home so magnificently comfortable it supports a harp, unashamedly, without embarrassment, right in the middle of the drawing room. With a good wife, a yappy dog and a maid that makes the best cherry pie in the West.

He's out of his chair again and pacing. A new thought. His twill riding breeches rub with a rustle. His high black boots squeak on the faded print rug.

"Now, what about Connally?" he asks himself.

He means John Connally, former Democratic governor of Texas, friend of Lyndon Johnson and now serving President Nixon as secretary only because he'd be good at the job.

"No one can tell me Connally was named Treasury secretary only because he'd be good at the job. There's something else behind it." The old man's hands ram into his back pockets. "I'll tell you what I think. I think Nixon knows he needs Texas in the next election. I think he knows Connally can get Texas for him." Another pause. More pacing. "And you know Lyndon Johnson had to agree to the whole thing." Landon sits down. Takes a breath. "I think it's possible that Nixon has picked Connally to be his next vice-president. And if he has, it'll be a master stroke. What will the Democrats come back with then?"

HE TALKS, the old man, late into the evening. Analyzing, adding up, subtracting. He tells his stories slow, using names of the famous. "Say," he interrupts himself from time to time, "you want another drink?" A loser? Not Alf Landon. As he crosses his legs in front of him and lazily closes his eyes, he says: "I've been blessed with everything I ever wanted — well, almost anyway."

BBB Warns Homeowners On Phony Improvements

Chicago area homeowners, particularly senior citizens, were recently warned by the Better Business Bureau to take caution in contracting for home improvements.

"This is the time of year," said Earl R. Lind, president of BBB/Chicago, "when itinerant repairmen, glib door-to-door salesmen and hard-sell mail order firms descend on unsuspecting homeowners."

Lind said recent complaints verify that their specialties include roofing, gutters, driveways, chimneys, siding, "miracle" paint, car ports, patios, window frames, "fast-growing" shade trees, termite control, furnace inspection, and lightning protection devices.

"These are highly proficient confidence men who came completely armed with temptatious bargains, tricky financing, poor performance, inferior materials, and phony promises," Lind asserted.

The BBB president said con men should not be confused with representatives of reputable firms, and urged homeowners to please check with BBB before contracting for any kind of work to be done by firms or individuals unknown to them.

"IN DEALING with these itinerants," Lind said, "the only thing the homeowner can be certain of is the bill. It will be higher than quoted and, once paid, the traveling fix-it man disappears."

Lind, whose bureau provides more than 1,000 instances of service daily to consumers and businessmen in the metropolitan Chicago area, advised homeowners to:

1. Be skeptical when a man rings the bell and says he just happened to be passing by with his home repair equipment or gardening supplies.
2. Double check so-called bargain offers before committing themselves.
3. Obtain price quotations from established firms on all landscaping or home improvements.

4. Make certain you understand all written agreements and contracts before signing.
5. Be sure the firm or person you are doing business with has an address and telephone.

6. Pay only by check or money order rather than cash.
7. Check the company or individual with BBB if it is unknown to you. This information is offered without charge. BBB/Chicago is located at 430 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

West Grad Lee LaBadie Covers Mile In 3:58.8!

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Lee LaBadie, a former Maine West High track star who is now at the University of Illinois, became the first undergraduate in the history of the Big 10 to run a mile under four minutes with a 3:58.8 clocking in a dual meet Tuesday.

Running against Southern Illinois University in a dual meet at Carbondale, La-

LEE LABADIE
Magic Moment

Badie led from the outset to the finish line to break the four-minute barrier.

He was pushed by Southern Illinois' Dave Hill who finished second in 4:01.9 and by Illinois' Rick Gross who was third in 4:02.6.

Illinois track coach Bob Wright said of LaBadie's performance, "Lee's mile was beautiful to watch. He has accomplished one of his goals in track and field. He's done it through outstanding dedication, extremely fine physical conditioning and a burning desire to excel. If more athletes had his attitude, there would be a lot more sub-four minute milers.

"I know he was running a good race," Wright went on, "but I'll admit I forgot to put my stopwatch on him at the start of it. It was an excellent race and he had the help of an outstanding track and field audience. They cheered for him the whole final lap and really brought him home with enthusiasm. For 99 per cent of the crowd, it was their first three-minute mile, too."

Actually, LaBadie did not plan to attempt to break the four minute barrier Tuesday.

"I talked to one of my former track boys at Carbondale," said Maine West track coach Joe Jobst, "and he said that all Lee planned to do was run a race good enough to beat that boy Hill from Southern.

"Lee's original plans were to break four minutes in the Big 10 meet. But I guess that boy from Southern pushed him under the barrier."

LaBadie ran his first quarter in 60.0 and after a second 44.0 yards of 63.0, it appeared that the sub-four minute mile was to come on another day.

But the 5-9, 135-pounder poured on the steam and ran the third quarter in 58.3 and the final lap in 57.5.

According to Illinois' assistant sports information director Jim Flynn, LaBadie's first quarter was his third best he had run this season, his second quarter was his third best, his third quarter was his fastest ever and his final lap was his fifth best.

"Since his 57.5 last lap was only his fifth best," Flynn said, "it has to make you think that he can run the mile even faster than 3:58.8."

LaBadie's Tuesday time breaks his own Illinois school record of 4:00.4 which he set a couple of weeks ago in the Kansas Relays. Before the Kansas Relays, LaBadie's best clocking was 4:04.4, also a school record.

Jim Bowers held the record before LaBadie came on the scene at Illinois, with Bowers' mark being 4:11.1.

LaBadie's 3:58.8 will not go into the Big 10 record books since all Big 10 records must be set in the Big 10 meet.

The Big 10 championships will be held May 28-29 at Iowa City. The conference record is 4:03.6, held by John Cordes of Wisconsin.

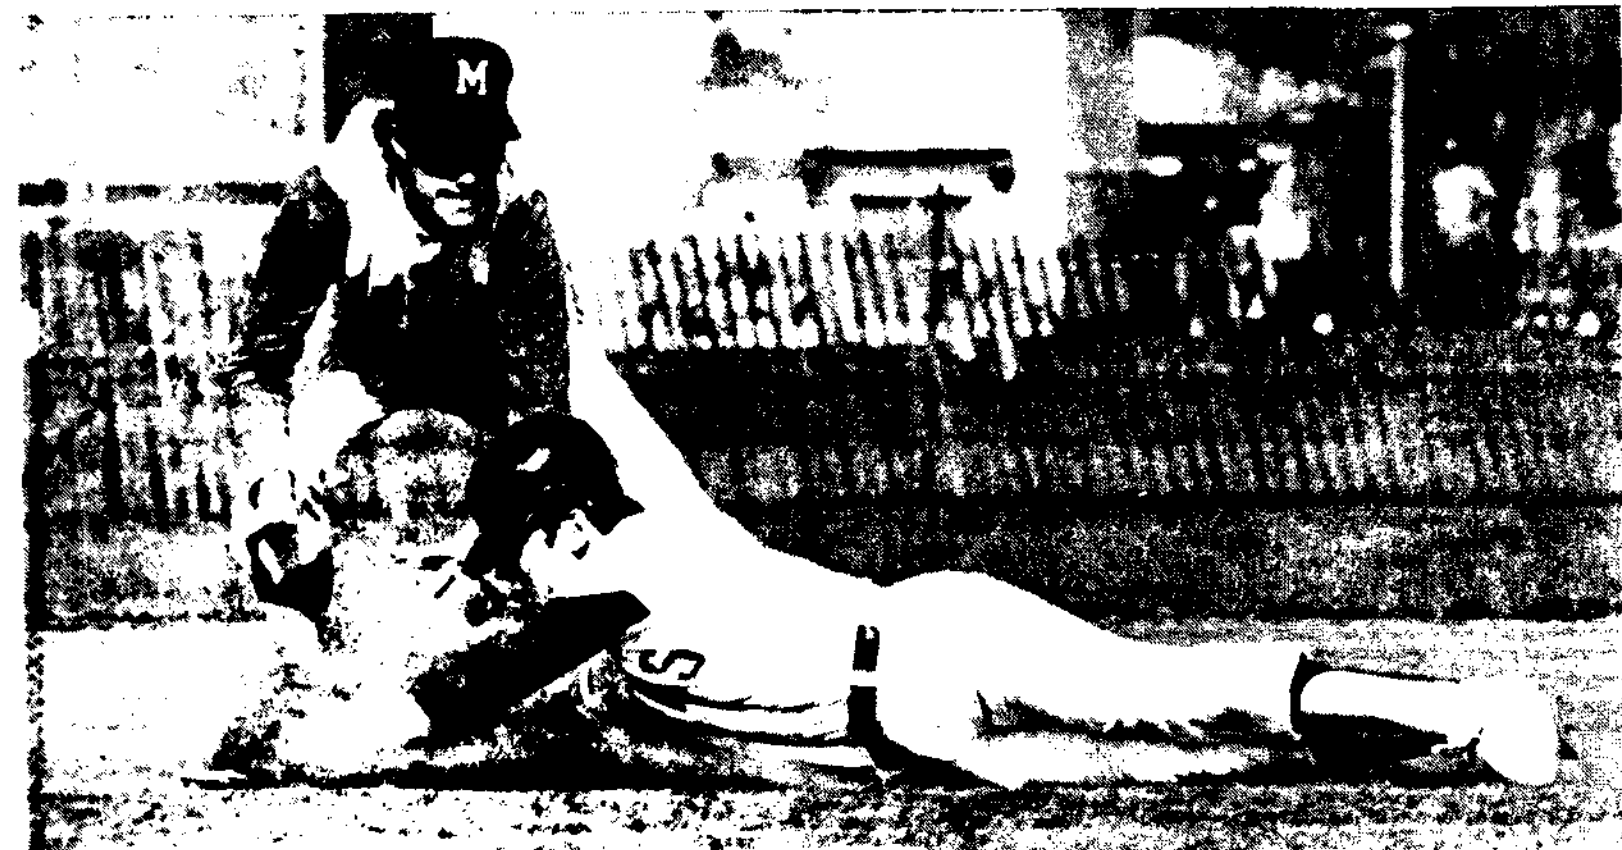

The Maine West grad will have two opportunities to prepare for the Big 10 meet when he competes in a dual meet against Ohio State this Saturday at Champaign. The scheduled time for the mile is 12:15 p.m.

LaBadie will also compete in the Illinois Intercollegiate Championships on Saturday, May 22, at Southern Illinois.

To further exemplify LaBadie's talents, an hour after running the sub-four minute mile he came back on the track to win the 880-yard run with an outstanding 1:51.0 clocking.

Saxons Dump Maine North

Schaumburg's doubles units came on strong to help carry the Saxons to a 3-2 tennis triumph over Maine North in another battle of the brand new schools Tuesday.

Maine's doubles teams could collect only four game points all told after the Norsemen singles units had built up a 3-2 edge in team scoring. Schaumburg's Rich Reese and Paul Cord made easy work of Tim Tynan and Gunderson in the second doubles fray 6-0, 6-1 while Dale Fenwick and Randy Madon were emerging with a 6-0, 6-3 victory over Lee Brenner and Ed Legatowicz in the number one doubles contest.

Maine North netted decisions from Greg Polan at second singles 6-2, 6-3 over Harvey Schariou and at third singles from John Haskell over Larry Willer by a 7-5, 6-1 count. But the Saxons earned the decisive pointage when Bill Hommowin felled Bob Rashkow at first singles 7-5, 6-3.

Schaumburg also won the frosh-soph meeting, 4-1.

Glenbrook South Tips West Golfers

Despite a fine 38 by Gary Navratil, Maine West's golf team lost to Glenbrook South 159-167 in a Central Suburban League meet Monday.

Other scores for the Warriors were Randy Getala's 40, Jim Krumpolz' 42 and Tom Dorsey's 47.

Talisman Village, VIP Off To Fast Start

by BILL MCCARTY

Talisman Village and VIP Studios staked claim on Maine-Northfield Little League's National major division as their season opened last week. VIP downed Shore American Motors 6 to 3 behind the pitching of Paul Bartolotta aided by doubles from Don Fawcett and Randy Pfundheller.

The VIP's second win was a 4 to 1 defeat of Pellegrini Signs and featured Kerry Field who, on the mound, gave up one run. The Pellegrini lone run came when Sam Halpin scored on Duane Cooper's single. Some exceptionally notable defensive plays were made by Pellegrini's shortstop Lou Gerlach.

Talisman Village became a contender after routing DeVille Plumbing 15 to 2 and being awarded a decision on a technical forfeit. Steve Lubelfeld took the win against DeVille and was backed up by a triple by Alan Teicher, a double by Peter Bone, and a pair of doubles of his own. Alan Marcus tripled and Russ Karlins doubled for the losers.

The second win for the Villagers resulted from a forfeit on the part of Jonson Sporting Goods and was a heart-breaker for the Sportsmen's Jamie Humenski who had shut out Talisman, struck out 13 and hit the major's first home run of the season and a double. The forfeit was the result of a Johnson error in the batting order and violates a special MNLL rule established to guarantee that every boy has an opportunity to play and bat in every game he is present for.

Humenski came back with another home run in Johnson's second outing and his blast, coupled with doubles by Jeff Barenson and Jerry Mendralla, helped Bob Machon on the mound in an 11 to 1 win over Shore American Motors. Machon also doubled. David Kay scored the Americans lone run on a single by Wayne Comancho.

The National division's opening game last week was a 3 to 2 victory for Pellegrini Signs over DeVille Plumbing. John Maly was credited with the win and taking honors for the RBIs were Tim Kelley with two and Bert Levinson with one. For the losers, Russ Karlins had three singles. Mike Stone, Howard Ostrinsky and Danny Bucaro each had one.

In the American Major division, George's Fix-All 66 took first place with an 11 to 6 victory over Domestic Utilities and a 12 to 5 win over Zweig's restaurant. Jim Dash was the winning pitcher against Domestic and was helped by extra base hits from Randy Weingarten who batted in three runs with a double, triple and single; Dave Pink's double and Jeff Weschler's single. Jeff Willner doubled in a run for Domestic as did Mike Nauert and Billy Factor. Steve Chase and Guy Steinbrink each singled in a run for the losers.

Against Zweig's, the winning pitcher was Mark Malter, who also had two hits, one a double, and drove in two runs. Steve Levy also saw mound duty with the winners and Dale Sylvan hit a bases loaded double for three RBIs. Jim Dash and Randy Weingarten each had two doubles and Jeff Wechsler collected two hits.

Credited with the first home run in the American division is the loser's Mike Zweig who drove in a runner ahead of him. Alan Steifel tripled, Dave Yanow had two hits including a triple, and Scot Richmond, Alan Long and Dave Handmacher all collected hits for the losers. Notable fielding plays were made by Mike Zweig, Marc Smith and Randy Weingarten, who played fine defensive ball in both games.

Yorktown-Sertoma split for the week, being downed 7 to 1 by Domestic Utilities and defeating Schek's Hot Dog 4 to 1. Alan Willner and Steve Chase shared mound honors for Domestic. At bat, Gary Schawel tripled, Steve Kaplan doubled and drove in three runs, and Willner doubled. Schawel and Billy Factor each singled. Yorktown's Steve Rehaut, playing first, made an unassisted double play. He also had a double as did teammate Steve Buckman. Ricky Orlowski singled.

Terry Levin was the winning pitcher over Schek's and he also hit a double. Ricky Orlowski tripled, Dave Buckman and Steve Rehaut doubled. For Schek's, Gary Silver doubled and Mike Paulson and Glen Pearson singled.

In the only other American action, Zweig's edged out Torium Insurance 5 to 4 with Bob Polizzi getting a home run and Dennis Sheahan and Mike Zweig each getting doubles.

Loochan Insurance beat Dash Texaco 14 to 7 in the minor division with pitching honors shared by Mike Rozanski and Billy London. Larry Malestic drove in three runs; Rozanski, one; Barry Brownstein, two; Mike Mermel, two; Gary Tuchman, four and Howard Kaufman and Bob Wakeli, each one. London hit two doubles and Tuchman had one. For Dash's, Danny Travis doubled; Eric Toriumi doubled and drove in two; Dan Kelley had two doubles and 3 RBIs; Bill Fawcett, Mark Gray, Billy Rogan and Mark Lerner all singled.

Yorktown-Sertoma shut off the Light Factory 21 to 3 with Reid Steifel the winning pitcher. Outstanding at the plate were Tim O'Keefe with two triples and five RBIs and Barry Chaplik whose two singles drove in four runs. Other hits came from Robbie Schindler, Steifel and Brad Lauer.

Dave Panicko starred on the mound and doubled with the bases loaded to lead Mission and White Construction in a 16 to 15 victory over Glenbrook Insurance. John Burke also doubled for the victors. Jeff Rappaport was the winning pitcher when the House of Schiller downed Glenview Countryside Merchants 16 to 9.

Maine South Topples West, 4-1

The No. 1 doubles team of Doug Lauffenburger and Rick Neetz recorded the only Maine West victory as the Warriors lost to Maine South 4-1 in a Central Suburban League meet on the winner's courts.

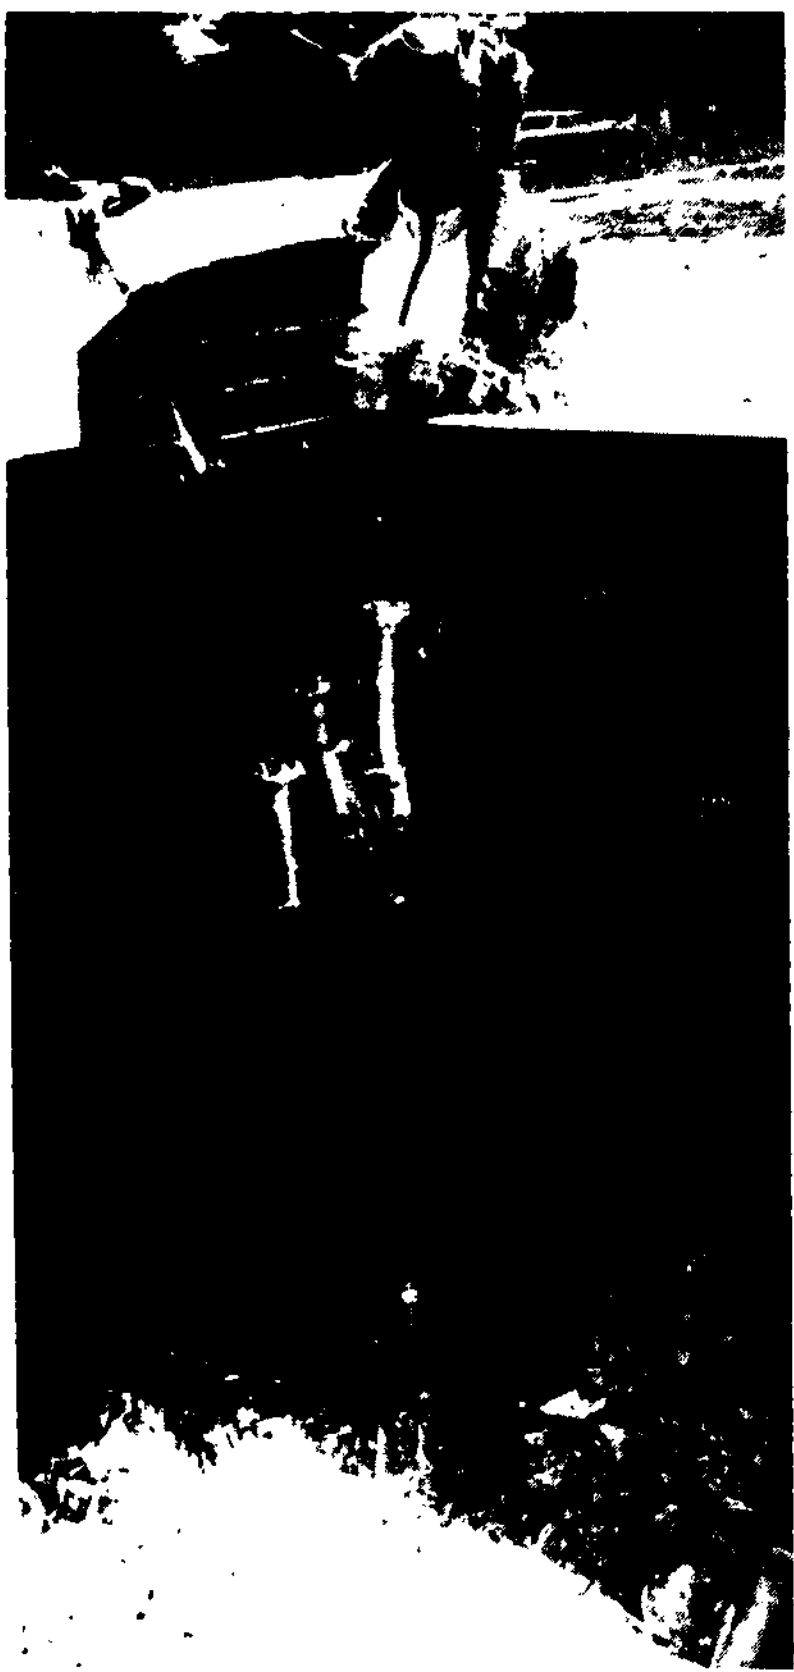

Lauffenburger and Neetz won 6-4, 4-5 and 6-2.

Steve Jackson lost to Dave Littell 6-1 and 6-1 in No. 1 singles. Jon Richards lost 6-1 and 6-2 to Larry Barry in No. 2 singles and Jon Ferraiolo lost 6-1 and 6-3 in No. 3 singles to Mike Davis. In No. 2 doubles, John Anderson and Mark Domrowski lost 6-1 and 6-4.

With the victory over Maine West in tennis, Maine South continued its domination over Warrior athletic teams, losing to Maine West in cross country but winning every other event this school year.

In the frosh-soph meet, Maine South won 3-2.

GLASS OVERBOARD. Mrs. James McFeggan, Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) recycling chairman, dumps vigil lights into a receptacle at her home, area drop-off center for cans, newspapers and glass.

Mrs. Alice McFeggan

Serious About Recycling

by MARY B. GOOD

Mrs. James McFeggan of Rolling Meadows has been an ecology worker for 22 years. You might call her the first of the red hot recyclers.

Wife of the city public works director, Alice McFeggan has now turned her garage at 2404 Dove into a recycling center.

Since last December more than 12,000 pounds of glass and 24,000 pounds of newspaper have whistle-stopped through Alice's garage on their way to the recycling plants.

You can take anything you want to Alice's big garage. Newspapers, glass, cans — one lady, a church sacristan, regularly favors Alice with a load of no-deposit, no-return vigil lights. A cocktail waitress who brings home liquor bottles is one of Alice's regular recyclers. Alice also gets donations from a local afternoon card party group. The rules of the house dictate nobody plays unless they bring along recyclables as the price of admission to the card game.

ALICE, the recycling chairman of the Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) ecology group, has already organized six Rolling Meadows youth groups who are continually on the lookout for collectibles.

(The youth of the Community Church and Trinity Lutheran Church and Cub Pack 180 collect glass and paper. Girl Scout Troop 161 and the Rolling Meadows Campfire Girls collect glass, and Cub Scouts of Pack 68 are the tin can men. Pack 68 recently collected 4,200 pounds of cans in the first tin can drive in Illinois, a pilot program to determine the need of a permanent drop-off planned for this metropolitan area.)

After June 1, Alice is setting up a phone-a-pickup service for people who are unable to drive or otherwise get their recyclables to her garage. The pickup service was the brainchild of Alice's son, James Jr., 16, who does all of the accounting, preparing of the glass as it arrives, and moving it out once or twice a week.

JAMES AND SEVERAL others, Steve Havlik, 12, from Kimball Hill School; Randy Selig, 15, who attends Elk Grove High and Steve Eberhard, 15, of Forest View High School, all Rolling Meadows young people, are the manpower behind the operation. Right now the boys are building shelves to facilitate storage.

Alice said that most people — often strangers — who come to drop off their recyclables are most considerate. She has never experienced people driving by and tossing a bag of glass or cans on her lawn, as other recyclers sometimes have.

THE ONLY THING Alice runs into are people who occasionally fail to prepare their items. This they can do by removing labels from glass and cans, and removing metal rings from twist-off cap bottles.

On any day, Alice can be found immersed in a sink full of dishwater. If she's not elbow deep washing and removing labels from bottles, she's probably in the garage pulling off aluminum rings with a pliers or adjusting her safety glasses as she breaks glass for easy storage.

Some might say that Alice's job is unglamorous. But without people like Alice, the recycling movement would stop dead. Many groups in the area that are working hard to recycle solid waste and fight pollution owe their initial thrust to Alice. She's helped launch more recycling drives than she'd care to mention.

EVENTUALLY ALICE hopes to put herself out of business. She wants recycling to be taken over by the municipalities. "People would simply sort their garbage into glass, paper, cans, old coffee pots and other aluminum appliances for smelting, cardboard, and kitchen wastes for composting. The city would then pick up each group of wastes and take them to the appropriate recycling areas," she suggested.

"Things are moving in that direction," Alice said, "with many public works departments and village disposal service trucks cooperating in sporadic drive efforts." (In Des Plaines, the city itself is responsible for taking glass to the recycling plant from the three fire stations that serve as collection points.)

In the meantime Alice of Rolling Meadows is taking "donations" from anyone in the northwest suburbs who cares to bring her cans, paper or glass. The money she gets is earmarked for the various groups she assists — scouts, church groups, PEP and others (Glass-recycling paid for publication of a PEP handbook, "Cash for Trash: Tips on Organizing Your Recycling Drive.")

ALICE'S NEXT major workout is the PEP recycling-in, called "The Crud Crisis," set for 2 p.m. next Sunday (May 16) at the Rolling Meadows Fire Station. Since the price of admission to the teach-in is a donation of crud (newspapers, glass or cans for recycling), Alice will probably need a truck to haul away her windfall.

If nobody offers the use of a truck, Alice may just wind up with a "crud crisis" of her own.

If the Thursday Nighters Club only had the support of the community... If only they had more volunteers... More money...

Every group has similar growth struggles when they first get started, but Thursday Nighters are especially poignant. There is a social club for persons recently discharged from Elgin State Hospital.

The purpose is to help prevent their going back.

The club makes the adjustment to the outside world easier for people who may have been at Elgin a long time. It is supposed to help the wives or husbands of former patients adjust too.

SEVERAL OF THE MEMBERS live at Abington House in Roselle or Catherine Memorial in Palatine. Volunteers pick them up and bring them to the meeting, where they play shuffleboard, cards or visit with friends from Elgin.

Thursday Nighters may not seem like the Playboy Club, but it is a recreation vehicle, often the highlight in a colorless existence. (Released from a typical state institution with its lackluster monotony and peeling paint, people often go back to the same environment that produced psychological problems in the first place.) Thursday Nighters provides a lifeline to continued good mental health, social experience in average living.

At a recent meeting the group was planning activities for the summer. "How about a day at the race track?" someone suggested. "A trip to Cantigny? The flowers are gorgeous there!" "Who's seen 'Love Story'? We'll pop our own popcorn!" "Anyone interested in a campfire roast?"

A SOCIAL WORKER from Elgin attends the meetings informally, a professional but still a 'regular guy.'

When the state reorganized living quarters at Elgin, they placed all the northwest suburban residents in one housing unit. This made the formation of the club a natural extension of the Elgin facility. Local volunteers, especially churchwomen, formed this club to help local residents.

The group meets on the first and third Thursday of the month in the Rolling Meadows Fire Station. Volunteers, who now include people from Schaumburg, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove, make an effort not to be distinguishable from the patients. They provide refreshments, transportation and a genuine feeling of warmth and camaraderie.

President of the volunteers is Ruth Keller of Elk Grove Village, vivacious and red-haired. Al Jordan of the Rolling Meadows Bowl is another volunteer. He and his wife — she taught the patients crocheting — used to go to Elgin to help before Thursday Nighters was "born" last November.

"ONCE WE GET this thing going," said Jordan, "we're hoping that it will be a patient-run organization. This will help the people most of all."

Why would a businessman care about helping former mental patients stay healthy?

"It reminds me of the old-time community spirit, where neighbors helped neighbors. It's a humanizing, personal relationship," he said.

More "Al Jordans" are needed to make Thursday Nighters a treat, not a treatment.

Casting Is Key To Success

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Expert casting and acting were the two basic ingredients that whipped "Another Part of the Forest" now at the Ivanhoe Theatre, into a success.

Directed by George Keathley, Lillian Hellman's drama set in Alabama, 1880, focuses on the explosive interactions of members of a southern family.

Individual personalities are in extreme conflict, raging war against one another in a common mercenary greed.

Tyrant Marcus Hubbard exhibited no scruples in financially feeding off the Civil War while his neighbors desperately fought for southern dignity and went broke.

His sons despise him, yet are quick to obey his every command. A thirst for money exceeds everything.

THE APPLE OF HIS eye, Marcus' daughter is selfish and cunning. She knows how to turn on her charm, fooling even her father who looks upon her as the shining example of beauty and innocence.

And while all despise their father, they are also quick to turn on one another. It is this hatred so deeply entrenched into the Hubbard household that has turned Marcus' wife, Lavinia, into a broken-hearted woman, labeled crazy by her family and ordered about as a simple servant.

In the role of the older son, Benjamin, as star of the show, is John Saxon, best known as Dr. Ted Stuart on the television series, "The Bold Ones." Soave and sophisticated to all outward appearances, Benjamin is in fact, quite ruthless. He hates what his father stands for, yet does his every bidding, planning the day when he will rule the family fortune.

DARLING DAUGHTER Regina Hubbard is played by Harriet Hall of Des Plaines. Her hardened facial expression blossoming into smiles when she needs someone to do something for her is the key to the entire success of her performance. Regina knows how to use people and does so repeatedly without any remorse.

Head of the household, Marcus Hubbard, is played by Larry Gates. Cynical and ill tempered, he shows no affection for anyone but his daughter whom he feels openly worships him. Marcus has built his fortune on the misfortunes of others upon which he openly feeds.

Lavinia has withdrawn into her own little shell. She cannot condone the ruthlessness that goes on beneath her roof and so is forsaken and pushed aside by her husband and ungrateful offspring. Yet beneath her simpleness lies the real truth. Nancy Coleman is outstanding and captures perfectly the unhappiness Lavinia is forced to live daily.

THE FAMILY IS MADE complete by a cocky low intelligent son, Oscar. Played by Mark Lamos, Oscar continually adds a comic flavor to the family.

The extreme concentration required of theatergoers to become involved with the characters at the beginning of the three-act play pays off as Lillian Hellman's drama gradually reveals the interactions of a brooding spiteful family.

The concert scene opening the second act exemplifies the dry humor, characterization and well-written dialog that prevail throughout the play. From a comic vein, the scene changes slowly but deliberately into one highly explosive dramatic moment.

My one disappointment is the ending. It appears somewhat tacky and much too abrupt. It is a highly charged scene when Marcus Hubbard's hierarchy begins to crumble. The final moment should be one of extreme seriousness, not amusement as it is played.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy Someone put a small cheese glass inside one of my cut glass tumblers. I have been unable to separate them. I've tried glycerine and a cola drink with no luck. Do you have any suggestion? —Mrs. S.M.C.

While some readers have reported luck with putting a few drops of glycerine or household ammonia between the two pieces of glass the simple method used by most people is to put the outside glass in hot water and put cold water in the inner one. This is done to have the outside glass expand and the inner glass contract. By all the laws of science, this should always work.

Dear Dorothy Those mothers who want to protect their children from a pair of scissors but yet want scissors handy might appreciate this hint I learned from my fabric shop. Get a drawer or cabinet handle from the hardware store and attach it by screws high on a pantry closet or cabinet wall, then slip the scissors down in it. This way they are always handy yet much safer than in a drawer in which children can rummage. —Mrs. C.T. Ashley, III.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Padlock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

ANTHONY NEWLEY and Buddy Hackett open together at Mill Run Theater in Niles next Tuesday, May 18, and continue through Sunday, May 30. Tickets, 298-3730.

Recycle Glass At Randhurst

"Ecology Day at Randhurst" is set for Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. with a glass recycling project sponsored by the Wieboldt's Fashion Advisory Board.

The young people got the idea for the anti-pollution project from "Seventeen Magazine Acts for Viable Environment."

The girls from the Randhurst Wieboldt's will be assisted on the project by 30 girls from the Yorktown Wieboldt's Fashion Board.

Flying pennants will mark location of the drop-off bins on the northwest and southeast corners of the Randhurst parking lot.

The girls' goal will be a once-a-month collection if Saturday's project is a success. Money from the ecology program will be recycled back into the program.

AREA RESIDENTS wishing to bring glass for recycling are asked to wash the glass and remove any metal lids or metal rings on pop bottle necks. They are also asked to separate glass into colors, and drive up to the locations where it will be unloaded.

The girls from the Wieboldt's Fashion

Board went to the Ball Glass Co. in Mundelein recently to watch the recycling plant's operation so they could answer questions about recycling on ecology day.
